School Election March 7

The board of education passed unanimously Tuesday afternoon a resolution authorizing a $1,350,000 bond election March 7.

Passage of the bond issue will require a yes vote by a two thirds majority. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Charles Matthews, school board secretary, prepared the resolution and explained that the R-6 district has a bonding capacity of $2,076,056.11 based on the legal limit of 10 per cent of the assessed valuation of property.

The outstanding bond indebtedness now is about $680,000, Matthews said.

Voters in the district who lives in New Madrid county will vote at the Southwest School. Other polling places will be announced in a legal notice to be published in the Daily Standard Saturday and Feb. 25.

The bond issue would authorize building a new elementary school, additions to school buildings and remodeling.

The resolution did not mention which buildings will be added, but previous announcements stated that plans are underway for a new elementary school in the southeast section of the district, a new field house, additions to the math and science department of the high school, enlargement of the library and cafetorium at the high school and additions to vocational education buildings.

The plans to shift sixth grade pupils into junior high school and ninth grade pupils into the high school will be accomplished next year regardless of the result of the bond issue election, Dr. A. D. Martin, board president said.

City to Charge Miner $150 for Fire Calls

The city has informed officials of Miner that a contract is being prepared to have Miner reimburse Sikeston $150 for each fire call response there.

Firemen have been responding to calls in Miner and assessing a $50 charge to persons having fire insurance. The $50 was paid by the insurance companies.

In the contract the city of Miner would be obligated to pay for fire calls.

Miner representatives will be given 30 days to sign the contract, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said.

If they fail to enter into contract the city will cut fire service to Miner, Miller said.

In a letter addressed to L. F. Wheeler, mayor of Miner, Miller stated:

"The city of Sikeston, after consideration of many factors such as investment costs, maintenance costs, liability, growth and similar community operations, feels that certain policy changes are necessary to the continuance of extension of fire protection service beyond our city limits.

"We feel that since our protection facilities are provided and supported soley by the property owners within Sikeston, then the city of Miner, should pay the cost of fire protection facilities when used within the city of Miner.

"We conservatively estimate the cost of our existing fire protection facilities and equipment at $200,000. The annual cost of operation is approximately $30,000 and our present rate of growth indicates additional facilities will be necessary in the near future.

"Amortizing (writing off) our investment over 25 years, plus the annual operating cost reveals that each fire call responded to last year cost in excess of $150.

"In view of these facts, we are willing to continue to provide fire protection service to Miner. However, we feel obligated to insist the city of Miner reimburse the city of Sikeston, a proportionate share of the cost of facilities and service.

"In checking with other communities, we find that a commonly used procedure is for the city having fire protection facilities, to contract with adjacent communities desiring use of the facilities.

"Accordingly, we have asked our city attorney to prepare a contract, wherein the city of Miner would reimburse the city of Sikeston $150 for each response to a fire within the corporate limits of Miner. Upon execution of the contract by the officials of Miner, and Sikeston, extension of the fire protection services into Miner would be resumed."

Wheeler said today that he had not read the letter but had heard of its contents.

"It sounds as if they are being neighborly and we appreciate their thoughts," he said.

The matter will be studied and taken before the council before any action is taken.

The Chamber of Commerce has made overtures recently to Miner for annexation to Sikeston.

CIA Reportedly Aids Other Youth Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Central Intelligence Agency has supplied millions of dollars in secret financial support to at least three youth organizations in addition to the National Student Association, the Evening Star reported today.

The State Department acknowledged Tuesday that the government's top espionage and intelligence agency had for more than a decade financed operations abroad by the NSA, the nation's largest college student organization.

But the reported CIA support of the other three groups had not previously been disclosed The Star identified the organizations as:

—The U.S Youth Council, a confederation of 36 political, religious, student and service youth groups with headquarters in New York.

—The World Assembly of Youth, a confederation of national youth groups from 54 Western and nonaligned nations. It is headquartered in Brussels, Belgium.

—The International Student Conference of Leiden, Netherlands, a similar confederation of about 60 national student organizations from Western and non-aligned nations.

The newspaper said CIA funds for those organizations, totaling millions of dollars over more than a decade, were channelled through foundations. It identified the principal donor to NSA and the three other groups as the Foundation for Youth and Student Affairs in New York.

The CIA had no immediate comment on the Star story.

The NSA's supervisory board was meeting today to consider what to do about the organization's relationship with the CIA.

The report of additional CIA support came amid protests and demands in Congress for a prompt investigation of the agency's ties with NSA.

In another development, the New York Times said President Johnson intervened in the controversy and instructed the CIA Tuesday to close out all secret programs of aid to student groups. A White House spokesman denied the report.

The current director of the Foundation for Youth and Student Affairs, Harry Lunn, is a former NSA president, the Star said. It quoted him as saying his group was "not a CIA front."

Within the four organizations, the Star article said, the members carried on a limited amount of intelligence work for the CIA. Confidential reports from overseas representatives and similar reports on foreign student or youth leaders visiting the United States would be forwarded to the agency, it added.

The NSA and the U.S. Youth Council have both domestic and international programs, while the World Assembly of Youth and the International Student Conference devote their efforts almost entirely to competing with youth groups behind the Iron Curtain, the Star said.

Eight House Democrats Tuesday urged an inquiry "at the highest level" into the CIA's support - estimated at $200,000 a year during most of the past decade—of NSA, a 1.3-million member group with affiliations at 300 campuses. The undercover relationship was broken off at the request of NSA.

Sam Brown, chairman of NSA's supervisory board - which has scheduled an emergency meeting for today - said Tuesday night it "comes as a shock" to find the board was "only the policy-making body on the secondary level."

Asked who was the top policy-making body, he said: "The CIA."

The Washington Post quoted an unidentified NSA official today as saying, "Every year the CIA picked out a man or two that it could trust and told them about the undercover funding" of NSA. The source said some of these young men later joined the CIA, often acting as liaison agents to the student group.

16 to Vie for Award

Sixteen teachers have been nominated for the outstanding young educator award, Jim Sickal, project chairman, said today.

The contest is sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to spotlight achievement and dedication of professional educators between 21 and 35. Nominees have taught three or more years in the Sikeston school system.

A screening committee of school administrators and teachers made the 16 nominations. Anyone in Sikeston may nominate a teacher for the award by contacting Sickal at Box 805, or by calling GR 1-1000.

Teachers nominated are Neysa Aeschlimann, Wilma April, Gordon Beaver, Norman Lambert, Barbara Macke, Richard Powell and Norman Woods, all of the High School.

Junior High School nominees are Joan Grant and Murray Sullivan. Elementary teachers nominated are Charlotte Johnson, Mary Murphy, Jackie Grant, Barbara Havis, Ida Fulton, Glenn Jones and Mary Ann Schreckenberg.

Nominees will be judged by a panel of civic leaders and the winner will be honored at an awards banquet, presented a certificate and a $50 savings bond.

The winner will be selected during February. His name will be entered in state competition.

Mrs. Powell To Testify

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —Adam Claytoon Powell's estranged third wife flew to the United States today from Puerto Rico and said she would cooperate with the House investigation of her husband.

"I think it's my duty," Y. Majorie Flores Powell told reporters after landing in Miami for a stopover before going to Washington.

Wearing a red knit dress and a black fur coat, she said she had not seen her husband for more than a year.

Asked if she knew Corrine A. Huff, Powell's 25-year-old former beauty queen secretary, Mrs. Powell said.

"I don't want to talk about her."

Mrs. Powell said she did not know she was wanted for questioning in the House investigation until she read about it in a newspaper. She was accompanied by her lawyer, Reinaldo Paniagua, and a U.S. marshal from Puerto Rico.

She said she was served with a subpoena Monday at her lawyer's office, then allowed to go home and make arrangements for her 4-year-old son, Adam.

With only eight days left until it must report to the House whether the New York Congressman is entitled to take his seat, a select House investigating committee is trying to decipher the purpose and activities of Huff Enterprises Ltd., a Bahamian corporation that does business from Powell's office.

Its president is Miss Huff.

Driver Falls Dead at Wheel of His Truck

A Madison county man apparently died of a heart attack at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday while driving his 1960 Chevrolet pickup truck on South Main street in Fredericktown.

The brake lights of the truck, driven by Clyde Hanks, 58, Millcreek rural, flashed on, the vehicle veered to the right and went through a fence. When witnesses approached the truck they found Hanks slumped over dead.

The body was taken to the Wilson Funeral Home in Fredericktown, and then transferred to the Hoffman Funeral Home in St. Louis.

Two East Prairians were treated at the Missouri Delta Community hospital for injuries, suffered in a collision, on highway 77, one and one-half miles south of Charleston Tuesday at 1:40 p.m.. during a dust storm.

A 1967 Ford pickup truck, driven by Donnie Faye French, 9, East Prairie, was struck in the rear, by a 1966 International tractor-trailer, driven by Daniel Eugene True, 17, East Prairie. Poor visibility was blamed.

Injured in the French truck were Wanda Lee Mooreland, 42, East Prairie, with cuts on her head, and a concussion. Joyce Faye Mooreland, age five weeks, had possible internal injuries.

In a two-car collision Tuesday at 9:45 p.m. on route 61, six miles south of Sikeston, a 1966 Ford, driven by William Buck, 18, Chaffee, was struck by a 1965 Buick, driven by Kermit Pyatt, 55, Sikeston. Buck started to pull off one side of the highway, and then turned off the other side. His car was struck in the rear by the Buick.

No one was injured.

Jets Use Clear Skies To Strike Viet North

SAIGON, South Vietnam AP -- U. S. jet pilots raced through on North Vietnam, screened through much of the winter by monsoon clouds.

A Tass dispatch in Moscow said squadrons flew over Hanoi and bombed and strafed "economic targets and populated areas in the provinces neighboring on Hanoi."

The U.S. Command, which ordinarily conducts briefings on air operations the day after they take place, declined to comment on the Soviet news agency's report. Tass, in a dispatch from Hanoi, said the Americans sped over Hanoi at noon and "heavy antiaircraft guns and bursts of rocket fire shook the sky."

Aground, South Korean marines reported victory in the biggest battle in recent months in Vietnam. They said they killed 243 North Vietnamese regulars in a three-hour fight through rice paddies about 340 miles northeast of Saigon.

In the Mekong Delta south of Saigon, Vietnamese authorities reported a combined army-ranger unit killed 56 Viet Cong in a pitched battle Tuesday. But in the Long Tau River -- the main shipping channel into Saigon -- 14 American sailors were wounded and one was missing when guerrillas sank one 80-foot U.S. minesweeper, badly damaged two others and fired on a fourth.

A Korean spokesman said two companies of Korean marines — about 400 men —took moderate casualties in the big battle this morning against an estimated 1,200 North Vietnamese attackers. The Koreans were

Kosygin Reportedly Urged Ho to Halt Buildup

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin urged North Vietnam's Communist rulers in vain to halt the flow of troops and arms to South Vietnam as one essential step to ensure peace talks, diplomatic informants said today.

These sources said the Soviet leader's advice made plain Hanoi's action — or even a promise of it — would be balanced by a guaranteed American military standoff.

The failure of President Ho Chi Minh's regime to respond positively and swiftly to Kosygin's prompting led to the resumption of American air raids on North Vietnam Monday, and thus to the failure of intensive Soviet-British peacemaking efforts during Kosygin's visit to Britain last week, the sources said.

Yet Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his key advisers apparently still hope North Vietnam's rulers may halt, or promise to halt, the dispatch of military reinforcements to South Vietnam and that this will activate an agreed Soviet-British peacemaking program.

Wilson told the House of Commons Tuesday:

"There is an initiative . . . a plan that I can't tell you about which could bring peace tomorrow and which requires a very small move to activate all the very complicated machinery that could bring us to peace."

The British also seem to be convinced, on the basis of what Kosygin has told them, that two of the chief factors behind Hanoi's failure to respond probably were these:

1. There are now around 100,000 North Vietnamese troops across the frontier operating in support of the Viet Cong. President Ho plainly does not want to leave them high and dry. Yet Kosygin is understood to have stressed that any cutoff of military supplies need not deprive them of food or material supplies.

2. There are now also about 100,000 Red Chinese in North Vietnam whose main mission seems to be to stiffen Hanoi's resistance against anything that Peking would regard as a retreat.

Wilson and Foreign Secretary George Brown reportedly emerged from their week of contact with Kosygin profoundly impressed with what they took to be a deep, genuine Russian anxiety for a settlement.

Health Measure Offered

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Senate got a bill today to allow counties to set up mental health centers for out patient service if the voters approve.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said the bill had the backing of the Missouri Mental Health Association and is of special interest to central Missouri.

Up to 10 counties could join in supporting such centers by levying a tax of 5 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation.

The Senate also got bills to:

Set up a commission on a status of women and study ways to better their rolls in society. The commission would include 15 appointed by the governor.

Increase the salary of the 140 magistrate and probate clerks by $1,500 a year.

Both houses tackled growing dockets as committees continued to pour out bills.

Tuesday the Senate Judiciary Committee approved a bill to lower the majority requirement on bond issue elections from two-thirds to 60 per cent.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes had requested a simple majority but the committee compromised at 60 per cent.

The same committee approved a bill to let Missouri join the multistate tax compact in an effort to head off a federal take over the interstate corporation taxation.

United Fund Takes 1967 Requests

A special meeting of the Sikeston United Fund was called Tuesday afternoon at the junior high school cafeteria to hear the budget request for the 1967, member agencies.

Charles Matthews, chairman of the drive, explained the necessity to start early this year to initiate a payroll deduction plan for contributors.

Six of the eight member agencies were represented at the meeting and submitted estimates for the budget.

The Red Cross requested $5,280. The Boy Scouts requested $13,547. The Girl Scouts requested $7,089. The Civil Air Patrol requested $1,500. The Salvation Army requested $3,600, and the City Welfare office requested $9,000. The Missouri Delta Community hospital and the U.S.O., also member agencies, were not represented at the meeting.

Dick Ray, Southeast Missouri Boy Scout council executive, Cape Girardeau, stressed that the scouts' request is purely an estimate and that the organization's board of directors has not yet acted on a budget or a program for 1968.

The United Fund collections in 1967 finance the operation of the agencies for their 1968, fiscal years.

J. C. Newcomer, Bloomfield, echoed Ray's comment on behalf of the Girl Scouts. Their program and budget will be drafted in April or May, he said.

No new agencies were added to the fund this year.

A five member committee of board members was appointed following the budget requests. The committee will review the requests and report to the board next Tuesday.

Thelma West Files for Board

Mrs. Thelma West, Alabama Street, has filed for election on the board of education, Charles Matthews, board secretary, announced at the board's Tuesday meeting at the administration office.

The three-year terms of Robert L. Mitchell and Bruce Lewis will expire April 4, both men have filed for re-election.

Anyone over 21 years of age living in the school district may file as a candidate by submitting a letter to Matthews requesting his name be put on the ballot.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
OLIVES THAT CAN HEAR

The Telescreen received and transmitted simultaneously. Any sound that Winston made, above the level of a very low whisper, would be picked up by it; moreover, so long as he remained within the field of vision which the metal plaque commanded, he could be seen as well as heard. There was no way of knowing whether you were being watched at any given moment... You had to live - did live, from habit that became instinct - in the assumption that every sound you made was overheard, and, except in darkness, every movement scrutinized.

The world of 1984 seemed remote, though chilling, when the novel was published 18 years ago. Now, midway between 1949 and 1984, Orwell's vision of the future does not seem quite so fantastic as formerly. The see-all, hear-all telescreen is not yet a reality, but somebody, somewhere, probably is working to perfect one. Meanwhile, government and private eavesdroppers have to make do with electronic snooping gadgets already on the market.

Edward V. Long (D Mo.) chairman of a Senate subcommittee concerned with the snooping problem, has described some of the innocent-looking devices that eavesdroppers employ. They include "flower vases and cigarette lighters cleverly concealing miniature microphones, a Dick Tracy wrist watch transmitter, a transmitter concealed in a martini olive, telephone attachments that could surreptitiously intercept and record either telephonic communications or normal conversations within an entire room."

Disturbed by what his subcommittee uncovered, Long has written a book called The Intruders, which will be published on Monday, Feb. 20. The senator charges, among other things, that "The Justice Department's use of wiretapping and its double standard of enforcement, running from lukewarm efforts against private wiretappers to none at all against law-enforcement wiretappers, has had a disastrous effect on privacy." The Justice Department has acknowledged that it employed wiretapping and bugging devices in 10 cases not involving national security. Now President Johnson wants to outlaw most wiretapping.

Only a handful of states have enacted laws prohibiting eavesdropping by electronic gadgets. And the many guises these devices can assume make such laws difficult to enforce. The prudent citizen might be well advised to practice goodthink, a word of the Orwellian language Newspeak, which translates, "very roughly, 'orthodoxy,' or, if one (chooses) to regard it as a verb, 'to think in an orthodox manner.' "

ONLY YOU CAN STEM THE TIDE OF RISING TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

The Colonel said: "Every man has some sort of genius: If the time in which he lives has a market for his genius, he becomes great."

Who is responsible for the majority of auto accidents in this community and on our highways? Is it the automobile manufacturer in Detroit? Is it the police, local or state, who are lax in enforcing safety laws? Is it our large brood of young drivers whose motoring manners are as fresh as their licenses?

Shockingly, we, you, the man next door, and everyone who pulled a car away from a curb today in every local community in every city and town in the country are the ones who are largely responsible for "the rising tide of blood" on our roads. We are the ones who literally must stem the tide.

This was brought vividly to our editorial attention by a current study on automobile safety in a booklet which crossed our desk today. Originally written for a publication of Employers Insurance of Wausau, Wausau, Wis., the article has been reprinted at popular demand by the company for free distribution to interested parties. A hard-hitting, in-depth piece, which uses words as an automatic power hammer handles nails, it surveys the field of automobile safety from manufacturer to motorist.

From its beginning, which talks startlingly of how American soldiers are statistically safer in Viet Nam than on American highways, the pamphlet spares few delicate sensibilities to make harsh sense.

The booklet points out that auto accidents are multiplying in number and that their severity is increasing. It emphasizes that "the guilt-edge remedy" of financial compensation, to salve our collective public conscience for injuries and fatalities suffered in highway accidents, is far from a solution and distracts attention from the need for a few ounces of prevention.

"You can't fix a leak with a mop," states the author, Digby Whitman, editor of the Employers Insurance of Wausau publication. "The pay-'em-off-and-forget-it policy cost this country almost twelve billion dollars a year, nearly two per cent of the gross national product."

Improved safety features in the manufacture of automobiles, partially inspired by the recent Ralph Nader controversy, are to be applauded, he says, but then makes the point that no machine injures by itself — only by human error.

We shuddered but were impressed by the author's question: "When the car climbs the sidewalk and butters an old lady along the side of a building, will she be comforted by the reflection that the driver and his passengers are insulated from all harm?"

Summarizing the article's principal message, two methods are open to change human behavior behind the wheel of a car. They are persuasion and compulsion, or in plainer words, education and law enforcement.

Of the two, education is the more valuable "ounce of prevention." Soaring statistics show urgent need for driver education in every state public high school system. Today, young drivers under 25 years old make up approximately one-fifth of the nation's drivers but are responsible for one-third of our auto accidents and one-third of all fatalities caused by auto accidents. Yet, only 18 states include driver education for teen-agers in high school curriculums.

Rather than laying all the blame for accidental death and injury on intentional economy by auto manufacturers, we should clip human error in the bud with driver education in the schools. And rather than making more laws, we should enforce the ones that already are on the books with greater zeal.

We can't detour the conclusion. Safety on our city streets and highways is everyone's responsibility. What are you doing about it?

Diseases of the heart and blood vessels are responsible for more deaths in this country than all other diseases and causes combined.

THE PRESS IS WARNED

It is dawning on newspapers of Arkansas that the Arkansas Legislature is becoming increasingly interested in legislation which affects the state's press. Most of the legislation now under consideration would (1) affect the press adversely, and, conversely (2) generally reflect favorably on holders of public offices, including legislators.

Last week, members of the Arkansas Press Association were warned by their intelligent and hard-working executive secretary in Little Rock that resentment of press criticism is building in the Legislature and the obvious manifestation of this displeasure is the outbreak of anti-press legislation. Further, APA said in a special legislation bulletin to members, although the legislative process is cumbersome it is "better than anything they have in Russia."

The comparison is at once valid and ironic, because absolute freedom of the press and speech is precisely what they do not have in Russia and is one of the things which sets us apart from communist and other totalitarian states. Bills now pending in the Arkansas Legislature just could have the effect of moving freedom of comment a bit away from the American system and a bit toward something else.

A bill which recently passed the Arkansas Senate (and a bill on which our Sen. J. Lee Bearden voted "no") would make it possible for a legislator from Dry Ridge, Ark., to sue the Arkansas Gazette, for example, in Dry Ridge, not in Little Rock. You can sort of get the feel of the thing when you imagine the folks around the Dry Ridge courthouse awaiting the arrival of the city slickers and their dude lawyers.

Another bill, pending at last glance, would prohibit, for all practical matters, the publication of a letter to the editor (or editorial, for that matter) which was not signed.

Both bills affect not so much the press as the readers of the press, it would seem.

It is our intention to deal fairly with the Arkansas Legislaiure, and to open our columns to those members of the Legislature who represent Mississippi County. However, we really can't believe that the legislative delegation from this county would suggest that they or the Legislature be removed from the give and take of politics...and this involves differences, sometimes sharp differences, with the hometown press. - Blytheville Courier News

NEW YORK (AP) - Winter is a great time to brush up on your double-talk.

There is also no other season of the year in which it is more greatly needed.

People's nerves get edgy during the long cold sameness. Just as snow cloaks and softens the raw and barren landscape of nature, double-talk helps camouflage the monotony of most conversation in winter.

For the guidance of the beginner, here are a few typical examples of helpful double-talk --followed by their literal meaning:

"So what if you did track a little slush in on my new rug. That's hardly a crime."—But if it only were, I'd see that you were immediately hanged.

"The doctor says this bronchitis may hold on for weeks and weeks unless I do something about." —So, my dear cheapskate husband, why don't you ante up the money for a quick flight to Florida?

"That wasn't fair, Reginald! You hit me with a snowball when I wasn't looking."—What's the matter with this nut? Won't he ever grow up!

"Be sure and wear your overshoes, dear. I don't want you to catch your death of cold."—Considering how little insurance you'd leave, my job is to keep you alive.

"Of course, Jim, we'll be glad to keep your tropical fish while you and your wife are down in Acapulco."—I'll fish through a hole in the ice here and use them for bait.

"The weather is so bad I don't think I'll buy one of those new miniskirts."—With the legs I've got, I wouldn't wear one if I lived in Tahiti.

"I'll have to walk to the station this morning, Alice. There isn't time for me to clear off the driveway."—Which means, my plump pigeon, that if you want to use the car you'll have to dig it out yourself. The exercise will do you good.

"I'm glad the schools are closing tomorrow. You can't expect children to freeze themselves to death just to get an education." Oh, boy, that means I won't have to spend the evening helping the kids do their homework.

"Gee, Jack, I'm afraid I'll have to skip the poker game at your house tonight. My buggy is froze up solid."—Maybe by next week I can pay you what I lost last week.

"Of course, I love you, Samantha. But whoever heard of getting married in February? Let's pick a day in June."—But not in this century—maybe the next one.

Bob's sister was one of the most popular girls in Manhattan. She had more boyfriends than she knew what to do with and she never wanted for a thing. Bob was always in debt and constantly asking his sister for spending money.

"I don't understand you, Bob," she said in obvious annoyance one afternoon when he had tried to put the bite on her for a 10 spot. "I don't have any trouble saving money, so why should you?"

"Sure, sure," he said, "but you've got money coming in all the time from the very thing that's keeping me broke."

"While You're at It, Why Don't You Attach a Few of These?"

Bed-wetting had plagued Roscoe from childhood. He was filled with shame but couldn't seem to control himself, no matter how hard he tried. Finally his wife had all she could take and ordered him out of the house until he was cured.

Roscoe went to the doctor who advised him to see a psychiatrist since his chronic bed wetting was probably due to a mental or emotional disorder.

About three weeks later, he returned home wearing a cheerful face. His wife met him at the door and cried, "Honey, you look so happy. Are you cured?"

"Nope," replied Roscoe, "but now when I wet the bed, I'm PROUD."

THE COAT AND THE CLOTH

There is a growing feeling on the part of a significant numbers of people, expert and laymen alike, that unprecedented government spending is surely going to put some jarring bumps into the economic sleigh ride that the country has been enjoying. All bets are off, and the best of crystal gazers see only a murky picture of the possible shape of taxes, deficits and inflation by the time the polling booths open again.

There are many "ifs" involved, but it is certain that the attempt to conduct a war, expand practically every social welfare program and shoot the moon, all at the same time, is more than even the wealthiest nation in the world can undertake without feeling the strain.

What it all adds up to is that further depreciation of the dollar to an extent that no one can predict, is inevitable unless government cuts its coat to fit the cloth.

Truckers Find Hoffa Ranting and Roaring, As He Races To Sign Them to $2 Billion Hike Contract.

Washington, D. C. -- It happened one night in December. An influential young trucking magnate methodically and soberly had soured the local pubs in search of his publicity chap.

It was futile and it was 3 a.m. So he went up to his sixth floor midtown hotel suite to work out his problem alone. There was a knock. Not the p.r. man -- but one of the Teamsters' powerful officials.

He had a deal and a threat. He demanded that the trucking company executive -- whose firm has some 7,000 "vans"-- sign an affidavit stating that Jimmy Hoffa was indispensable to the nation's industrial peace in general and to over-the-road transportation in particular.

The Teamster friend of Hoffa's was collecting such documents for presentation, along with other Hoffa statements, to the Supreme Court in an effort to get a reversal on Hoffa's prison terms.

The Teamster that night had some terms of his own -- no affidavit, no drivers the next few days. The businessman just was not being muscled. He said no, quietly but positively.

When Hoffa learned of all this he bellowed, growled and ranted. The puffy and puffing Teamsters' chief has been that way now for quite a while.

Many are asking if he's cracking. He can't stand being defied. Six weeks after the nocturnal incident, on the morning of Wednesday, Feb. 8, the young executive was one of the members of the Trucking Employers, Inc., (TEI) negotiating committee which refused to join in a mass -- schoolroom-like-- bargaining session.

Hoffa raged. He ran wildly into the corridor screaming: "You are not going to break up my -- ----life's dream of a national bargaining contract -- it's my life's work."

Roaring, he ran back and forth loudly demanding: "Does anyone around know where TEI hangs out around here?"

Later he exploded in cries of rude and crude imprecations against the business class.

For a long time now Hoffa has had emotional jags. There is the authenticated story of a session with M.I.T. students in Boston back in March, 1961. They questioned him quite soundly. He raged into a monologue and ran from the room in tears.

Now he's riproaring again. There is more than his life's dream involved -- though he has been planning a National Master Freight Agreement ever since he first learned the power of a wheel in his mysterious days in Minneapolis when the Trotskyites controlled the "teamsos." Such a contract could easily give a Teamsters president virtual dictatorial control of America's interlocking road, rail, lake, river, air and even ocean transportation.

Much as he has wanted to be the nation's transportation czar someday, he wants to win a big one now. He wants his men to remember -- and the 450,000 local carting and over-the-road drivers involved here are the guts of Brotherhood -- that he delivered a whopper this time. That's so they'll want him back when he "gets out."

No one has really bothered to analyze for the public the full nature of this current negotiation between Hoffa's team and the TEI which speaks for some 1200 companies ranging from a ten-truck outfit to one with 15,000 vans.

Hoffa's asking price for a three-year contract now is some $1.5 billioon in wages and another $500 million in fringes, to say the least.

Not only the drivers are in this package, but the garage workers and white collar people in the industry. In effect, it calls for more than $40 a week increase at the end of the contract's third year.

And there are fringes such as four days funeral leave, jury duty pay, special clothing allowances and meal money, safety devices such as anti-jackknife equipment (to prevent the big van and cab from folding), driver alert systems, special sleeping quarters inside the truck and a stabilizer.

Obviously the TEI people are not going to be dashing, pen in hand, to sign. They're bucking him. So he plans to hit them with chain reaction strikes. This is the first time he has not been able to divide and conquer -- at least not yet.

This defiance he can't stand. Just couple this with the tensions of watching the judicial Chinese torture processing of one over-all general appeal of his 8 - year conviction, four other motions going through four courts, a supplementary action on one motion and an over-all reply to the government's reply to him.

And this is just on the Chattanooga trial. There also is Chicago -- a five-year sentence for tampering with a million dollars' worth of pension funds. This now is in the high court. Soon he'll have other motions going on this one.

But through it all he sees the garish figure of his old friend, the New Jersey tough Tony Pro -- former leader of all the Teamsters there. "Pro" went that full course but now -- though still throwing motions-- he is serving a seven-year sentence in Lewisburg, Pa., penitentiary.

So Jim Hoffa is racing against time and is screaming all the way.

A middle aged business man took his wife to Paris. After walking all over the city on a shopping tour he begged off for a day to relax.

Once rid of the old gal he visited a few bars and finally picked up a pretty hustler. He was having a ball until she brought up the subject of money. She asked for fifty and he offered ten. She refused to bargain and so they didn't get together.

That evening he took his wife to a good restaurant and there he spotted his pretty companion of the afternoon seated at a table near the door.

"See, monsieur?" said the babe, as they passed near her table. "Look what you got for your lousy 10 dollars."

WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

If past experience is any criterion, that perennial issue "right-to-work" will again be brought to the attention of Congress. Organized labor, with the help of misnamed liberal members of Congress, will seek to deprive the states of the right of self-determination on the matter of compulsory unionism by urging repeal of Section 14 B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

At the present time, there are some 400,000 U.S. men fighting a war half a world away to uphold the belief that the small country of South Viet Nam should have the right of self-determination in choosing the kind of government it wishes to live under. And yet, we find powerful factions in our own country determined to erase this right among the several states -- 19 states now have right-to-work laws, which have been adopted by the people's legislators in those states.

If Congress by flat abolishes these right-to-work laws, it will be violating in principle the right of self-determination. One can reasonably ask, should not this right be as sacred in our own country as it is in Viet Nam?

H.L. Hunt Says

PASSPORTS TO HANOI

The trickle of Americans traveling to Hanoi, the capital of communist North Vietnam with which we are at war, is rapidly growing to a flood. There can be endless speculation over what would motivate any loyal American citizen to make a highly publicized trip to the enemy's capital in the midst of a war. But the fact is that more and more of these visits are being made, and are freely permitted by the State Department through the unrestricted issuance of passports and other credentials valid in the enemy's capital.

To put this in perspective, we need only to imagine how almost every American would have reacted to a stream of highly publicized visits by Americans to Berlin at the height of the Second World War, with special side trips to Berchtesgaden to fawn over Adolf Hitler. It simply would not have been tolerated, and many who now defend or advocate travel to North Vietnam would have been the first to denounce it.

Once again we see the all too familiar double standard. When we fought the Nazi foe, our watchword was unconditional surrender and our goal was total victory. No dealings of any kind with the enemy were allowed. But now that we fight a communist foe there is a constant clamor for dealings of all kinds, for giving up victory as an objective and accepting almost any negotiated settlement we might be able to obtain.

We should stop trading with the enemy and stop visiting the enemy. Obviously he is going to admit only those visitors who will make favorable propaganda for him. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -Henry Ford's Greek son - in - law, Stavros Spiros Niarchos, the shipping millionaire, has been able to settle an amazing income tax case for less than six cents on the dollar.

The settlement closes the books on a great shipping swindle which not only milked the American taxpayers out of millions, but helped Niarchos build one of the world's largest merchant fleets. During the Truman administration Niarchos was indicted for his ship transfers, but the case was dropped by the Eisenhower administration. Today, the international playboy seems to have just as much pull with the Johnson administration.

His father - in - law, Henry Ford II, though a good friend of President Johnson's, is not particularly a good friend of his son-in-law. He never approved the marriage of his daughter Charlotte, aged 24, to Niarchos, aged 56.

Niarchos, incidentally, is reported to pay only $2,000 taxes in his native country, Greece, though he owns the Island of Spitzelula, where he is reputed to spend about $250,000 annually. It was on this luxury island that King Constantine of Greece spent his honeymoon.

The story of Niarchos' tax settlement goes back to 1948 when Niarchos, through a U.S. company, began buying up surplus merchant ships which under the law could be sold only to American citizens. He put up the money to back the North American Shipping and Trading Co., which purchased a surplus tanker for a 25 per cent downpayment.

SHIP JUGGLING

The tanker, renamed "Jenny," was promptly chartered to another Niarchos company, Compania Internacional De Vapores, in Panama for a monthly $2.70 per deadweight ton. Then this company rechartered the same tanker to Socony Vacuum Oil Company for $4.20 per dwt. ton.

It would take a team of accountants and attorneys to unravel all of Niarchos' financial manipulations. But following essentially the same pattern, the Greek shipping wizard acquired 14 tankers and six cargo ships. All the taxable profit was siphoned into the Panamanian company, leaving Uncle Sam with nothing but a huge mortgage on each ship.

By the time the government caught on, Niarchos had discreetly departed for Switzerland where he could be near his secret, numbered bank accounts. He left behind the surplus ships which, following the Korean war, had dropped in value far below the mortgages still outstanding. He also stripped his U. S. companies of all other assets, including a $200,000 withholding tax fund.

Counting the diverted profits and mortgage default, he got away with $40,000,000 which he used to build a commercial fleet on some 70 vessels.

The U.S. government consoled itself by taking back the heavily-mortgaged ships and indicting Niarchos and his associates. Thus the handsome, high-living Greek millionaire became the world's most fashionable fugitive, holding court in the Swiss resort town of St. Moritz, skiing in the Alps and yachting in the Mediterranean far from Uncle Sam's clutches.

However, a number of assets were within Uncle Sam's clutches and the unexplained question is why the treasury did not clutch them. It could have seized his ships, all listed in Lloyds ship register, which called regularly at U.S. ports.

It could have seized the substantial operating funds which he kept in the Chase Manhattan Bank. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which had loaned him millions, held liens on his ship charters. He collected payments through U. S. channels from long - term charters with Standard Oil of New Jersey, Socony Vacuum, Shell Oil and other major oil companies.

Yet the Internal Revenue service, which has attached the salaries of many small wage earners to collect a few dollars in back taxes, didn't touch a penny of the golden Greek's money.

LIAISON WITH CIA?

One explanation of the favoritism is the report that Niarchos permitted CIA agents to travel on his ships through the Suez Canal and other trouble spots disguised as crew members. The CIA, when queried about this, wouldn't talk, and Niarchos couldn't be reached for comment. However, it is known that Niarchos was close to a mysterious CIA figure named Albert Ulmer who later left the CIA to work for him.

Not until Niarchos married Charlotte Ford, daughter of the auto magnate, did he show an interest in settling his tax case and returning to the United States.

At first, Niarchos hired ex-Vice President Richard Nixon's law firm to handle his tax case. This was during the Eisenhower administration. Later, with the Democrats in power, he turned it over to Harold Leventhal, legal adviser to the Democratic National Committee. When Leventhal become a federal judge in 1965, his law partner, David Ginsburg, took over the case and settled it just in time for Niarchos to join Charlotte in this country for the birth of their baby.

Ginsburg assured this column that the settlement was the result of hard negotiation and was the best deal the government could hope to get. Some of the circumstances will be examined in a future column.

Note -- While Niarchos was deeply in hock to the U. S. for back taxes, the government, believe it or not, loaned another of his companies $20,000,000 to build the 100,000 - ton vessel "Manhattan." This loan was made despite knowledge of his tax delinquency and despite the fact he had stripped the defaulting companies of the funds needed to pay the taxes.

HAILE SELASSIE FACES CRISIS

WASHINGTON -- Emperior Haile Selassie, no. 1 elder statesman of Africa, came to Washington this week to ask support for the second great crisis of his career.

The first was when Mussolini's black shirts swarmed over his country in 1935 and the little emperor, a forlorn white-robed figure, went before the league of nations in Geneva to ask the assistance of the great powers. They turned him down.

That first triumph of the dictators was the real beginning of World War II.

Today the "conquering lion of the tribe of Judah" has come to Washington to warn of a squeeze - play by an Arab-Communist combine for the control of the vital Red Sea and the approaches to the Suez Canal which will virtually surround Ethiopia.

Next month, March 19, French Somaliland votes on setting up an independent Arab state, and is almost certain to vote for independence. This means President Nasser of Egypt will exert powerful influence.

Next year Great Britain is scheduled to give up its key for ien, guarding the entrance to the Red Sea. At that time, Nasser, backed by Soviet arms, is determined to take over.

Across the Gulf of Aden, on the northern coast of Africa, lies the little desert Republic of Somalia, a country of only one million people, which has received the amazing total of $23,000,000 in Chinese aid and $91,000,000 in Russian gifts and credits, more than half of it military.

With Egypt to the West supported by Soviet arms, this leaves Christian Ethiopia almost completely surrounded by Moslem countries heavily supplied by Communist arms.

This combine constitutes a pro - Communist Arab bloc which also worries Iran to the north and Kenya to the south.

The United States has been trying to persuade Moscow, as part of the new understanding between the two countries, to quit supplying arms to the Arab world, but with almost no success.

Soviet diplomats are given credit for pressuring Syria to meet with Israel on the Syrian-Israeli border recently, but Russian arms have already gone into most of the Arab countries and it's too late to pull them out.

So Emperor Hailie Selassie, one of the most stabilizing forces for peace in Africa, has come to Washington to discuss with President Johnson a squeeze - play which could endanger a nation which has kept its proud independence when every other African area was a European Colony.

KENNETT - The protection we receive from United States Department of Agriculture inspection and grading is a service which we may be taking for granted. All non-fat dry milk is believed to be the major factor of Salmonella contamination. Salmonella arogaisms may cause infection of the digestive tract.

The United States Department of Agriculture provides on a voluntary basis on inspection and grading system for the dairy program. Firms which produce instantized non-fat dry milk have not requested inspection service on their plants and products.

Non-fat dry milk solids contributed nutritionally to our diets through school lunch programs, and it is used extensively in commercial mixes. Homemakers conserve from one-third in cost and some mixes they prepare. The circular "Missouri Mix" C846 challenges the creative ability of the cook whether she plans a warm after-school snack or a birthday cake.

The Missouri Mix recipe makes 13 cups of mix. The amounts are 9 cups sifted all purpose flour, 1/3 cup double acting baking powder, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons non-fat milk solids, 4 teaspoons salt, 1-3/4 cups vegetable shortening or 1-1/2 cups of lard. Step 1: Stir baking powder, dry milk and salt into the sifted flour. Sift all dry ingredients until well mixed. Step 2: Cut fat into flour mixture until all particles of fat are thoroughly coated and mixture resembles coarse cornmeal.

Store Missouri Mix in tightly covered container. Mixture may be measured into definite amounts, stored in plastic bags or jars and be ready for mixing of your favorite recipe.

Suppose you wish to make Brownies quickly. Use 1 cup mix, 1/2 cup cocoa, and 1 cup sugar mixing well. Add 2 beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1/2 cup chopped nuts. Blend until well mixed. Spread in a greased pan (8 x 8 x 2 inch). Bake in a modern oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. The recipe yields 16 brownies.

When creaming and scalloping potatoes use one-fourth cup of non-fat dry milk plus potato water instead of whole milk. Some vitamins and minerals cook out into the water when boiling potatoes. Whenever practicable, serve any remaining cooking liquid with the vegetable or use it in sauces or soup.

For the homemaker who takes pride in serving dinner rolls, coffee cake, various breads, etc. C836 "Yeast Breads and Rolls" offers other ways of using non-fat dry milk. Either of the circulars "Missouri Mix" and "Using Non-Fat Dry Milk in Home Prepared Foods" may be received from the University Extension Center in your county. The need of milk in your daily diet is a life time necessity for replacement of calcium in the blood, bone, and circulatory structures. Naturally homemakers respond to the checking of their diet on the important minerals.

Pueblo Marriage Rite

A governing council arranged marriage rites among the Pueblo Indians of the 16th century. The man spun and wove a blanket, placed it before the woman and she covered herself with it, thus becoming his wife.

I had my morning newspaper delivered for a month and then decided that I preferred to go back to my old habit of buying one when I went shopping each day. So when the paper boy asked if I wanted to continue with the deliver service, I said, "No, I pick up a paper each day when I go out."

He look startled, then asked, "Gee, lady, don't your neighbors get mad?"

Bloomfield Wins, Ends Season 21-6

BLOOMFIELD -- Bloomfield ended its regular basketball season last night with a 46-32 varsity victory over Lilbourn. This was the Wildcats' 21st win of the season to go with six defeats. Lilbourn ended with an 11-11 mark.

In the opening game of the night Lilbourn edged out the Bloomfield junior varsity quintet 18-14.

Coach Ted Mau's Panthers contained nine of the Wildcats 10 players in the scoring column in the varsity game allowing only one of the nine to hit over five points, but allowed the tenth player, Andy Bullinger, to roam the floor for 17 points to lead Bloomfield.

Bullinger hit on five of eight field goal shots and connected on seven of eight from the free throw lane for his 17-point total.

Both teams started the game cold from the field and stayed that way most of the contest.

Bloomfield connected on only 12 of 33 field shots for .363 accuracy while Lilbourn even hit a worse percentage .232.

The game was close until the final period when the Wildcats used their zone press and raced into a 19-12 period.

Lilbourn fell back by three points at the end of the first period and trailed, 19-13 at intermission.

Lilbourn closed to three points once in the third period but was never able to overcome Bullinger's outcourt shooting and rebounding.

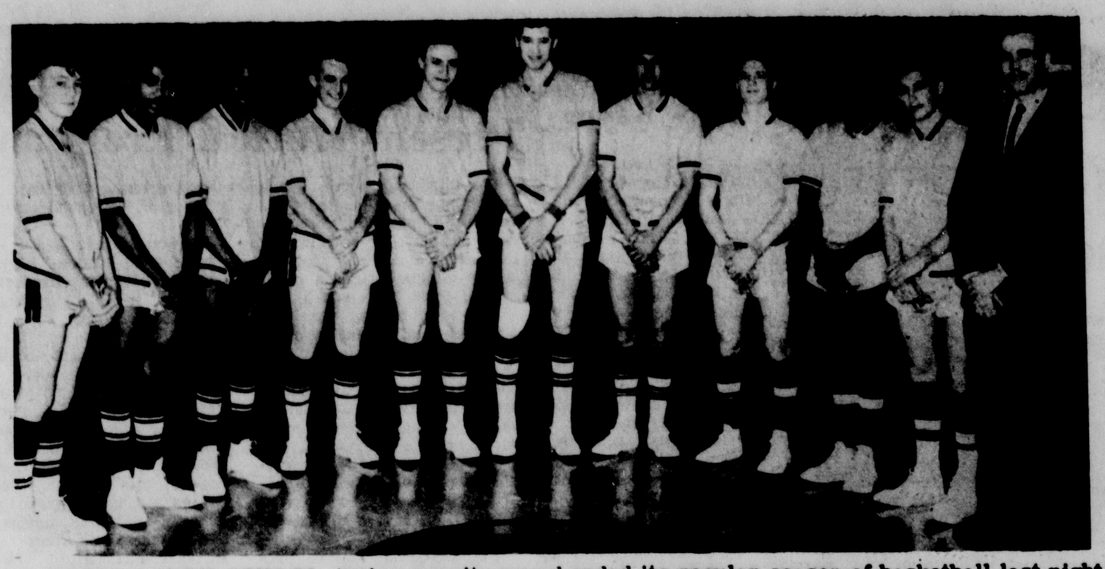

Mike Baughman hit 10 points in leading the Panthers scoring.

Both teams will move into regionals, which start Monday.

When your distillery looks like a castle, your Bourbon had better be fit for a king.

We still make Old Taylor in the castle Col. Taylor built back in 1887.

And when you've got a castle for a distillery, your Bourbon had better be some Bourbon. Old Taylor is just that.

In fact, Old Taylor has become the most popular premium-priced Bourbon in the country.

Would our Bourbon be just as good if we made it somewhere else?

Maybe so.

But we're not about to find out.

Resurgence of Patriotism Hailed

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. -- The increasing United States commitment to Vietnam has led to a resurgence of interest in the principles of American freedom.

Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, (Ret.), former chief of naval operations, national chairman of the 1967 Freedoms Roll-Call, said that requests by the thousands are being received for copies of "Freedoms Handbook," a guideline for citizen action for preserving freedom, prepared by Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Admiral Burke said, "I believe the heart - rending weekly reports of dead and wounded in Vietnam are reminding Americans that the price of freedom is high and that each citizen must do his part to preserve and perpetuate it." Admiral Burke also said that Vietnam has led Americans to a soul- searching restudy of the enduring principles of the American Credo.

Freedoms Roll - Call is a national educational campaign undertaken each year, Feb. 15-28, to remind Americans of their responsibilities and duties.

Freedoms Foundation, a nonprofit, nonpartisan and nonsectarian educational organization, founded in 1949, was created to encourage understanding and support of American ideals. General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower is honorary chairman of Freedoms Foundation; Howard H. Callaway is chairman; The Honorable James A. Fraley is senior vice chairman, and Dr. Kenneth D. Wells is president.

The foundation has established the American Freedom center at Valley Forge with extensive libraries, graduate credit courses, lecturers and seminars. The Center is a 100-acre complex of colonial - style buildings, including the 50-acre Congressional Medal of Honor Grove honoring the nation's heroes who have received the Republic's highest award for valor.

More than 35,000 awards of cash, medals, citations and "pilgrimages" to historic Valley Forge have been made to individuals, teachers, companies, school systems and civic and patriotic organizations in the foundation's annual national and school awards program.

Bank Ad Says Money Available Without Gun

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) - The Texas Bank, victim of a $5,250 armed robbery Thursday, ran this advertisement in Friday's Dallas Times Herald:

"There's no need of a gun to get a loan from Texas Bank. We're anxious, even eager to serve our customers."

The robber had given the teller a note ordering her to hand over the money, and the advertisement took note of this. "Please, please, leave your gun at home and please, don't forget to sign the note. We'll go out of our way to make a loan."

Dexter's Grant From U.S. Fees And Tax Funds

ANN ARBOR, MICH. - Missouri's Inter-Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation reports that the Nov. 15 passage of a $75,000 swimming pool bond issue by Dexter, Mo., voters paved the way for a $50,000 federal grant for the project announced yesterday.

Money for the grant came from the federal land and water conservation fund which, in addition to the federal tax on motorboat fuel, receives support from fees collected in federally administered recreational areas and the sale of surplus government real property. Also revenue obtained from the sale of the $7 annual golden passport to federal recreation areas goes into the fund.

The passport is part of operation golden eagle, a program designed to portray to the American public the need for making more lands and waters available for outdoor recreation purposes.

Both the fund and operation golden eagle are administered by the bureau of outdoor recreation of the interior department.

Twenty-One Points Listed for Helping File Income Tax Forms

EDITOR'S NOTE - Sometimes, taxpayers leave out the simplest things on their income tax returns, causing considerable difficulty on occasion. This article, first in a series of five, sums up the basic facts for a tax return.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

Twenty-one major points on filing your 1966 income tax return:

1. The deadline is midnight, Monday, April 17. By then the return must be in the hands of the Internal Revenue Service or in the mails.

2. Report only taxable income, like salary and bank interest. Some income is nontaxable, like Social Security payments, and should not be reported.

3. List your Social Security number on your return—there's a place for it—because there is a penalty for failing to.

If a wife had income under $600 and therefore is not required to file a return, the husband can claim no exemption for her unless she files jointly with him.

4. Enclose all the W2 withholding statements given you by employers.

5. Generally, husbands and wives save by filing a joint return, whether or not the wife had income. If in doubt, try it both ways to decide.

6. You can get a refund—if too much tax was withheld from you—but only by filing a return.

7. You must file a return if you were under 65—this includes children—and had income of $600 or more, whether or not you owe any tax on it. Parents are responsible for filing returns for their children if they are unable to do so.

8. If you were 65 or older, no return is needed unless your income subject to tax was $1,200 or more. The same goes for your wife. You were considered 65 for all of 1966 if your 65th birthday was as late as Jan. 1, 1967.

9. Everyone filing a return gets a $600 exemption-meaning that much knocked off his income if he's under 65—$1,200 if he's 65 or older.

You get a $600 exemption for your wife if she is under 65-$1,200 if she is 65 or older-provided she files jointly with you or, being without income, fails to file jointly, and is not claimed as the dependent of someone else.

If a wife had income under $600 and therefore is not required to file a return, the husband can claim no exemption for her unless she files jointly with him.

If a wife must file a return, because her income was $600 or over, she can file jointly with her husband, in which case each claims a $600 exemption on the one return. If the wife files separately, she takes her exemption on her return, the husband claims his exemption on his return.

10. Anyone filing a return can get a $600 exemption for each dependent he can legitimately claim, under or over 65.

11. And—a person filing a return gets an extra $600 exemption if he is blind. He also gets an extra $600 exemption for his wife if she is blind. He gets no extra exemption for a blind dependent.

12. If you were self-employed you must file a return, regardless of age, if you had self-employment income of $400 or more. You'd use Form 1040 and Schedule C.

13. Anyone under or over 65, even though receiving Social Security payments, must pay a Social Security tax on any taxable earned income. There's a limit on how much income he can earn and still draw Social Security payments. If in doubt, consult your Social Security office.

14. Everyone filing a return is allowed deductions for personal expenses. But how you take them depends on your personal case.

If you take the standard deduction, which may give you a bigger deduction than you could justly claim, you don't have to list your expenses. If your deductible expenses were larger than the standard deduction covers, you can claim them in full but in that case you'll have to itemize them.

15. There are two ways to find the tax: in a tax table or by figuring it yourself. But this is a limited operation. Only people with under $5,000 income can use the tax table, and only some of them can.

People with $5,000 or more income must figure their own tax, using the tax-rate schedule.

16. There are two main forms for making a return: 1040 and 1040A. The latter, a punchboard, is simpler. But not everyone can use this, either. Anyone can use 1040. Anyone with $10,000 or more income, or who itemizes deductions, must use 1040.

Only those earning less than $10,000 who fit certain conditions can use form 1040A. More on this later in the series.

17. There are special rules for military people who served in the Vietnam area.

The pay of an enlisted man doesn't have to be reported and is free of tax for any month, a part of which he served in Vietnam and its adjacent waters or was hospitalized anywhere as a result of wounds, disease or injury incurred in Vietnam or those adjacent waters.

A commissioned officer is exempt from 1966 income tax on the first $500 of pay for any month under the same conditions explained above for the enlisted man.

18. The IRS sends taxpayers an instruction pamphlet. Be sure to read it. If you don't have it, get it, since it contains tax forms, schedules, tables, the arrangement for figuring the Social Security self - employment tax, state sales tax tables and state gasoline taxes which are deductible if you are itemizing your deductions.

19. For a lot of people one of the best helps they can get is to buy the government's book of instructions on filing a return- "Your Federal Income Tax" - which has 160 pages and costs 50 cents. It's available from the Government Printing Office in Washington and at IRS offices.

It goes into far more details than any one person will need or than can be covered in a series like this.

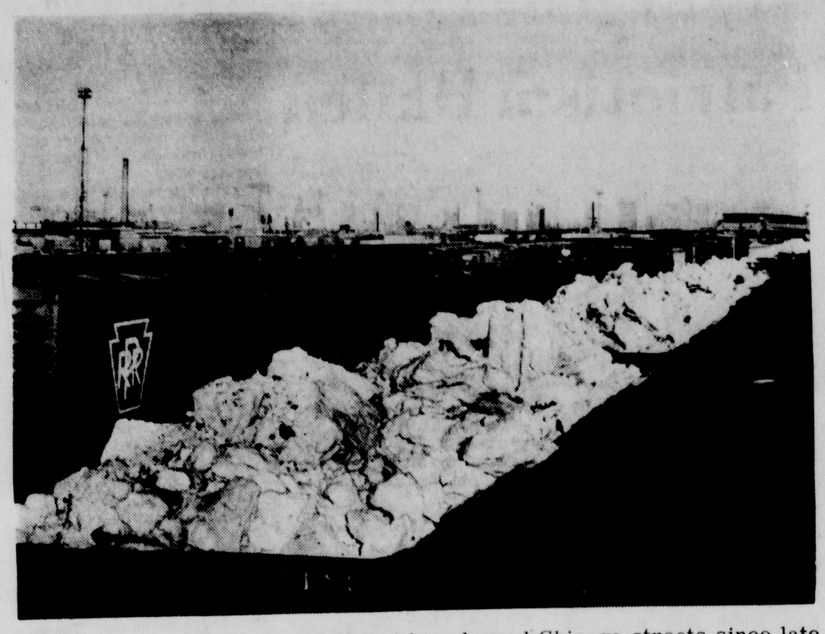

20. Some examples of taxable income which must be reported:

Wages, salaries, tips, fees, bonuses, salaries, commissions, interest on U.S. savings bonds, commissions, profits from business, rents, royalties, prizes and awards when you did something to win them.

21. Some examples of nontaxable income which does not have to be reported in making your return:

Insurance proceeds, damages paid and so on for injury or death; life insurance payments on death; dividends on veterans' insurances; disability retirement payments and other benefits paid by the Veterans Administration; gifts; inheritances; bequests; Railroad Retirement Act benefits.

Next: The proper form to use.

UNWED FATHERS ASSUME RESPONSIBILITIES

By Malcolm Lewis
Women's Medical News Service

A majority of young men who get girls pregnant out of wedlock are neither irresponsible nor casual about their obligations to the girls and their babies. Almost two-thirds of them, a recent study shows, contributed voluntarily to the support of both at some time during the 18 months after the baby's birth. More than half the men also kept in touch with the mothers during that period.

These conclusions, which cast such a different light on the nature of men involved in out-of-wedlock births, are the result of a study of 262 unwed mothers made by Mignon Sauber, research director of the Community Council of Greater New York. The unwed father, Miss Sauber notes, "is certainly not a phantom in the lives of these new mothers. For the majority he is still a personal associate; is frequently sharing a home with them and even more frequently is helping financially. . ."

Miss Sauber interviewed the unwed mothers from the time of their hospital confinement through the baby's fifth, twelfth, and eighteenth month birthdays. The young women, about 20 years old on the average, are considered typical of those who plan to keep and rear their out-of-wedlock children, a group accounting for about 35 percent of all New York City illegitimate births each year.

NOT CASUAL ENCOUNTERS

These pregnancies were not, for the most part, a result of casual encounters. Most of the mothers (62 percent) had met the fathers through friends or relatives, with a sizeable minority meeting at school or at work. Only a small number -- about eight percent -- were pickups. These were more common among girls under 17 and women over 25 years of age.

By the time of confinement, more than half the girls had known the fathers for at least two years (or a year prior to conception). A third of the girls knew the men at least a year but less than two years. Only one out of 10 girls had known the fathers less than one year, or just a short time before conception.

Whether or not a man contributed to the support of his child depended in large part on whether or not he was working, the study showed. Three-fourths of the employed fathers were contributing when the child was a year and a half old, even though the majority of them earned only between $50 and $99 a week. Fewer than half the unemployed men, on the other hand, gave the mothers financial help. The study concludes, "If more of these fathers had jobs, more of them might have given the unwed mothers help."

AGE IMPORTANT FACTOR

How much responsibility a man assumes for the girl and his baby depends somewhat upon how old he is. And interestingly enough the older the man the less the responsibility assumed. About 25 percent of men aged 30 or over "took off" during the pregnancy period and were not seen again in a year and a half, while only 14 percent of men under 20 did so.

This study supports previous findings that unwed fathers are more emotionally involved with the women they impregnate than is popularly believed.

SIGNS OF SPRING

There are two pretty doves in my front yard.
For building material they look very hard.
They are making a nest on a limb in a tree.
They think its a secret but it's as plain as can be.
They look and look for a stick that's just right
Then off they fly to their building site
For days and days they work without let-up.
By the way they are working you'd expect a big setup
But as you get closer to look at the nest
You began to doubt if it will stand the test.
There is very little floor and no wall at all
If they lay any eggs they surely will fall
But for some reason I just can't explain
They seem to survive the storms and the rain.
So from now on I'll watch without fear
There'll surely be doves year after year.

FINDING THE WAY

The 'With It' Church

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

LONDON, ENGLAND

Fashion trend: More and more young men are covering their ears with their own hair. Not only the bearded beatniks who scorn the amenities of squarish conformists but thousands of others affect the flair for curls that trail over their collars. In England there are counterparts of those elegant dandies of the Rembrandt and Van Dyke portraits.

If this were just the rebels who gather at the statue of Eros in Piccadilly in London or who roam the streets of Soho, it could be dismissed as another youthful prank. It is more than this. When one sees on one hand the Londoner with bowler and rolled umbrella, one wonders how long these others are for this whirl.

I considered this when two of these long-haired young men assisted in receiving the offering in a local church. It was good to see them present, for the church has lost contact with all too many of this generation. Now what do you say to them?

Miss Lauren Wade, a 19-year-old London resident, believes that the church has missed its chance because it has tried to be "with it" instead of stating a real message.

"Swinging the hymns is too much for us to stomach," she writes in the London Telegraph. "Worship is a different thing from entertainment, unless the local parsons imagine that their evaluation of the Beatles will promote a frenzy of worship among young Christians.

"In addition, we have the Bishop of Woolwich saying that premarital sexual intercourse is all right in some instances of those who intend to marry . . . Round this off with some nice gay vestments and. man, we get us a real hep church."

This 19-year-old is only one person speaking, but she represents the idealism of youth too frequently overlooked. There are no easy answers to the problem she raises but there are answers. Too frequently the church, the home and an older generation have seemed to flee from an uncritical conformity to numb young people with nothingness.

There is a way of life and the Gospel has something to say about the contemporary situation. That way of life has nothing to do with the length of hair. It must deal effectively with the problems of today and demonstrate that Gospel sacrificially and effectively. That Gospel will not be concerned whether it's "with it." It will be an effective witness to the idealism of youth which is often expressed in strange ways.

From Delusions, Perhaps On To Grandeur

After years of self-delusion about the United Nations, there are signs that the American people are adopting a more sensible attitude.

It could be said that for years many Americans and the organizations they formed revered the United Nations as the one great hope for peace on earth.

There are some powerful quarters which still think this way about the United Nations and always will; but the ritual hailing from the highest quarters in Washington has diminished. Once-friendly newspapers whose editorial policy hardly can be called "right-wing," have begun to criticize the United Nations sharply. Plenary meetings of the United Nations General Assembly, once front-page news, are now often relegated to the back pages. The biggest, recent story was about Indonesia, the first member to quit the organization.

Less and less do we hear that the United Nations is the one great hope for peace. In the Congo at least, it made far too much war for that, and the end of that grim fiasco is not yet in sight.

The story of the United Nations in the Congo over the last five years is a telling history lesson, though a confusing one. So much has happened in the Congo during the past five years that many Americans have forgotten how the whole mess began and can see no pattern in it.

Belgium, former colonial ruler of the Congo, granted that vast area in the jungles of Central Africa full independence on July 1, 1960. This premature move was made because Belgium did not want to be involved in a long and wearying war to retain its possessions in the Congo. The grant of independence to the Congo, however, did carry the conditions that (1) Belgium was to retain military bases and (2) the safety of Belgium settlers was guaranteed. Within hours of the Congo's independence day, these guarantees ceased to be worth the paper they were written on. Sheer savagery burst through the fragile crust of civilization in the Congo. Unspeakable crimes were committed against innocent Congolese and Belgians. The Belgian government, acting speedily and firmly, sent in paratroops to restore order and save life.

At once, a mighty clamor arose in the United Nations. The organization said to be the world's last best hope for peace was not willing to see peace established in the Congo by the Belgians, who had full treaty rights to intervene once the guarantees to their settlers had been violated. The Belgians were ordered out again even while crimes against humanity continued. The United Nations promised to send in its own force to keep the peace. Weeks were spent assembling the United Nations army, while on island of peace and order remained in the Congo: the province of Katanga. There, Moise Tshombe, perhaps the only able and responsible Congolese political leader, was in control. Katanga became a haven for refugees from the rest of the Congo. Tshombe made no secret of his friendship for the West; he refused to submit himself and his province to the rule of madness so prevalent in the rest of the nation.

So the United Nations decided that Katanga must be crushed. The force which supposedly had been sent to the Congo to keep the peace and save lives, broke the peace in the only part of the Congo where peace remained. The free, orderly government of Katanga was overthrown, and Moise Tshombe was driven into exile.

The United Nations now had its bloody "victory," but did not know what to do with it. For many months, frantic efforts were made to build up a minor socialist politician named Cyril Adoula, who was grandly named Premier of the Congo even though most of the time his authority was recognized nowhere beyond his capital city -- and not always there. The remaining United Nations troops marched hither and yon through the strife-torn nation, trying to establish Adoula's authority by a "show of force." But the tides of barbarism closed in all around them and they accomplished nothing at all. Finally, Adoula had to resign. The whole of the Congo was now aflame with rebellion and a new wave of crimes and atrocities was underway.

Moise Tshombe was brought back as the one man who might be able to deal with the situation, and the United Nations troops were withdrawn. Tshombe set up a new army, bolstered by professional volunteers from foreign countries, and set out to crush the rebels and restore order. Despite the fact that the rebels were backed and led by communist-trained activists, Tshombe was largely successful. When rebel-held hostages were threatened with death and cannibalism, American forces went in side by side with the Belgians to rescue them.

Twenty years ago in San Francisco, the United Nations as a world organization and super-government could take one of four roads: (1) the United Nations could become a power instrument for use by the major powers; (2) the United Nations could become a tool of those countries which wanted power, but which had neither the capacity nor the responsibility to exercise such power; (3) the United Nations could be utterly paralyzed by conflicts among its strongest member nations; and (4)it could be the one great hope for peace.

At one time or another, the first three roads have been taken. The road of paralysis by conflict was taken when the Hungarian Freedom Fighters struck for liberty and appealed to the United Nations for help. Because of firm, immovable communist opposition, no help was forthcoming.

The road of real power was taken when UN troops attacked Katanga, and the road of claiming power without responsibility has been taken in Africa during the last four and a half years -- with results that have horrified the whole civilized world.

No one can say the United Nations has not been given a fair trial, and no one ought to deny the UN's almost total failure.

Two great purposes motivated those who built the United Nations Organization. One shared by some, though not all, of the founders was to lay the cornerstones for a world government. The other, a delusion shared by all, was that the United Nations as a great forum for public international discussion would help keep the peace on the theory so often repeated, that "if we're talking at least we're not shooting."

That vapid catch-phrase must have been cold comfort to the Hungarian Freedom Fighters whose appeals to the United Nations were ignored while Soviet tanks gunned them down, and to the peaceful people of Katanga who were slaughtered by the United Nations' own troops.

As a world government, the United Nations would have been the greatest threat to liberty in all history. Fortunately for us, this purpose was never fully realized. As a forum for public internatonal discussion and "world opinion," the United Nations has helped to stir up far more trouble than it ever settled. No vast Secretariat and gigantic buildings in New York City were needed to provide a place for talking instead of shooting; all the normal channels of diplomacy and international conferences were there to be used. In fact, these channels have been used in all truly important negotiations.

The history of the United Nations is a sad monument to a set of utterly false premises. There was no basis for real international union -- and even if there had been, union through a super world government would have been the worst of all possible unions.

Peace is kept by strength, aided from time to time by diplomatic skill. The United Nations has amply proved that it has neither the strength nor skill and could not use them properly if it possessed them.

From now on, we should hope that we will rely more on ourselves and less on a UN dream world which has little connection with reality.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strauss LL.B

THE CASE OF THE UNSUSPECTING DINER

Several enterprising manufacturers of dog food decided to "woof-up" the sales appeal of their products with a seemingly more appetizing menu. As example, cans were relabeled with such succulent terms as "Horse Meat Stew," "Horse Meat Loaf" and the ever-popular "Horse Meat a la Mode."

One State, however, refused to swallow the new menu. A law was passed that specifically prohibited the use of such tasteful terms. Growling and barking their displeasure, the manufacturer's attacked the validity of the law in court. "It's an unfair restraint on trade," they doggedly argued. "We've got a right to make our labels as appealing to our customers as possible."

"Why?" questioned the State's Attorney. "Dogs can't read. On the other hand, the law is a protection against shoppers who might mistakenly take a can of dog food thinking it's stew or meat loaf for human consumption. Dinner time would be chow time. . . .only if you had a chow."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider the law a necessary protection for shoppers?

This is how the Judge ruled; Yes! The Judge held that not only should the labels be discontinued, but that dog food should be labeled "unfit For Human Consumption." In that way, the Judge noted, harrassed housewives, trying to cut down on the high cost of living, would be deterred from giving it a try on the dinner menu. . .or to their hungry and unsuspecting husbands.

The Prayer

From The Upper Room

I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you. (John 13:15)

PRAYER: Help us, Father, to grow more like Jesus. Reward our study of Thy precious Word with a better understanding of His human as well as His divine nature. May our lives more nearly reflect His perfect image and others be influenced by our humble walk with Him to follow Him also. We ask these blessings in the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . .Amen."

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: What is wrong with me? Am I a kook or are there other women around who feel as I do? Is it unreasonable or prudish to expect a little privacy when a woman strips down to the skin, as she must, when she is shopping for a bra and girdle? Is it mid-Victorian to resent being pushed into a fitting room with no door - only a flimsy curtain that flies open exposing her to customers passing by? Is it silly to be annoyed when the clerk barges in with two other saleswomen to "see how the garments look on?"

I have gotten to the point where I dread buying a new bra or girdle. What's more, I've become downright hostile to women who work in undergarment departments. They seem insensitive, ill-mannered and much too interested in walking in on undressed customers. What are your thoughts on this subject? - MAD AND HONEST

Dear Mad: I assure you that women who sell and fit undergarments have no interest in seeing sights. To them it's a way to make a living - and a hard way at that. Can you imagine the energy required to stuff a size 44 backside into a 38 girdle? (Some dames don't realize that the dimensions of their cabooses change over the years.)

Since buying underwear seems to be such an ordeal, order by phone. Most (not all) stores will send out these garments on approval to a known customer. If your purchase needs alteration get down the first thing in the morning - before the crowds arrive.

Dear Ann Landers: When I was in high school I had a terrible case of acne. A person who has not experienced this awful skin problem can't imagine how damaging it is to the morale of a teen-ager.

I'm in my early 20's now and the acne is gone but my face is scarred. I'm awfully self-conscious about this and I find myself avoiding people.

Can you tell me something about the procedure called scraping? This involves freezing the skin and scraping off the top layer. The patient is awake but he doesn't feel any pain. I'm afraid to have it done without checking with someone and you are my best source. Please advise me. - HOPEFUL GIRL

Dear Girl: The procedure which you call "scraping" is also referred to as "abrasive planing" and it is a relatively simple operation.

The physicians with whom I consult tell me that acne sufferers have been delighted with the results. They point out that the psychological effects of the operation are often vastly more important than the improvement in appearance. So go ahead and make an appointment with a dermatologist.

Dear Ann Landers: I keep pinching myself to see if I am awake or having a bad dream. Please tell me what to do at once.

Last night my husband told me he received a phone call at work from a girl he used to go with before we married. (She lives about 200 miles from here.) She said she had been married three years and her husband died a few weeks ago. Then she said, "I think it is time you became acquainted with your son. He is six years old now." My husband was shocked and I am a wreck. He says he is almost sure she is lying. What shall we do? - X. Y. 200

Dear X. Y. 200: The fact that your husband told you would indicated his conscience is clear. Moreover it seems unlikely that a woman would wait six years to make this "introduction." Call a lawyer and accept his counsel.

GOV. WARREN E. HEARNES receives the first sheet of the 1967 Easter Seals from Mary Gayle Hafner of Hannibal, state Easter Seal Child. The annual Easter Seal Campaign, which opens Feb. 20, is conducted by the Missouri Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its 115 county affiliates to raise funds for the treatment and rehabilitation of the physically handicapped.

ST. LOUIS - The 1967 Easter Seal campaign will be launched Feb. 20 with the mailing of the traditional Easter Seals to residents.

This year's seals picture is of a child kneeling and praying with crutches beside him. The figure and crutches are white against a brilliant green background with golden rays beaming toward the child.

The appeal is conducted annually by the county Easter Seal society and its volunteers to raise funds for the continuance of its treatment and rehabilitation program for physically handicapped children and adults in the area.

The society reports that the number of physically handicapped persons is on the increase in view of population growth, medical innovations, which have saved many babies that would not have survived, and accidental injuries. Statistics reveal that forty million Americans will be injured and half of them crippled by traffic accidents alone during the next ten years.

Such services as medical care, medication, speech and hearing therapy, physical and occupational therapy, transportation to treatment centers, camping, nursery school, classes for children with learning disorders and orthopedic appliances are financed or provided by the local Easter Seal Society.

What's My Line May Be Dropped

NEW YORK (AP) - "What's My Line?" the second oldest program on television, will be dropped from the schedule of the Columbia Broadcasting System next fall, the New York Times said today.

A spokesman for CBS said only that the schedule is still being made up.

The Times said "What's My Line?" will probably be replaced by a Western.

The panel show has been on the air since February 1950. Only the Ed Sullivan Show, which went on the air 17 months earlier, is older.

The Times said "What's My Line?" which is televised Sunday nights, lately has been losing much of its popularity.

John Daly, the moderator, and actress Arlene Francis, are the only members of the original team who are still in the show. Publisher Bennett Cerf joined the show six months after it started and is still in it.

Broadway columnist Dorothy Kilgallen, who had been on the program since it started, died Nov. 8, 1965.

The panel tries to guess the unusual occupations of the contestants.

He is a member of U.S. Army, Alaska.

Thousands of soldiers took part in the exercise designed to evaluate and develop procedures for the command and control of joint Allied forces, and to provide practice in tactics during severe weather conditions.

FUSSA, Japan -- Master Sergeant Bobby C. Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Owens of 951 Orchard Lane, Ontario, Calif., has been honored in the Pacific Air Forces (PACAF) special awards program for maintenance personnel.

Sergeant Owens, assigned as an air armament superintendent at Yokota AB, Japan, was named Outstanding Maintenance Mechanic in his Air Force unit and awarded a PACAF "Big Mech" Trophy.

The trophy is a statute of an aircraft mechanic carrying the mark of his profession -- a tool box.

Sergeant Owens was chosen for his outstanding technical ability and diligence in providing essential support for PACAF, America's overseas air arm that maintans the U.S. defense posture in the Pacific and conducts air operations in Southeast Asia.

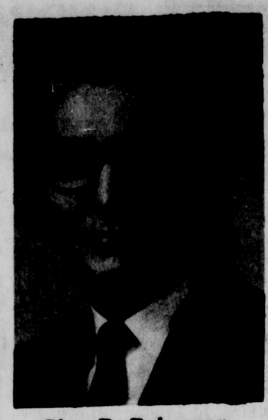

The sergeant is a graduate of Anniston (Mo.) High School.

Farmers to Get Record Assistance

In our Parish, my daughter's little Jimmy, six, kept running in and out of the house one chilly fall day, leaving the door open each time.

Exasperated, his mother shouted at him, Where were you born? In a barn?"

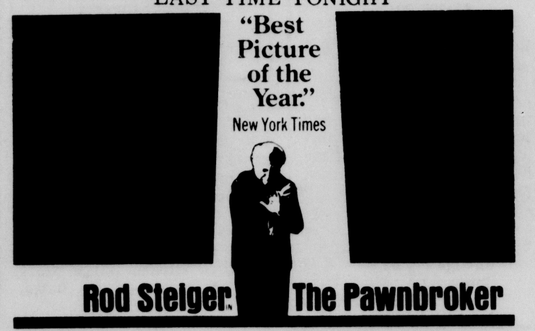

"Well, Jesus was," Jimmy replied.

"What is the CIA that it should be the arbiter of all that is right and just?" she asked.

"Perhaps we need a law requiring the registration of government agencies trying to influence education, just as we have laws requiring lobbyists to register."

Not all congressmen were aroused, however. One old hand familiar with security matters said, "There is nothing new in all this. It just happened to surface."

For a supersecret agency the CIA has been surfacing a lot of late.

Last spring the CIA was accused of infiltrating a Michigan State University police training program in Vietnam. University officials denied knowing about it but ended the contract because of the suspicion aroused.

In Baltimore last December, a federal court dismissed a slander suit against a CIA agent, declaring he could not be forced to testify because it might compromise national security. The claimant said his standing in an Estonian veterans organization had been damaged by a CIA man who allegedly called him an agent of the Soviet secret police.

What brought the CIA's link to the National Student Association to the surface Tuesday were newspaper advertisements by Ramparts Magazine calling attention to a story on the relationship in its March issue.

Spokesmen for NSA and the State Department later confirmed the secret pact. Allen W. Dulles, who headed the CIA when the link was forged, said it was a response to widespread Communist influence in student organizations abroad during the early 1950s.

The CIA funds apparently supported official representation of the NSA at student conferences held throughout the world. A NSA spokesman said it hires U.S. students, usually going to school overseas, as its representatives.

pursuing the North Vietnamese tonight, he reported.

One company of Koreans was moving into a mountainous Communist stronghold 11 miles north of Quang Ngai City when the North Vietnamese attacked them with mortars.

The Communists penetrated the Koreans' perimeter at one point, the spokesman said, but the marines counterattacked and drove the enemy out in hand-to-hand fighting. Fighting was at such close quarters the marines couldn't call in air or artillery support until the North Vietnamese broke and fled.

Additional Korean marines were moved into the area, and the enemy death toll mounted as the marines swept through the valley north of the Tra Khuc River.

The enemy unit was identified by the Korean spokesman as the 1st Battalion of the 21st North Vietnamese regiment.

The first Viet Cong attack on the U.S. minesweepers in the Saigon channel came at 7 a.m., when guerrillas opened fire on two of the 80-foot boats about 15 miles southeast of the capital.

As one of the boats began to sink, the other sweeper pushed it aground to keep the channel clear. Six crewmen were injured and one was reported missing. Air strikes were called in.

Three hours later, another U.S. minesweeper hit a mine seven miles farther down river and sank. Eight crewmen were injured.

During the afternoon, guerrilla gunners opened fire on a fourth minesweeper and continued shooting until it was out of range. A tanker moving down river was forced to turn back.

American infantry units were busy with more than a dozen operations in various parts of South Vietnam, but they reported only light, scattered contact.

A U.S. spokesman said American war planes flew 67 missions over North Vietnam Tuesday, nearly all of them in the southern panhandle. Air Force pilots reported a large secondary explosion after hitting a ferry complex five miles south of Dong Hoi.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said the state could lose $50 million in revenue if pending congressional bills passed and the federal government invades the field of corporate sales and income tax collection.

The committee deferred action on a proposed constitutional amendment to let counties of 50,000 population instead of 85,000 adopt a charter form of government. It would affect Jasper, Boone, St. Charles and Jefferson counties.

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Colombia, said the plan is badly needed to keep Boone County from automatically shifting from third to second class status in 1969.

Other committees took up bills Tuesday night ranging from birth control to election law changes but action was delayed on most of them.

Both Houses Pass Money Bill

JEFFERSON CITY AP - Both the House and Senate passed the emergency money bill today. It is the first bill to go to the governor.

The total for emergency appropriations agreed on by a conference committee comes to $8,320,000.

The governor had recommended $8,134,000.

It includes $600,000 for a new grandstand at the State Fairgrounds in Sedalia, including temporary bleachers for use this year and $1,810,000 for addition of two floors on the new state office building being constructed at Kansas City.

A new item, which was not in the original bill, appropriates Central Hotel property near the Capitol Here.

A street in Prestonburg, Ky., has been named in honor of a former state governor, Bert Combs. A new street sign unfortunately appeared as "Bert Comb Drive." Mr. Combs, commenting on the incident, said, "I've been misquoted, misled, misjudged, and misused. I might as well be misspelled, too!"

House Turns Down Senate Bill Changes

JEFFERSON CITY AP — The Senate passed an emergency appropriation bill carrying about $8 million Wednesday but the House refused to accept Senate changes.

Differences will be worked out in a conference committee.

The Senate restored $1,163,000 to add two floors to a new state office building being built in Kansas City. The House had approved $2 million for this purpose but the Senate Appropriations Committee had eliminated it entirely.

Also added was $325,000 to buy the Central Hotel buildings at the corner of High and Jefferson streets near the Capitol in Jefferson City. Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, appropriations chairman, said the building can be bought from St. Louis owners from $321,400.

The Senate also tacked on $133,500 to match federal funds on a 50-50 basis to expand driver training programs in high schools. The money will go to local school districts to pay for the cost of training additional teachers.

It was adopted at the urging of Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, and had been recommended by the governor's special advisory committee on traffic safety.

The House passed and sent to the Senate another bill to authorize the Board of Public Buildings to pick a site for a new state office building in Jefferson City.

And Sen. John Johnson, D-Sappington, introduced a bill to clear the way for issuance of revenue bonds to build a state office building in St. Louis County.

Also passed and sent to the House were bills to change the title of county judge to county commissioner and one to let junior college districts hold special elections to issue bonds or borrow money.

Other new bills would:

Require 331 parking lot operators in the state to be licensed by the director of revenue at $50 and show financial ability to pay damage costs.

Make it a felony for a prisoner to escape and raise the penalty to six months in jail or up to 10 years in prison.

Make it a felony to influence or intimidate a juror or witness with a penalty of two to five years.

Set up a statewide food stamp plan at a cost of $1,655,999.

Replace present prosecuting attorneys in each county with 30 circuit attorneys who would be paid the same as circuit judges and be required to devote full time to their work. They could have a part time assistant in each county. The estimated cost — $480,000.

Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, chairman of the governor's Commission on Crime and Juvenile Delinquency, asked Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, to introduce the bill.

Eagleton said it would upgrade, improve and modernize law enforcement as recommended by President Johnson.

Candidates for either house of the legislature would have to file in person or by mail in Jefferson City with the secretary of state under a proposal passed by the House.

Rep. Don Kennedy, D-Nevada, introduced a resolution to set up a citizens' advisory committee to study the matter of legislative salaries.

The bill to increase state aid to junior colleges was introduced in the House and would raise from $240 to $400 amount paid for each 24 semester hours. The increase in aid would cost an additional $3,144,975.

Also received in the House were bills that would place a severance tax on mining and oil production and provide for a portion to be returned to the counties, and one putting a 1 per cent tax on gross income of all pipeline operations.

DAILY SIKESTON STANDARD
Sikeston, Missouri

The cost of crime is wasted lives and $27,630,000,000 annually. Every patriot wistfully yearns for "youth to move." They know there are only a few of the reckless youth who grab the headlines in demonstrating and criminal activities. Patriots can encourage youngsters to make "three-minute speeches" promoting the cause of freedom, who will be heard and heeded. They may cut the crime wave in half, which would save fourteen billion dollars annually. If a few of these youth speakers were to be heard on TV, thousands of youngsters would volunteer and join their ranks. Lives would be touched that otherwise might become human wreckage. The "three-minute speakers" would become a part of the program in service club meetings and in church gatherings, where many of the speakers could testify for Christ.

Sincerely,

TO THE EDITOR:

Patriots are under the surveillance of another citadel of the enemy. The watchdogs imply they are connected with the Church of Christ, but there has never been anything whatsoever pro-Communist in the activities of this splendid Church body. Reverend Parker speaks for the critics who will air a 5-day-a week five-minute program deploring "extremism." Generally "extreme" propaganda means anything that is not "extremely far left." It may be safely assumed that is what Reverend Parker means. He announces they are financed by the Field Foundation (consult Cox Committee Hearings-- 1954) and an anonymous donor. What makes this donor "anonymous?" Could it be possible that he is farther to the far left than the Field Foundation?

Yours very truly,
Howard M. Russell

To the Editor:

America may still be the "home of the brave" but it most certainly no longer qualifies as the "land of the free." What land is free when its women and children cannot go about their business night or day without fear of molestation?

What land is free when citizens must always keep one ear open for the screams of their neighbors accosted in their own front yards?

The police officers I am fortunate enough to know are men of the highest caliber, but they are men with the same need every other man has to gain a sense of satisfaction from his chosen work.

This is very rarely accomplished by being in the law-enforcing business in a society which seems hell-bent on protecting the rights of the attacker at the expense of the rights of the attacked.

What is the point in risking one's life to apprehend a criminal who can go scot-free because of a legal loophole? Who enjoys being made a fool of by society's scum?

And why are we so hypnotized by the "social slobberers" (to quote Bishop Fulton Sheen) who are forever putting the rights of the criminal ahead of the rights of the victim?

If punishment is not a successful deterrent to wrong doing, then let's close up our penal institutions and throw in with the "do-gooders" all the way. But if we believe it is a deterrent, why do we all sit silently, by as Supreme Court and other legal rulings "relentlessly chip away at the ever narrowing area of effective police operation", to quote Judge Floyd R. Gibson regarding the proposed curb on the use of police informers?

I am well aware that women who dress improperly in public (and their name is legion) must bear a large part of the responsibility for the increase of forcible rape. Every parent in this land who allows his or her daughter to wear short shorts, bikini swimming suits and super-tight sweaters is, in effect, putting her up "for grabs."

I am no expert on criminal statistics, but on the face of things it would seem that kidnaping lost a good bit of its popularity with the criminal set after the enactment of the Lindbergh Law.

Why does only prominence warrant attention from the legal giants who make our laws? There were many kidnapings before Lindbergh's, but since he was a national hero, the tragic death of his baby brought results which surely have saved the lives of many babies since.

I believe there are many people like me, and what I am fighting for is an opportunity to hear or read the opinions of people better acquainted with this problem than I am so that if these laws truly are working against society in general, we can then speak by the thousands through our Congressmen and Senators who become increasingly more anxious (as November draws closer) to listen to us, their constituents.

So, won't someone please, for the sake of all decent people, explain these legal loopholes in language we can all understand, so that we can do something besides pray, hope and wonder whether our daughters will ever reach maturity without the soul-shattering, body-multilating, mind-destroying experience of forcible rape at the hands of a sexmaniac who is secure in the knowledge that it all goes well for him, he will probable be apprehended, but never convicted.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

Owen was hearbroken because of hindering circumstances that prevented him from attending his father's funeral. I'm sure you are acquainted with some of the circumstances.

He wants everyone to know how much his father really meant to him.

We will be eternally grateful to you for your thoughtfulness and kindness.

The Ray family

A Son's memo of his father:

A TALL TALL MAN

To all who may read this. It is not written to place honor and glory upon the person of whom it is written. For that he would take no credit as it belongs to God, but it is simply a tribute to his wife and family whom he loved above all else except his Lord who came first in his life.

There comes a time in every child's life when he or she finds some living person that they pick to pattern their lives after and look upon as one being ten feet tall (so to speak).

Most usually they carry that person's image with them all through their life and point him out to others and say there is the person I want to pattern my life after, for that is the most wonderful person that ever lived.

I am now a grown man and this is still my ideal as my goal.

Here is my ideal and picture of my "ten foot tall man."

To me he was and always will be regarded the tallest man that ever walked the face of the earth.

He was a very meek and humble man of God, and it was always his goal in life to stop and lend a helping hand to those in trouble and distress.

He never had much of this world's possessions but what he had he was always willing to share with his fellow man in need or distress.

His main purpose in life was to lead lost men, women and children to a saving knowledge of his Lord. He spent some 45 years or better in trying to do just that.

It was never too cold or too hot or too rainy or too early or too late in the day or night for him to don his hat and coat and take his Bible under his arm and go talk and pray with anyone who called for him. Some on their death bed, or deeply convicted, and needed to hear the word of God explained. I have known this man all my life and have never known him to refuse anyone this privilege.

His education was very limited but his knowledge of the word of God to me and thousands of other people was better understood than anyone I was privileged to listen to.

He was just an old fashioned country preacher with an old fashioned but ever-new story of God's love saving power.

He had a passion to preach anywhere and everywhere he could get a congregation together and tell them about God's love.

He loved to talk to the man on the street or a farmer plowing in the field in the hot sun. He was no respector of man, black or yellow, red or white.

Never has he been known to refuse to go and render service to a church because they could not pay, and he would go even if he had to walk ten miles or more just to tell people how God gave his only begotten son to save all who would believe on him.

To me this was the tallest man I shall ever be privileged to know other than Christ himself. This person was none other than the late - Rev. A.E. Ray - my very own dearly beloved father.

Owen Ray

P.S. To all young people I would advise you to take God as your savior, and companion to lead and guide you through life and your life can be made easier and pleasanter and things be easier to conquer as it was with this tall man I have told you about.

Mrs. Ernest Carman

Mrs. Ernest Carman Is Charleston Homemaker

Editor's Note: This is the 25th in a series of articles about the home life of Sikeston area families.

By Ruth Dillender

CHARLESTON -- The Ernest Carman family, 1208 East Commercial, has lived in Charleston four years. Carman is a pharmacist. The family attends St. Henry's church.

Ernest and Maureen Carman have two children, Bill, three years old, and Lisa Anne, 16 months old.

Mrs. Carman is a member of the 20th Century Study club and says that she enjoys sewing for herself and her children.

Cooking is her hobby.

A treasure in the Carman home is a set of brass scales Mrs. Carman gave to her husband.

Mrs. Carman was reared in St. Louis and Carman in Charleston.

Recipes that the Carman family likes:

DEVILED STEAK

4 lbs. chuck or round steak, one-inch thick
1/2 cup bottled lemon juice
1/4 cup catsup
1/4 cup oil
2 tablespoons worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon rosemary, crushed
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
3 cloves garlic or garlic powder

Marinate meat four hours in above mixture, turning frequently.

Bake at 325 degrees for one hour and 15 mintues in tightly covered pan.

For extra tenderness, let stand in 150 degree oven one hour more.

BREAD PUDDING

4 slices bread, crumbled
3/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup milk
2 or 3 eggs
1/4 cup butter, softened
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix all ingredients together. Bake in greased pie plate at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until done.

TUNNEL OF FUDGE CAKE

1 1/2 cups soft butter
6 eggs
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 cups flour, sifted
1 package fudge or double Dutch fudge Pillsbury Buttercream Frosting mix
2 cups chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Cream butter in large mixer bowl at high speed. Add eggs one at a time beating well after each addition.

Gradually add sugar. Continue beating at high speed until fluffy. By hand, stir in flour, frosting mix and nuts until well blended.

Pour batter into greased Bundt pan or 10 inch angel food pan. Bake 50 mintues at 325 degrees. Cook in pan two hours. Remove and cool completely before serving.

Since the cake has soft interior, test for doneness after 50 minutes by observing dry, shiny brownie-type crust.

If using self-rising flour, decrease butter to 1 cup and cream at high speed. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each addition. At low speed gradually add flour and then sugar, mixing well until blended.

By hand, stir in nuts and frosting mix. Bake a little longer than original recipe.

CHOCOLATE ANGEL PIE

2 egg whites
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup finely chopped nuts
1 bar German chocolate minus three or four squares
3 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup whipping cream
1/2 cup powdered sugar.

Meringue shell:

Beat whites with salt and cream of tartar until foamy. Add sugar 2 tablespoons at a time. Beat well after each addition. Continue beating until very stiff peaks form.

Fold in 1/2 teaspoon vanilla and nuts. Spoon into pie plate lined with aluminum foil. Build up sides 1/2 inch around edge of pan. Bake 55 minutes or until done at 275 degrees.

Cool completely. Then remove foil carefully and return shell to plate.

Chocolate cream mixture:

Stir chocolate in water over low heat until melted. Cook until thickened and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Whip cream and sugar. Fold in chocolate mixture. Pile into shell. Chill 2 hours. Serves six to eight.

First Baptist Building Plans Given to Men

The men's organization of the First Baptist church met last Monday night for its regular monthly dinner meeting.

A ham dinner was served to 50 men in the church dining room. The room and tables were decorated with a Valentine theme. Mrs. Zelpha Davis and Mrs. Betty Thompson were in charge of decorations.

Lynn Thompson, president of the Baptist men, called the meeting to order and Fred Steward gave the opening prayer.

Ron Williams led the group in singing "At the Cross." President Thompson presented a plaque to past president Lenzie Beck. The plaque commended Beck for his "faithful and devoted service to the Baptist Men." Beck was president three years.

Beck, John W. Davis and Dr. Wendell Weathers, member of the building finance committee, presented the program. Beck, chairman spoke on the plans, preparation and activities of this drive for a new church building during the past 10 months. He said, "As we are on the eve of starting the drive, many hours of meetings and plans were discussed before the final outlines were given. He said that there was much enthusiasm over the building plans and that 60 to 80 men and women were prepared to begin work at the official kickoff Sunday.

Beck thanked his committee for its work. Other members are Bridwell Crenshaw, Don Black, Pat Lea, Thompson, the Rev. James W. Hackney and David Laird.

Davis spoke on "Publicity for the Finance Drive." Davis said "All Christians are salesmen and as Christian men, it is our duty at all times to sell and tell the gospel story to the world. As the Baptist men, we should take the leading part in helping to erect this beautiful new church plant."

The church brochure was shown and discussed. A copy will be given to every member of the church and friends that are interested in the building program. The theme of the drive and the brochure is "We His Servants Will Arise and Build", Nehemiah 2:20. He thanked all those serving on the publicity committee. Members were Cline Carter, Thompson, Mrs. R. H. Cope, Mrs. Frank Altom, Mrs. Charles Solomon, Charles L. Blanton, Jr., George Hensley and Tom Hodges.

Dr. Weathers, co-chairman with Bridwell Crenshaw of the solicitation committee, spoke on "Involvement." He said that every church member should become involved in this building program and as the church is built, the members will be serving the Lord just as the disciples did as they walked and served with Jesus.

The pastor, the Rev. Mr. Hackney, expressed his appreciation to the group for the work done in preparation for the building program.

He said the building committee had been working with the finance committee. Members of the building committee are Steward, chairman, Beatty Miller, Castor Alsup, Melvin McMackins, Foy F. Collins, Floyd Presley and Milton Sadler.

President Thompson reminded the group of the March meeting at which time the Baptist men will be preparing for the spring revival. The program will be on missions.

The Rev. Hackney gave the closing prayer.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gardner were advised that his father, Emery Gardner, 80, of Paris, Tenn., was injured Jan. 28 when a semitrailer truck crowded him on the bridge over the Paris landing. He received severe leg injuries and shock. His condition is improving.

Spring Weather Touches off Fire Season

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)- Missouri's spring burning season opened Monday with a lot of fireworks, the State Conservation Commission reported today.

The only area that got off in good shape was in the eastern part of the Missouri Ozarks region, including the Perryville area, Sam A. Baker, Deer Run and Eminence districts. Only a few fires were reported there and they were quickly put out.

But humidity as low as 15 per cent and temperatures as high as 70 degrees with winds ranging in gusts above 30 miles an hour kept the fire crews busy in other areas.

And Kermit Hafner of the commission's forestry division said today looked pretty much like a repeater.

Generally, losses to the woods and fields were held to a minimum because equipment was in good shape after winter repairs and the fire crews were rested.

The Lake of the Ozarks district, for years the worst in the state, retained that record with lots of fires, primarily in Benton and Morgan counties. Many were roadside sets, the work of firebugs, Hafner said.

The majority of the fires were brought under control by midnight but some were still burning today. Humidity was 34 per cent at Neosho and 36 per cent at Jefferson City shortly after dawn today.

Hafner praised the aid of rural volunteer fire departments that pitched in to help in many districts Monday.

Ronnie Triplett of Bloomfield Mo., pledged Sigma Phi fraternity.

One evening shortly before the turn of the century, when the wealthy railroad executive Stuyvesant Fish and his wife were staying at their home in New York City, Mrs. Fish was seized by a sudden fit of coughing.

"Can I get you something for your throat, my dear?" Mr. Fish inquired solicitously.

Mrs. Fish stopped short. "Yes, you can," she replied. "That diamond and pearl necklace I saw today at Tiffany's."

CLEMENS M. WOLFF

MISSOURI KNIGHTS HONOR CLEMENS M. WOLFF NOTED CHURCH AND CIVIC LEADER

More than 300 members of the Knights of Columbus of Missouri convened at a testimonial dinner at the Gateway Hotel in St. Louis, January 29 to pay tribute to Clemens M. Wolff, for 40 years, a leader in Catholic and civic activities in the state of Missouri.

Mr. Wolff, a Master of the 4th Degree of the Knights of Columbus has also been a State Deputy for Missouri and Chairman of the St. Louis Chapter, in addition to the many offices he has held as a Catholic lay leader. He served as Vice President of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Men and as Vice President of The Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies.

Also active in civic affairs, Mr. Wolff has been Secretary of the Cosmopolitan Club of St. Louis and as president of the Optimists Club of downtown St. Louis.

A jewelry retailer with offices in downtown St. Louis, Mr. Wolff has been President of the Missouri Retail Jeweler's Association and President of the Missouri Watchmaker's Association.

SPECIAL PLENTIFUL FOOD REPORT -- CELERY

One of the best buys at Midwest produce counters these days is crisp, crunchy, fresh celery.

Unusually large supplies of this popular vegetable from both Florida and California are reaching the market at the same time, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Furthermore, indications are that the abundance will continue another two weeks or so.

Alert shoppers probably already have noticed more attractive prices on this salad item. Celery does not usually vary greatly in supply or price.

There's not much trick to picking the best of this vegetable value. Look for fresh, crisp, clean stalks, advise marketing experts with USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. Pass up bunches with soft, somewhat pliable branches, signs of a sec.tem instead of heart formation, or discoloration in the heart area.

EGGS-TRA! EGGS-TRA!

Headline news from food stores these days includes the increasing supplies of fresh, protein-rich eggs--and the more attractive prices that often go with an abundance.

Alert shoppers no doubt already have seen more reasonable price tags on fresh eggs in food stores. (This is aside from possible temporary changes due to recent snowstorms in the Midwest.)

Eggs often become more readily available at this time of year, but the current supply is more than just a seasonal change. Supplies this spring, says the U,S, Department of Agriculture, may be around 5 percent larger than a year ago.

There are two related reasons behind this increasing supply of eggs, USDA explains. First, there are more hens to produce them, and these hens are laying more eggs apiece.

Shoppers are seeing just the beginning of this increase, USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service -- which lists eggs among our most plentiful foods for February -- expects these bundles of protein to be abundant for several weeks.

By all means, pick up an extra carton or two on your next shopping trip. If properly refrigerated, eggs will keep for about a week the same quality as when you purchased them. And, you can avoid running out of eggs between purchases -- as a survey showed 12 percent of households do.

HOW TO BUY EGGS. . .

The larger the size, the higher the quality. . . .What's wrong with this statement about eggs and their quality?

If you don't know, then the newly revised U,S, Department of Agriculture publication, "How to Buy Eggs by USDA Grades and Weight Classes," is meant for you. And even if you do know about the misstatement, this leaflet -- prepared by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service -- may well contribute to your egg-buying know-how.

As the leaflet explains, "size" and "grade" are entirely different considerations. Size refers to the minimum weight per dozen eggs. A dozen large size eggs, for example, will weigh at least a pound and half.

Grade refers to the quality of the egg. The interior of the egg and condition and appearance of the shell all are considered.

"How to Buy Eggs. . ." offers tips to consumers on how to buy eggs wisely, explaining, for example, when a smaller size might be a better bargain than a larger one.

Single copies of "How to Buy Eggs by USDA Grades and Weight Classes," Leaflet 442, may be obtained by postcard request from the Office of Information, U,S, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D,C, 20250. Please include your zipcode.

Washington Report

Sen. Stuart Symington

Last year some 18,000 Americans visited the Soviet Union. About 900 of their citizens visited our country. The protection and assistance of our people over there is the primary purpose of the U,S, - Soviet Consular Convention. That proposed Treaty is now being considered by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of which I am a member.

In this country, as a matter of routine, foreigners arrested are entitled to have their Government officials notified and to visit them. But in the Soviet Union even Soviet citizens do not enjoy rights that American citizens protested there would have under the provisions of this Treaty.

The Treaty provides that U,S, Officials will be notified of the arrests of American citizens within one to three days; and allowed to see them within two to four days. As matters now stand, accused persons in the Soviet Union are not permitted to consult with a lawyer, or anyone else, during the period of investigation. That investigation can last 9 months.

The proposed Treaty would not authorize or require the opening of consular offices in either country; but it would provide a legal framework should consular offices be opened. After studying the matter, I will vote for ratification.

SAFER STREETS NEEDED

In a recent statement on the floor of the Senate, I spoke of the need for crime control.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has reported that during the first nine months of 1966 the rate of serious crime climbed 10 percent throughout the Nation over the corresponding period in 1965. This rising tide concerns every citizen and must be reversed.

The majority of the crimes now committed in this country are offenses under the laws of the States and the cities. President Johnson has presented a program to the Congress designed to utilize the resources of the Federal government in helping to curb this disgraceful development to the extent that the Constitution will allow.

The Safe Streets and Crime Control Act would extend Federal cooperation to local law enforcement efforts. Grants-in-aid are proposed for a program to be undertaken jointly by the Federal Government and the States and local communities, in order to foster the coordinated development of comprehensive law enforcement plans.

These proposals I believe will receive the fullest consideration of the Congress.

ALPHA ZETA AND KHOURY LEAGUE

This past weekend it was an honor to be initiated into the Missouri College of Agriculture Chapter of Alpha Zeta, national honorary fraternity for undergraduates in agriculture, here on Sunday to speak in St. Louis at the annual Khoury Baseball League Banquet in St. Louis.

These fine organizations, their officers and members, are helping to build a strong and responsible young generation dedicated to making a living reality of our American way of life.

One of LBJ's favorite stories concerns a Texas judge who was called to both side of the night to be told that his court had been abolished. "By whom?" asked the judge.

"By a committee -- the mayor, the head of the bar association and a banker," said the caller, naming the men.

"Let me tell you about that committee," snapped back the judge. "The mayor stole his way into office, the lawyer is a shyster, and the banker is a usurer like his daddy was before him."

"Calm down, judge," said the caller at that point. "I was only kidding. No one has abolished your court."

"Now, that's not fair," said the judge, "making me say those things about three of the dearest friends I've ever had!"

The "Full Faith And Credit" Clause of The United States Constitution

This Court must determine for itself how far the full faith and credit clause compels the application or denial of rights asserted under the laws of one state, that of the forum, by the statute of another state.

Thus, the United States Supreme Court, under the full faith and credit clause, acts as a sort of arbiter between the States to determine which State policy must give way in the case where the transaction involved in a lawsuit concerns more than one State with a conflict between policies enunciated in its statutes or judicially created common law. As the Court has partially put the situation: "We have recognized, however, that full faith and credit does not automatically compel a forum State to subordinate its own substantive policy to a conflicting policy of another State; rather, it is for this Court to choose in each case between the competing and public policies involved."

A good illustration of the way in which this principle works is found in the leading case of Association for the Preservation of Freedom of Choice, Inc. v. Simon. Here, the defendant Simon, Secretary of State of New York State, issued a press release to New York newspapers which contained defamatory and libelous charges against the plaintiff, a District of Columbia corporation. Several New York newspapers, with out-of-State circulation, reprinted the press release, and the story therefore circulated in other States. A New York statute provided that suit for libel had to be brought within a year after publication of the libel, which the New York courts had construed to mean a year after the issuance of the first copy of the newspaper or magazine to the reading public. However, a number of other States involved either had statutes of limitation which permitted suit after more than a year after first publication, or which held that the period after which a suit is not permitted will be counted starting with the time the person who was familiar with the party libelled saw the publication, and not when it was first distributed to some member of the public.

SO SAYS THE DIRECTOR

"This is a revolution which will be fought everywhere and we will win because there are more of us than there are of them."

The rallying cry of the Bungarian uprising of 1956? Not at all. These words were shouted by a young agitator in December 1966 during riotous disorder on the campus of a large American university. In a continuing series of events, the academic community has been bombarded with civil disobedience, assaults, threats, and riots of unprecedented magnitude.

I think it is appropriate to quote two warnings from statements which appeared here in October 1964 and February 1966:

This academic year will undoubtedly see intensive Communist Party efforts to erect its newest facade (the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America) on the Nation's campuses to draw young blood for the empire which is international communism. (October 1, 1964)

The unvarnished truth is that the communist conspiracy is seizing this insurrectionary climate to captivate the thinking of rebellious-minded youth and coax them into the communist movement itself or at least agitate them into serving the communist cause. (February 1, 1966)

Has this strategy paid off? The answer, unfortunately must be a decided yes. Today the communist conspiracy is reaping large dividends from its persistent efforts to gain a toehold on college and university campuses and from the dogged determination to disrupt, through mass agitation, the orderly processes of our educational systems.

The great majority of college students are proud of their American heritage and loyal to the traditions of democracy. However, it is basic communist strategy to bother communist objectives with noncommunist hands, and this is exactly what is happening on some college campuses. The idealism of many American students is being cynically exploited for communist purposes; youthful exuberance is being channeled into unlawful channels; and mocking disdain for democratic processes and moral values is being fed to impressive young minds -- all under the guise of seeking equal justice or some other noble cause.

At the core of these campus disorders, and often below the surface, are agitator personnel from organizations such as the communist W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America and their comrades in the Students for a Democratic Society, a so-called "New Left" group; members of the Progressive Labor Party, a pro-Red Chinese group; and individuals associated with organizations under the control of the subversive Socialist Workers Party and similar groups.

There is no place in the academic world, where unencumbered inquiry is essential, for a riot leader's recently voiced blackjack threat (of "if they do not accede to our demands, we'll close down their great and profitable university." This is no calm, deliberate search for truth. This is the way of the totalitarian, seeking to enslave through force.

The university graduate of today will tomorrow guide the destiny of this Nation. We want our young people to be able to think for themselves and to be active participants in community life, but we also want them to realize that freedom and justice are secured by law and order; that lasting rights and privileges are possible only by acceptance of responsibilities and obligations.

By the same token, the demand of the hour is for educators with courage, dedicated to the supremacy of law, unafraid to support American principles, and determined that the communist conspiracy shall not dictate the policies of free institutions.

John Edgar Hoover,
Director.

Missouri Press Report

Sen. Edward Long

Have just introduced the Right of Privacy Act; which would, for the first time in American history, ban all wiretapping and eavesdropping except in cases where the national security is at stake.

The bill tightly restricts the advertisement, manufacture, and distribution of electronic wiretap and "bugging" devices in interstate commerce.

This bill is the result of my Senate hearings and investigations during the last two years and the strong interest of President Johnson and the Justice Department.

Am co - sponsor of a number of important bills before the Senate this session:

-- A bill to provide on-the-job training, on - the - farm training and other benefits to American GI's serving since the Korean War. This bill will also raise educational benefits for veterans to help meet the increasing cost of college education. Am also co-sponsoring a bill to give full war - time benefits to American GI veterans serving in Viet Nam after the Gulf of Tonkin Crisis.

-- A bill to help increase recreation development in the Top of the Ozarks River Resource Conservation and Development Project now underway in Texas, Dent., Shannon, Howell, and Oregon counties. Long range goal of this project is to create 15,000 new job opportunities in these counties to halt the out - migration of young people.

-- A bill to provide special tax credits to parents who must bear the expense of higher education for their son or daughter. Included in our bill this year are business, trade, technical and other vocational schools.

-- A bill to assist State and local law enforcement agencies with the purchase of urgently needed equipment to combat crime. Local police would be greatly assisted by computers for crime detection and two-way radios for the policeman on the beat.

In my Washington office recently: William L. Nance of Albany, Missouri. He is National Chairman for Mental Health and Mental Retardation of the United States Jaycees.

Our Jaycees are playing an important role in Missouri and across the nation in helping develop local programs to combat mental health and mental retardation.

Personal income in Missouri rose more than 8.4 per cent during 1966, according to the latest report. The report shows that Missourians increased their personal income faster than the nation as a whole. It also shows Missouri ranked fourth among Plains States in average increases in personal income during 1966.

SOCIAL BUT NOT SECURE

It is too late to argue about Social Security. Not only is the plan here, but it is here to stay in an ever-increasing amount.

What few people realize is the futility of getting a fair break after a lifetime of making payments. A college graduate who starts work at the age of 22 and retires at the age of 65 will have $31,200 paid into his account. He pays half and his employer pays half, a fact which many employes overlook. Retirement benefits, based on actuary tables, will total $25,700.

The young worker can look forward to getting back $5,500 less than he paid in.

An insurance company which offered a plan of this kind would be barred from writing business in any state.

Had the employe, making the maximum payments based on a salary of $6,600 deducted and banked the present 4.4. per cent from his salary and matched the gradual increases which are already pegged to reach 5.85 per cent by 1987, at retirement, have $42,179.42 at a bank savings interest of 4 per cent, according to the National Federation of Independent Business.

Making the situation even more ridiculous is the fact, based on 1963 figures, that only nine percent of the population is over 65. From 65 to 70, the per cent is less than three and it declines rapidly to less than 1.5 per cent over the age of 80.

In the present basis, it can be assumed that some 90 per cent of the population will never reach the age of 65. In gambling odds, there's a nine-to-one chance that today's workers will never receive more than a $225 death benefit and $120 a month for the widow after she reaches 60. The payout is about $20,000 a loss of about $10,000 of the money actually withheld.

Social Security is described as insurance. Yet the same $31 billion of the $28 billion in reserves is invested in U,S, Bonds. Readers don't need to be reminded who makes the bonds good and pays the interest. Interest received on reserves is now between $500,000 and $600,000 annually.

Last year, Social Security operated 613 offices with more being opened since to meet increased benefit plans. Administrative costs in 1963-64 were $370,458,000 a gain of $41,418,000 over the previous year.

At the rate of increase, in a few years, it is logical to assume that all of the interest earned on reserves will be spent in administration and the department will be operated in the red. In 1967, administration took only 30.4 per cent of the interest earned. In 1963, administration was taking 61 per cent.

Ex-Castro Ally Stalks Cong Now

DAU TIENG, South Vietnam (AP) —Jose Gonzales is soft-spoken, with twinkling eyes and a ready grin. He looks as fresh and green as a brand-new lieutenant should.

But at 25, Gonzales has fought on three continents. He has been a secret agent and a revolutionary. He has survived torture, faced a firing squad and escaped from prison.

In Vietnam, he stalks the Viet Cong with a cold professionalism and personal intensity that even some of his soldier comrades find unsettling. When his company first went into action it was on even money but that Gonzales would be the first to kill a Viet Cong. He was.

The only son of a well-to-do land owner in Cuba, Gonzales left school to join Fidel Castro's guerrillas. When the Batista dictatorship fell, Gonzales was among the revolutionaries who paraded through Havana streets.

Within a year a disillusioned Gonzales and five comrades fled Cuba in a small boat. When the engine failed, they drifted for six days before the U.S. Coast Guard towed them to Miami.

Within 10 days Gonzales had volunteered for the American-backed invasion force then being formed in Guatemala.

"I went back to Cuba on the last day of February, 1961, as leader of an infiltration team," Gonzales says. "Our mission was to prepare the way for the invasion—sabotage bridges and things like that."

But in the Bay of Pigs invasion there was no contact with the infiltration teams. Gonzales was 30 miles away and helpless to do anything when his comrades landed.

For the next 10 months Gonzales "went underground" before being captured by Castro's police.

"The next month was the worst of my whole life," Gonzales recalls. He was beaten, questioned for hours and dragged before a firing squad.

"I heard the shots and knew that I was dead," he said.

The firing squad was using blanks. The shaken youth was taken back for more questioning.

With seven cellmates, Gonzales finally escaped. Five of his companions were shot down, Gonzales and another man got away.

This time, Gonzales escaped Cuba by being smuggled to a Central American country he won't name.

"I made three more trips into Cuba for short periods in the next several months," he said. He only smiles when asked if he was working for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Gonzales says he was then asked if he would go to the Congo. Gonzales says he was fighting "Communist rebels" in an eight-month job, and lets it go at that.

He decided to take advantage of an Army program that allows veterans of the Bay of Pigs force to apply for direct commissions as officers. In October he resumed his fighting, leading a platoon of the U.S. 3rd Brigade, 4th Infantry Division.

Lt. Gonzales applies his own knowledge to the war in Vietnam. For one thing he wears unmarked fatigues, with no name tags or officer's insignia.

"My men know me," Gonzales smiles." I don't want to make myself a target by wearing all that stuff."

COFFEE CORNER

by Cherie

Well as usual I had a lovely fattening Valentines Day, and here I am simply breaking my neck trying to lose weight. Charles can hardly wait for an occasion so he can buy me a big box of candy, (his favorites, chewys and nuts.) For instance, on Christmas, when I'm stuffed to the hilt with goodies and the pounds are just bulging out all over, what do I always get under the tree, yep, chewys and nuts! And both times after giving birth as I have struggled to come back to reality, who is standing, smiling at the foot of the bed? Who else, but that little ole Charley man and his box of chewys and nuts. And if there is anything I don't need right after a pregnancy, its candy. I remember I could have just died with Brete, cause came time to go home from the hospital, and I was still so fat I couldn't get in any clothes, and ended up wearing the maternity outfit home that I had arrived in. What a low blow, I mean how demoralized can you get? Brother, what I couldn't have done with that box of chewys and nuts about then!!!

So, here it is around Valentines Day, and who swishes in with a box of candy, yep, and on top of this, I have to bake four dozen cupcakes for the first grade school party. I tell you, if some of this sugar would only rub off on my disposition, I'd be the sweetest thing in the four state area, and that I ain't, just ask Charles. I decided the other day that I'd better put something else in that den with that new divan, so it wouldn't look so lonesome, and all I did was send out three new chairs-the den does look better too-I think - I don't know what Charles thinks - we aren't speaking at our house, at least he isn't. Says he doesn't care for the color, but the ole dear is colorblind, so I don't know what effect he thinks that argument is going to have with me. Well, guess I'd better shut up, when he finishes reading this I'll end up next year without even any chewys and nuts.

TRUTH: Man's mind is powerful, great and wonderful, yet it is far short of perfect. Men cannot agree with each other upon what is truth, nor what is important, nor yet upon what is trivial.

Few minds comprehend the divine tongue. No man is perfect. That is why judges err, and wise men do foolish things. The wise, the foolish, and all between claim each to have the light and right and truth in his own exlcusive possession. I say one thing, you another, and our neighbor yet another. But truth is present somewhere.

Truth is stable. It is lasting. It is our duty to study and search that we may become less foolish, more wise, and nearer to the truth always.

Judge C. Myers

In our Parish, some people had difficulty getting used to the Mass in English. As I walked to church one Sunday morning I met the little girl next door returning from Mass.

"Who said the nine?" I asked.

"Father Regan said Mass," Sheila replied, "and Father Smith did all the interrupting."

Scramble For Supper

Scrambled - a U.S. Department of Agriculture survey revealed -- is the favorite way of homemakers to fix eggs for an evening meal. As a matter of fact, scrambling is a favorite style of eggs for any meal.

One of the chief reasons behind this preference is the ease with which they are prepared. And, for modern homemakers it often is a "scramble" to fix supper in short time.

Equally important as ease and speed are the attractive price tags on eggs in many food stores these days. Budgetwise meal planners will be glad to learn that the abundance which produced this savings on eggs is expected to continue for several weeks, according to USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Another savings is possible with the purchase of less than top-quality eggs, if available. Scrambled eggs, especially when combined with flavorings from other foods, will not require the delicate flavor and fine appearance of Grades AA and A. These grades, however, are especially good for frying and poaching, where appearance is important.

Lent, too, will make eggs increasingly popular for more than just breakfast. For those who will continue to observe former fasting rules, eggs provide a protein-rich "meatless" meal.

To add a little variety to your next scrambled eggs for supper, USDA suggests the following "exotic" recipes. They offer added flavor interest, while losing none of the ease and speed of preparation.

RAREBIT SCRAMBLE

1 T butter or margarine
1/4 lb. (1 cup) grated sharp Cheddar Cheese
4 fresh eggs
1/2 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1/2 t salt
Dash pepper
Chopped sauteed onion, if desired

Melt butter in top of double boiler; add cheese and allow to melt--stirring occasionally. Using fork, combine eggs, milk, salt and pepper. (Add sauteed onion now if used.) Add this mixture to cheese and allow to cook slowly. Use rubber spatual to lift mixture from sides of pan, allowing uncooked portion to flow to bottom of pan. Cook until mixture has a scrambled look. Serve on hot buttered toast or English muffin halves.

CREOLE SCRAMBLED EGGS

6 eggs
1/4 cup cream
1/2 t salt
1/8 t pepper
1/2 t onion juice
1/2 cup chopped, cooked bacon

NOVELIST-POET Robert Penn Warren is the recipient of the $5,000 Bollingen Prize for poetry from the Yale University library. Warren, a Pulitzer Prize winner in 1947, was honored for his "Selected Poems, New and Old, 1923-1966," which was published last year.

2 T finely chopped green pepper
2 T finely chopped pimiento
2 T salad oil, butter or margarine
6 toasted bread baskets

To prepare bread baskets, trim edges from fresh bread slices. Butter one side and press into muffin tins, allowing corners to point upward. Place in 400 degrees F. oven until bread is nicely browned (about 10 minutes).

Break eggs into a large mixing bowl; add cream, salt, pepper, onion juice, bacon, green pepper and pimiento. Beat slighly. Heat oil in large skillet over hot heat. Tilt skillet so oil covers sides and bottom of pan. Add egg mixture and cook slowly without stirring, until eggs are partially cooked. Then stir with fork, loosening sides and scraping bottom of pan so liquid portion can run through. Continue cooking without additional stirring until eggs are done as desired. Place hot toast baskets on serving plates and fill with hot scrambled eggs. Serve immediately.

SCRAMBLED EGGS, ORIENTAL SYTLE

1/4 to 1/2 lb. sausage, bulk or link, cut in small pieces
1/3 cup sliced celery
1/3 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup bean sprouts, canned, drained
6 eggs, beaten
1/3 cup milk
1/2 t salt
1/8 t pepper

Brown sausage lightly in a fry pan. Pour off excess fat. Add celery and onion; cook 2 to 3 minutes. Add bean sprouts. Combine eggs, milk, salt, and pepper. Pour over sausage mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until eggs are set but vegetables are still slightly crisp -- about 10 minutes.

MAN IN TIME

He was afraid of storms
and hid in culverts or potato ouses
when they came in.
Sometimes he grew a beard,
in summertime, too -- a red beard --
and he would not wash,
and went for weeks without talking.
Once I saw him plowing past midnight
in a full moon,
crying out at the far turn
to a sleepy horse
that stumbled in the dark -- strange sounds of gee, haw and goddamn
in broken words across broken ground.
Then he would be gone
in polished shoes, shaven,
and wearing a panama hat.
No word for days.
And then smoke from the chimney
and wild curses for the cat,
for the dog, the land, and for the man.

School Election March 7

The board of education passed unanimously Tuesday afternoon a resolution authorizing a $1,350,000 bond election March 7.

Passage of the bond issue will require a yes vote by a two thirds majority. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. until 7 p.m.

Charles Matthews, school board secretary, prepared the resolution and explained that the R-6 district has a bonding capacity of $2,076,056.11 based on the legal limit of 10 per cent of the assessed valuation of property.

The outstanding bond indebtedness now is about $680,000, Matthews said.

Voters in the district who lives in New Madrid county will vote at the Southwest School. Other polling places will be announced in a legal notice to be published in the Daily Standard Saturday and Feb. 25.

The bond issue would authorize building a new elementary school, additions to school buildings and remodeling.

The resolution did not mention which buildings will be added, but previous announcements stated that plans are underway for a new elementary school in the southeast section of the district, a new field house, additions to the math and science department of the high school, enlargement of the library and cafetorium at the high school and additions to vocational education buildings.

The plans to shift sixth grade pupils into junior high school and ninth grade pupils into the high school will be accomplished next year regardless of the result of the bond issue election, Dr. A. D. Martin, board president said.

City to Charge Miner $150 for Fire Calls

The city has informed officials of Miner that a contract is being prepared to have Miner reimburse Sikeston $150 for each fire call response there.

Firemen have been responding to calls in Miner and assessing a $50 charge to persons having fire insurance. The $50 was paid by the insurance companies.

In the contract the city of Miner would be obligated to pay for fire calls.

Miner representatives will be given 30 days to sign the contract, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said.

If they fail to enter into contract the city will cut fire service to Miner, Miller said.

In a letter addressed to L. F. Wheeler, mayor of Miner, Miller stated:

"The city of Sikeston, after consideration of many factors such as investment costs, maintenance costs, liability, growth and similar community operations, feels that certain policy changes are necessary to the continuance of extension of fire protection service beyond our city limits.

"We feel that since our protection facilities are provided and supported soley by the property owners within Sikeston, then the city of Miner, should pay the cost of fire protection facilities when used within the city of Miner.

"We conservatively estimate the cost of our existing fire protection facilities and equipment at $200,000. The annual cost of operation is approximately $30,000 and our present rate of growth indicates additional facilities will be necessary in the near future.

"Amortizing (writing off) our investment over 25 years, plus the annual operating cost reveals that each fire call responded to last year cost in excess of $150.

"In view of these facts, we are willing to continue to provide fire protection service to Miner. However, we feel obligated to insist the city of Miner reimburse the city of Sikeston, a proportionate share of the cost of facilities and service.

"In checking with other communities, we find that a commonly used procedure is for the city having fire protection facilities, to contract with adjacent communities desiring use of the facilities.

"Accordingly, we have asked our city attorney to prepare a contract, wherein the city of Miner would reimburse the city of Sikeston $150 for each response to a fire within the corporate limits of Miner. Upon execution of the contract by the officials of Miner, and Sikeston, extension of the fire protection services into Miner would be resumed."

Wheeler said today that he had not read the letter but had heard of its contents.

"It sounds as if they are being neighborly and we appreciate their thoughts," he said.

The matter will be studied and taken before the council before any action is taken.

The winner will be selected during February. His name will be entered in state competition.

Driver Falls Dead at Wheel of His Truck

A Madison county man apparently died of a heart attack at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday while driving his 1960 Chevrolet pickup truck on South Main street in Fredericktown.

The brake lights of the truck, driven by Clyde Hanks, 58, Millcreek rural, flashed on, the vehicle veered to the right and went through a fence. When witnesses approached the truck they found Hanks slumped over dead.

The body was taken to the Wilson Funeral Home in Fredericktown, and then transferred to the Hoffman Funeral Home in St. Louis.

Two East Prairians were treated at the Missouri Delta Community hospital for injuries, suffered in a collision, on highway 77, one and one-half miles south of Charleston Tuesday at 1:40 p.m., during a dust storm.

A 1967 Ford pickup truck, driven by Donnie Faye French, 9, East Prairie, was struck in the rear, by a 1966 International tractor-trailer, driven by Daniel Eugene True, 17, East Prairie. Poor visibility was blamed.

Injured in the French truck were Wanda Lee Mooreland, 42, East Prairie, with cuts on her head, and a concussion. Joyce Faye Mooreland, age five weeks, had possible internal injuries.

In a two-car collision Tuesday at 9:45 p.m. on route 61, six miles south of Sikeston, a 1966 Ford, driven by William Buck, 18, Chaffee, was struck by a 1965 Buick, driven by Kermit Pyatt, 55, Sikeston. Buck started to pull off one side of the highway, and then turned off the other side. His car was struck in the rear by the Buick.

No one was injured.

Health Measure Offered

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - The Missouri Senate got a bill today to allow counties to set up mental health centers for out patient service if the voters approve.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said the bill had the backing of the Missouri Mental Health Association and is of special interest to central Missouri.

Up to 10 counties could join in supporting such centers by levying a tax of 5 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation.

The Senate also got bills to:

Set up a commission on a status of women and study ways to better their rolls in society. The commission would include 15 appointed by the governor.

Increase the salary of the 140 magistrate and probate clerks by $1,500 a year.

Both houses tackled growing dockets as committees continued to pour out bills.

Tuesday the Senate Judiciary Committee approved a bill to lower the majority requirement on bond issue elections from two-thirds to 60 per cent.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes had requested a simple majority but the committee compromised at 60 per cent.

The same committee approved a bill to let Missouri join the multistate tax compact in an effort to head off a federal take over the interstate corporation taxation.

Jets Use Clear Skies To Strike Viet North

SAIGON, South Vietnam AP -- U. S. jet pilots raced through on North Vietnam, screened through much of the winter by monsoon clouds.

A Tass dispatch in Moscow said squadrons flew over Hanoi and bombed and strafed "economic targets and populated areas in the provinces neighboring on Hanoi."

The U.S. Command, which ordinarily conducts briefings on air operations the day after they take place, declined to comment on the Soviet news agency's report. Tass, in a dispatch from Hanoi, said the Americans sped over Hanoi at noon and "heavy antiaircraft guns and bursts of rocket fire shook the sky."

Aground, South Korean marines reported victory in the biggest battle in recent months in Vietnam. They said they killed 243 North Vietnamese regulars in a three-hour fight through rice paddies about 340 miles northeast of Saigon.

In the Mekong Delta south of Saigon, Vietnamese authorities reported a combined army-ranger unit killed 56 Viet Cong in a pitched battle Tuesday. But in the Long Tau River -- the main shipping channel into Saigon -- 14 American sailors were wounded and one was missing when guerrillas sank one 80-foot U.S. minesweeper, badly damaged two others and fired on a fourth.

A Korean spokesman said two companies of Korean marines — about 400 men —took moderate casualties in the big battle this morning against an estimated 1,200 North Vietnamese attackers. The Koreans were

Mrs. Powell To Testify

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —Adam Claytoon Powell's estranged third wife flew to the United States today from Puerto Rico and said she would cooperate with the House investigation of her husband.

"I think it's my duty," Y. Majorie Flores Powell told reporters after landing in Miami for a stopover before going to Washington.

Wearing a red knit dress and a black fur coat, she said she had not seen her husband for more than a year.

Asked if she knew Corrine A. Huff, Powell's 25-year-old former beauty queen secretary, Mrs. Powell said.

"I don't want to talk about her."

Mrs. Powell said she did not know she was wanted for questioning in the House investigation until she read about it in a newspaper. She was accompanied by her lawyer, Reinaldo Paniagua, and a U.S. marshal from Puerto Rico.

She said she was served with a subpoena Monday at her lawyer's office, then allowed to go home and make arrangements for her 4-year-old son, Adam.

With only eight days left until it must report to the House whether the New York Congressman is entitled to take his seat, a select House investigating committee is trying to decipher the purpose and activities of Huff Enterprises Ltd., a Bahamian corporation that does business from Powell's office.

Its president is Miss Huff.

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin urged North Vietnam's Communist rulers in vain to halt the flow of troops and arms to South Vietnam as one essential step to ensure peace talks, diplomatic informants said today.

These sources said the Soviet leader's advice made plain Hanoi's action — or even a promise of it — would be balanced by a guaranteed American military standoff.

The failure of President Ho Chi Minh's regime to respond positively and swiftly to Kosygin's prompting led to the resumption of American air raids on North Vietnam Monday, and thus to the failure of intensive Soviet-British peacemaking efforts during Kosygin's visit to Britain last week, the sources said.

Yet Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his key advisers apparently still hope North Vietnam's rulers may halt, or promise to halt, the dispatch of military reinforcements to South Vietnam and that this will activate an agreed Soviet-British peacemaking program.

Wilson told the House of Commons Tuesday:

"There is an initiative . . . a plan that I can't tell you about which could bring peace tomorrow and which requires a very small move to activate all the very complicated machinery that could bring us to peace."

The British also seem to be convinced, on the basis of what Kosygin has told them, that two of the chief factors behind Hanoi's failure to respond probably were these:

1. There are now around 100,000 North Vietnamese troops across the frontier operating in support of the Viet Cong. President Ho plainly does not want to leave them high and dry. Yet Kosygin is understood to have stressed that any cutoff of military supplies need not deprive them of food or material supplies.

2. There are now also about 100,000 Red Chinese in North Vietnam whose main mission seems to be to stiffen Hanoi's resistance against anything that Peking would regard as a retreat.

Wilson and Foreign Secretary George Brown reportedly emerged from their week of contact with Kosygin profoundly impressed with what they took to be a deep, genuine Russian anxiety for a settlement.

United Fund Takes 1967 Requests

A special meeting of the Sikeston United Fund was called Tuesday afternoon at the junior high school cafeteria to hear the budget request for the 1967, member agencies.

Charles Matthews, chairman of the drive, explained the necessity to start early this year to initiate a payroll deduction plan for contributors.

Six of the eight member agencies were represented at the meeting and submitted estimates for the budget.

The Red Cross requested $5,280. The Boy Scouts requested $13,547. The Girl Scouts requested $7,089. The Civil Air Patrol requested $1,500. The Salvation Army requested $3,600, and the City Welfare office requested $9,000. The Missouri Delta Community hospital and the U.S.O., also member agencies, were not represented at the meeting.

Dick Ray, Southeast Missouri Boy Scout council executive, Cape Girardeau, stressed that the scouts' request is purely an estimate and that the organization's board of directors has not yet acted on a budget or a program for 1968.

The United Fund collections in 1967 finance the operation of the agencies for their 1968, fiscal years.

J. C. Newcomer, Bloomfield, echoed Ray's comment on behalf of the Girl Scouts. Their program and budget will be drafted in April or May, he said.

No new agencies were added to the fund this year.

A five member committee of board members was appointed following the budget requests. The committee will review the requests and report to the board next Tuesday.

CIA Reportedly Aids Other Youth Groups

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Central Intelligence Agency has supplied millions of dollars in secret financial support to at least three youth organizations in addition to the National Student Association, the Evening Star reported today.

The State Department acknowledged Tuesday that the government's top espionage and intelligence agency had for more than a decade financed operations abroad by the NSA, the nation's largest college student organization.

But the reported CIA support of the other three groups had not previously been disclosed The Star identified the organizations as:

—The U.S Youth Council, a confederation of 36 political, religious, student and service youth groups with headquarters in New York.

—The World Assembly of Youth, a confederation of national youth groups from 54 Western and nonaligned nations. It is headquartered in Brussels, Belgium.

—The International Student Conference of Leiden, Netherlands, a similar confederation of about 60 national student organizations from Western and non-aligned nations.

The newspaper said CIA funds for those organizations, totaling millions of dollars over more than a decade, were channelled through foundations. It identified the principal donor to NSA and the three other groups as the Foundation for Youth and Student Affairs in New York.

The CIA had no immediate comment on the Star story.

The NSA's supervisory board was meeting today to consider what to do about the organization's relationship with the CIA.

The report of additional CIA support came amid protests and demands in Congress for a prompt investigation of the agency's ties with NSA.

In another development, the New York Times said President Johnson intervened in the controversy and instructed the CIA Tuesday to close out all secret programs of aid to student groups. A White House spokesman denied the report.

The current director of the Foundation for Youth and Student Affairs, Harry Lunn, is a former NSA president, the Star said. It quoted him as saying his group was "not a CIA front."

Within the four organizations, the Star article said, the members carried on a limited amount of intelligence work for the CIA. Confidential reports from overseas representatives and similar reports on foreign student or youth leaders visiting the United States would be forwarded to the agency, it added.

The NSA and the U.S. Youth Council have both domestic and international programs, while the World Assembly of Youth and the International Student Conference devote their efforts almost entirely to competing with youth groups behind the Iron Curtain, the Star said.

Eight House Democrats Tuesday urged an inquiry "at the highest level" into the CIA's support - estimated at $200,000 a year during most of the past decade—of NSA, a 1.3-million member group with affiliations at 300 campuses. The undercover relationship was broken off at the request of NSA.

Sam Brown, chairman of NSA's supervisory board - which has scheduled an emergency meeting for today - said Tuesday night it "comes as a shock" to find the board was "only the policy-making body on the secondary level."

Asked who was the top policy-making body, he said: "The CIA."

The Washington Post quoted an unidentified NSA official today as saying, "Every year the CIA picked out a man or two that it could trust and told them about the undercover funding" of NSA. The source said some of these young men later joined the CIA, often acting as liaison agents to the student group.

Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., who has helped spearhead federal aid for education, called for a sweeping review of all government aid to educational organi-

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
OLIVES THAT CAN HEAR

The Telescreen received and transmitted simultaneously. Any sound that Winston made, above the level of a very low whisper, would be picked up by it; moreover, so long as he remained within the field of vision which the metal plaque commanded, he could be seen as well as heard. There was no way of knowing whether you were being watched at any given moment... You had to live - did live, from habit that became instinct - in the assumption that every sound you made was overheard, and, except in darkness, every movement scrutinized.

The world of 1984 seemed remote, though chilling, when the novel was published 18 years ago. Now, midway between 1949 and 1984, Orwell's vision of the future does not seem quite so fantastic as formerly. The see-all, hear-all telescreen is not yet a reality, but somebody, somewhere, probably is working to perfect one. Meanwhile, government and private eavesdroppers have to make do with electronic snooping gadgets already on the market.

Edward V. Long (D Mo.) chairman of a Senate subcommittee concerned with the snooping problem, has described some of the innocent-looking devices that eavesdroppers employ. They include "flower vases and cigarette lighters cleverly concealing miniature microphones, a Dick Tracy wrist watch transmitter, a transmitter concealed in a martini olive, telephone attachments that could surreptitiously intercept and record either telephonic communications or normal conversations within an entire room."

Disturbed by what his subcommittee uncovered, Long has written a book called The Intruders, which will be published on Monday, Feb. 20. The senator charges, among other things, that "The Justice Department's use of wiretapping and its double standard of enforcement, running from lukewarm efforts against private wiretappers to none at all against law-enforcement wiretappers, has had a disastrous effect on privacy." The Justice Department has acknowledged that it employed wiretapping and bugging devices in 10 cases not involving national security. Now President Johnson wants to outlaw most wiretapping.

Only a handful of states have enacted laws prohibiting eavesdropping by electronic gadgets. And the many guises these devices can assume make such laws difficult to enforce. The prudent citizen might be well advised to practice goodthink, a word of the Orwellian language Newspeak, which translates, "very roughly, 'orthodoxy,' or, if one (chooses) to regard it as a verb, 'to think in an orthodox manner.' ONLY YOU CAN STEM THE TIDE OF RISING TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

The Colonel said: "Every man has some sort of genius: If the time in which he lives has a market for his genius, he becomes great."

Who is responsible for the majority of auto accidents in this community and on our highways? Is it the automobile manufacturer in Detroit? Is it the police, local or state, who are lax in enforcing safety laws? Is it our large brood of young drivers whose motoring manners are as fresh as their licenses?

Shockingly, we, you, the man next door, and everyone who pulled a car away from a curb today in every local community in every city and town in the country are the ones who are largely responsible for "the rising tide of blood" on our roads. We are the ones who literally must stem the tide.

This was brought vividly to our editorial attention by a current study on automobile safety in a booklet which crossed our desk today. Originally written for a publication of Employers Insurance of Wausau, Wausau, Wis., the article has been reprinted at popular demand by the company for free distribution to interested parties. A hard-hitting, in-depth piece, which uses words as an automatic power hammer handles nails, it surveys the field of automobile safety from manufacturer to motorist.

From its beginning, which talks startlingly of how American soldiers are statistically safer in Viet Nam than on American highways, the pamphlet spares few delicate sensibilities to make harsh sense.

The booklet points out that auto accidents are multiplying in number and that their severity is increasing. It emphasizes that "the guilt-edge remedy" of financial compensation, to salve our collective public conscience for injuries and fatalities suffered in highway accidents, is far from a solution and distracts attention from the need for a few ounces of prevention.

"You can't fix a leak with a mop," states the author, Digby Whitman, editor of the Employers Insurance of Wausau publication. "The pay-'em-off-and-forget-it policy cost this country almost twelve billion dollars a year, nearly two per cent of the gross national product."

Improved safety features in the manufacture of automobiles, partially inspired by the recent Ralph Nader controversy, are to be applauded, he says, but then makes the point that no machine injures by itself — only by human error.

We shuddered but were impressed by the author's question: "When the car climbs the sidewalk and butters an old lady along the side of a building, will she be comforted by the reflection that the driver and his passengers are insulated from all harm?"

Summarizing the article's principal message, two methods are open to change human behavior behind the wheel of a car. They are persuasion and compulsion, or in plainer words, education and law enforcement.

Of the two, education is the more valuable "ounce of prevention." Soaring statistics show urgent need for driver education in every state public high school system. Today, young drivers under 25 years old make up approximately one-fifth of the nation's drivers but are responsible for one-third of our auto accidents and one-third of all fatalities caused by auto accidents. Yet, only 18 states include driver education for teen-agers in high school curriculums.

Rather than laying all the blame for accidental death and injury on intentional economy by auto manufacturers, we should clip human error in the bud with driver education in the schools. And rather than making more laws, we should enforce the ones that already are on the books with greater zeal.

We can't detour the conclusion. Safety on our city streets and highways is everyone's responsibility. What are you doing about it?

THE PRESS IS WARNED

It is dawning on newspapers of Arkansas that the Arkansas Legislature is becoming increasingly interested in legislation which affects the state's press. Most of the legislation now under consideration would (1) affect the press adversely, and, conversely (2) generally reflect favorably on holders of public offices, including legislators.

Last week, members of the Arkansas Press Association were warned by their intelligent and hard-working executive secretary in Little Rock that resentment of press criticism is building in the Legislature and the obvious manifestation of this displeasure is the outbreak of anti-press legislation. Further, APA said in a special legislation bulletin to members, although the legislative process is cumbersome it is "better than anything they have in Russia."

The comparison is at once valid and ironic, because absolute freedom of the press and speech is precisely what they do not have in Russia and is one of the things which sets us apart from communist and other totalitarian states. Bills now pending in the Arkansas Legislature just could have the effect of moving freedom of comment a bit away from the American system and a bit toward something else.

A bill which recently passed the Arkansas Senate (and a bill on which our Sen. J. Lee Bearden voted "no") would make it possible for a legislator from Dry Ridge, Ark., to sue the Arkansas Gazette, for example, in Dry Ridge, not in Little Rock. You can sort of get the feel of the thing when you imagine the folks around the Dry Ridge courthouse awaiting the arrival of the city slickers and their dude lawyers.

Another bill, pending at last glance, would prohibit, for all practical matters, the publication of a letter to the editor (or editorial, for that matter) which was not signed.

Both bills affect not so much the press as the readers of the press, it would seem.

It is our intention to deal fairly with the Arkansas Legislaiure, and to open our columns to those members of the Legislature who represent Mississippi County. However, we really can't believe that the legislative delegation from this county would suggest that they or the Legislature be removed from the give and take of politics...and this involves differences, sometimes sharp differences, with the hometown press.

Bob's sister was one of the most popular girls in Manhattan. She had more boyfriends than she knew what to do with and she never wanted for a thing. Bob was always in debt and constantly asking his sister for spending money.

"I don't understand you, Bob," she said in obvious annoyance one afternoon when he had tried to put the bite on her for a 10 spot. "I don't have any trouble saving money, so why should you?"

"Sure, sure," he said, "but you've got money coming in all the time from the very thing that's keeping me broke."

NEW YORK (AP) - Winter is a great time to brush up on your double-talk.

There is also no other season of the year in which it is more greatly needed.

People's nerves get edgy during the long cold sameness. Just as snow cloaks and softens the raw and barren landscape of nature, double-talk helps camouflage the monotony of most conversation in winter.

For the guidance of the beginner, here are a few typical examples of helpful double-talk --followed by their literal meaning:

"So what if you did track a little slush in on my new rug. That's hardly a crime."—But if it only were, I'd see that you were immediately hanged.

"The doctor says this bronchitis may hold on for weeks and weeks unless I do something about." —So, my dear cheapskate husband, why don't you ante up the money for a quick flight to Florida?

"That wasn't fair, Reginald! You hit me with a snowball when I wasn't looking."—What's the matter with this nut? Won't he ever grow up!

"Be sure and wear your overshoes, dear. I don't want you to catch your death of cold."-Considering how little insurance you'd leave, my job is to keep you alive.

"Of course, Jim, we'll be glad to keep your tropical fish while you and your wife are down in Acapulco."—I'll fish through a hole in the ice here and use them for bait.

"The weather is so bad I don't think I'll buy one of those new miniskirts."-With the legs I've got, I wouldn't wear one if I lived in Tahiti.

"I'll have to walk to the station this morning, Alice. There isn't time for me to clear off the driveway."—Which means, my plump pigeon, that if you want to use the car you'll have to dig it out yourself. The exercise will do you good.

"I'm glad the schools are closing tomorrow. You can't expect children to freeze themselves to death just to get an education." Oh, boy, that means I won't have to spend the evening helping the kids do their homework.

"Gee, Jack, I'm afraid I'll have to skip the poker game at your house tonight. My buggy is froze up solid."--Maybe by next week I can pay you what I lost last week.

"Of course, I love you, Samantha. But whoever heard of getting married in February? Let's pick a day in June."—But not in this century—maybe the next one.

"While You're at It, Why Don't You Attach a Few of These?"

Bed-wetting had plagued Roscoe from childhood. He was filled with shame but couldn't seem to control himself, no matter how hard he tried. Finally his wife had all she could take and ordered him out of the house until he was cured.

Roscoe went to the doctor who advised him to see a psychiatrist since his chronic bed wetting was probably due to a mental or emotional disorder.

About three weeks later, he returned home wearing a cheerful face. His wife met him at the door and cried, "Honey, you look so happy. Are you cured?"

"Nope," replied Roscoe, "but now when I wet the bed, I'm PROUD."

THE COAT AND THE CLOTH

There is a growing feeling on the part of a significant numbers of people, expert and laymen alike, that unprecedented government spending is surely going to put some jarring bumps into the economic sleigh ride that the country has been enjoying. All bets are off, and the best of crystal gazers see only a murky picture of the possible shape of taxes, deficits and inflation by the time the polling booths open again.

There are many "ifs" involved, but it is certain that the attempt to conduct a war, expand practically every social welfare program and shoot the moon, all at the same time, is more than even the wealthiest nation in the world can undertake without feeling the strain.

What it all adds up to is that further depreciation of the dollar to an extent that no one can predict, is inevitable unless government cuts its coat to fit the cloth.

A middle aged business man took his wife to Paris. After walking all over the city on a shopping tour he begged off for a day to relax.

Once rid of the old gal he visited a few bars and finally picked up a pretty hustler. He was having a ball until she brought up the subject of money. She asked for fifty and he offered ten. She refused to bargain and so they didn't get together.

That evening he took his wife to a good restaurant and there he spotted his pretty companion of the afternoon seated at a table near the door.

"See, monsieur?" said the babe, as they passed near her table. "Look what you got for your lousy 10 dollars."

WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

If past experience is any criterion, that perennial issue "right-to-work" will again be brought to the attention of Congress. Organized labor, with the help of misnamed liberal members of Congress, will seek to deprive the states of the right of self-determination on the matter of compulsory unionism by urging repeal of Section 14 B of the Taft-Hartley Act.

At the present time, there are some 400,000 U.S. men fighting a war half a world away to uphold the belief that the small country of South Viet Nam should have the right of self-determination in choosing the kind of government it wishes to live under. And yet, we find powerful factions in our own country determined to erase this right among the several states -- 19 states now have right-to-work laws, which have been adopted by the people's legislators in those states.

If Congress by fiat abolishes these right-to-work laws, it will be violating in principle the right of self-determination. One can reasonably ask, should not this right be as sacred in our own country as it is in Viet Nam?

H.L. Hunt Says

PASSPORTS TO HANOI

The trickle of Americans traveling to Hanoi, the capital of communist North Vietnam with which we are at war, is rapidly growing to a flood. There can be endless speculation over what would motivate any loyal American citizen to make a highly publicized trip to the enemy's capital in the midst of a war. But the fact is that more and more of these visits are being made, and are freely permitted by the State Department through the unrestricted issuance of passports and other credentials valid in the enemy's capital.

To put this in perspective, we need only to imagine how almost every American would have reacted to a stream of highly publicized visits by Americans to Berlin at the height of the Second World War, with special side trips to Berchtesgaden to fawn over Adolf Hitler. It simply would not have been tolerated, and many who now defend or advocate travel to North Vietnam would have been the first to denounce it.

Once again we see the all too familiar double standard. When we fought the Nazi foe, our watchword was unconditional surrender and our goal was total victory. No dealings of any kind with the enemy were allowed. But now that we fight a communist foe there is a constant clamor for dealings of all kinds, for giving up victory as an objective and accepting almost any negotiated settlement we might be able to obtain.

We should stop trading with the enemy and stop visiting the enemy. Obviously he is going to admit only those visitors who will make favorable propaganda for him. HLH.

Inside Labor

Truckers Find Hoffa Ranting and Roaring, As He Races To Sign Them to $2 Billion Hike Contract.

Washington, D. C.: -- It happened one night in December. An influential young trucking magnate methodically and soberly had soured the local pubs in search of his publicity chap.

It was futile and it was 3 a.m. So he went up to his sixth floor midtown hotel suite to work out his problem alone. There was a knock. Not the p.r. man -- but one of the Teamsters' powerful officials.

He had a deal and a threat. He demanded that the trucking company executive -- whose firm has some 7,000 "vans"-- sign an affidavit stating that Jimmy Hoffa was indispensable to the nation's industrial peace in general and to over-the-road transportation in particular.

The Teamster friend of Hoffa's was collecting such documents for presentation, along with other Hoffa statements, to the Supreme Court in an effort to get a reversal on Hoffa's prison terms.

The Teamster that night had some terms of his own -- no affidavit, no drivers the next few days. The businessman just was not being muscled. He said no, quietly but positively.

When Hoffa learned of all this he bellowed, growled and ranted. The puffy and puffing Teamsters' chief has been that way now for quite a while.

Many are asking if he's cracking. He can't stand being defied. Six weeks after the nocturnal incident, on the morning of Wednesday, Feb. 8, the young executive was one of the members of the Trucking Employers, Inc., (TEI) negotiating committee which refused to join in a mass -- schoolroom-like-- bargaining session.

Hoffa raged. He ran wildly into the corridor screaming: "You are not going to break up my -- -----life's dream of a national bargaining contract -- it's my life's work."

Roaring, he ran back and forth loudly demanding: "Does anyone around know where TEI hangs out around here?"

Later he exploded in cries of rude and crude imprecations against the business class.

For a long time now Hoffa has had emotional jags. There is the authenticated story of a session with M.I.T. students in Boston back in March, 1961.

They questioned him quite soundly. He raged into a monologue and ran from the room in tears.

Now he's riproaring again. There is more than his life's dream involved -- though he has been planning a National Master Freight Agreement ever since he first learned the power of a wheel in his mysterious days in Minneapolis when the Trotskyites controlled the "teamsters." Such a contract could easily give a Teamsters president virtual dictatorial control of America's interlocking road, rail, lake, river, air and even ocean transportation.

Much as he has wanted to be the nation's transportation czar someday, he wants to win a big one now. He wants his men to remember -- and the 450,000 local carting and over-the-road drivers involved here are the guts of Brotherhood -- that he delivered a whopper this time. That's so they'll want him back when he "gets out."

No one has really bothered to analyze for the public the full nature of this current negotiation between Hoffa's team and the TEI which speaks for some 1200 companies ranging from a ten-truck outfit to one with 15,000 vans.

Hoffa's asking price for a three-year contract now is some $1.5 billioon in wages and another $500 million in fringes, to say the least.

Not only the drivers are in this package, but the garage workers and white collar people in the industry. In effect, it calls for more than $40 a week increase at the end of the contract's third year.

And there are fringes such as four days funeral leave, jury duty pay, special clothing allowances and meal money, safety devices such as anti-jackknife equipment (to prevent the big van and cab from folding), driver alert systems, special sleeping quarters inside the truck and a stabilizer.

Obviously the TEI people are not going to be dashing, pen in hand, to sign. They're bucking him. So he plans to hit them with chain reaction strikes. This is the first time he has not been able to divide and conquer -- at least not yet.

This defiance he can't stand. Just couple this with the tensions of watching the judicial Chinese torture processing of one over-all general appeal of his 8 - year conviction, four other motions going through four courts, a supplementary action on one motion and an over-all reply to the government's reply to him.

And this is just on the Chattanooga trial. There also is Chicago -- a five-year sentence for tampering with a million dollars' worth of pension funds. This now is in the high court. Soon he'll have other motions going on this one.

But through it all he sees the garish figure of his old friend, the New Jersey tough Tony Pro -- former leader of all the Teamsters there. "Pro" went that full course but now -- though still throwing motions-- he is serving a seven-year sentence in Lewisburg, Pa., penitentiary.

So Jim Hoffa is racing against time and is screaming all the way.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -Henry Ford's Greek son - in - law, Stavros Spiros Niarchos, the shipping millionaire, has been able to settle an amazing income tax case for less than six cents on the dollar.

The settlement closes the books on a great shipping swindle which not only milked the American taxpayers out of millions, but helped Niarchos build one of the world's largest merchant fleets. During the Truman administration Niarchos was indicted for his ship transfers, but the case was dropped by the Eisenhower administration. Today, the international playboy seems to have just as much pull with the Johnson administration.

His father - in - law, Henry Ford II, though a good friend of President Johnson's, is not particularly a good friend of his son-in-law. He never approved the marriage of his daughter Charlotte, aged 24, to Niarchos, aged 56.

Niarchos, incidentally, is reported to pay only $2,000 taxes in his native country, Greece, though he owns the Island of Spitzelula, where he is reputed to spend about $250,000 annually. It was on this luxury island that King Constantine of Greece spent his honeymoon.

The story of Niarchos' tax settlement goes back to 1948 when Niarchos, through a U.S. company, began buying up surplus merchant ships which under the law could be sold only to American citizens. He put up the money to back the North American Shipping and Trading Co., which purchased a surplus tanker for a 25 per cent downpayment.

SHIP JUGGLING

The tanker, renamed "Jenny," was promptly chartered to another Niarchos company, Compania Internacional De Vapores, in Panama for a monthly $2.70 per deadweight ton. Then this company rechartered the same tanker to Socony Vacuum Oil Company for $4.20 per dwt. ton.

It would take a team of accountants and attorneys to unravel all of Niarchos' financial manipulations. But following essentially the same pattern, the Greek shipping wizard acquired 14 tankers and six cargo ships. All the taxable profit was siphoned into the Panamanian company, leaving Uncle Sam with nothing but a huge mortgage on each ship.

By the time the government caught on, Niarchos had discreetly departed for Switzerland where he could be near his secret, numbered bank accounts. He left behind the surplus ships which, following the Korean war, had dropped in value far below the mortgages still outstanding. He also stripped his U.S. companies of all other assets, including a $200,000 withholding tax fund.

Counting the diverted profits and mortgage default, he got away with $40,000,000 which he used to build a commercial fleet on some 70 vessels.

The U.S. government consoled itself by taking back the heavily-mortgaged ships and indicting Niarchos and his associates. Thus the handsome, high-living Greek millionaire became the world's most fashionable fugitive, holding court in the Swiss resort town of St. Moritz, skiing in the Alps and yachting in the Mediterranean far from Uncle Sam's clutches.

However, a number of assets were within Uncle Sam's clutches and the unexplained question is why the treasury did not clutch them. It could have seized his ships, all listed in Lloyds ship register, which called regularly at U.S. ports.

It could have seized the substantial operating funds which he kept in the Chase Manhattan Bank. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which had loaned him millions, held liens on his ship charters. He collected payments through U. S. channels from long - term charters with Standard Oil of New Jersey, Socony Vacuum, Shell Oil and other major oil companies.

Yet the Internal Revenue service, which has attached the salaries of many small wage earners to collect a few dollars in back taxes, didn't touch a penny of the golden Greek's money.

LIAISON WITH CIA?

One explanation of the favoritism is the report that Niarchos permitted CIA agents to travel on his ships through the Suez Canal and other trouble spots disguised as crew members. The CIA, when queried about this, wouldn't talk, and Niarchos couldn't be reached for comment. However, it is known that Niarchos was close to a mysterious CIA figure named Albert Ulmer who later left the CIA to work for him.

Not until Niarchos married Charlotte Ford, daughter of the auto magnate, did he show an interest in settling his tax case and returning to the United States.

At first, Niarchos hired ex-Vice President Richard Nixon's law firm to handle his tax case. This was during the Eisenhower administration. Later, with the Democrats in power, he turned it over to Harold Leventhal, legal adviser to the Democratic National Committee. When Leventhal become a federal judge in 1965, his law partner, David Ginsburg, took over the case and settled it just in time for Niarchos to join Charlotte in this country for the birth of their baby.

Ginsburg assured this column that the settlement was the result of hard negotiation and was the best deal the government could hope to get. Some of the circumstances will be examined in a future column.

Note -- While Niarchos was deeply in hock to the U.S. for back taxes, the government, believe it or not, loaned another of his companies $20,000,000 to build the 100,000 - ton vessel "Manhattan." This loan was made despite knowledge of his tax delinquency and despite the fact he had stripped the defaulting companies of the funds needed to pay the taxes.

HAILE SELASSIE FACES CRISIS

WASHINGTON -- Emperior Haile Selassie, no. 1 elder statesman of Africa, came to Washington this week to ask support for the second great crisis of his career.

The first was when Mussolini's black shirts swarmed over his country in 1935 and the little emperor, a forlorn white-robed figure, went before the league of nations in Geneva to ask the assistance of the great powers. They turned him down.

That first triumph of the dictators was the real beginning of World War II.

Today the "conquering lion of the tribe of Judah" has come to Washington to warn of a squeeze - play by an Arab-Communist combine for the control of the vital Red Sea and the approaches to the Suez Canal which will virtually surround Ethiopia.

Next month, March 19, French Somaliland votes on setting up an independent Arab state, and is almost certain to vote for independence. This means President Nasser of Egypt will exert powerful influence.

Next year Great Britain is scheduled to give up its key foothold, guarding the entrance to the Red Sea. At that time, Nasser, backed by Soviet arms, is determined to take over.

Across the Gulf of Aden, on the northern coast of Africa, lies the little desert Republic of Somalia, a country of only one million people, which has received the amazing total of $23,000,000 in Chinese aid and $91,000,000 in Russian gifts and credits, more than half of it military.

With Egypt to the West supported by Soviet arms, this leaves Christian Ethiopia almost completely surrounded by Moslem countries heavily supplied by Communist arms.

This combine constitutes a pro - Communist Arab bloc which also worries Iran to the north and Kenya to the south.

The United States has been trying to persuade Moscow, as part of the new understanding between the two countries, to quit supplying arms to the Arab world, but with almost no success.

Soviet diplomats are given credit for pressuring Syria to meet with Israel on the Syrian-Israeli border recently, but Russian arms have already gone into most of the Arab countries and it's too late to pull them out.

So Emperor Hailie Selassie, one of the most stabilizing forces for peace in Africa, has come to Washington to discuss with President Johnson a squeeze - play which could endanger a nation which has kept its proud independence when every other African area was a European Colony.

KENNETT - The protection we receive from United States Department of Agriculture inspection and grading is a service which we may be taking for granted. All non-fat dry milk is believed to be the major factor of Salmonella contamination. Salmonella arogaisms may cause infection of the digestive tract.

The United States Department of Agriculture provides on a voluntary basis on inspection and grading system for the dairy program. Firms which produce instantized non-fat dry milk have not requested inspection service on their plants and products.

Non-fat dry milk solids contributed nutritionally to our diets through school lunch programs, and it is used extensively in commercial mixes. Homemakers conserve from one-third in cost and some mixes they prepare. The circular "Missouri Mix" C846 challenges the creative ability of the cook whether she plans a warm after-school snack or a birthday cake.

The Missouri Mix recipe makes 13 cups of mix. The amounts are 9 cups sifted all purpose flour, 1/3 cup double acting baking powder, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons non-fat milk solids, 4 teaspoons salt, 1-3/4 cups vegetable shortening or 1-1/2 cups of lard. Step 1: Stir baking powder, dry milk and salt into the sifted flour. Sift all dry ingredients until well mixed. Step 2: Cut fat into flour mixture until all particles of fat are thoroughly coated and mixture resembles coarse cornmeal.

Store Missouri Mix in tightly covered container. Mixture may be measured into definite amounts, stored in plastic bags or jars and be ready for mixing of your favorite recipe.

Suppose you wish to make Brownies quickly. Use 1 cup mix, 1/2 cup cocoa, and 1 cup sugar mixing well. Add 2 beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1/2 cup chopped nuts. Blend until well mixed. Spread in a greased pan (8 x 8 x 2 inch). Bake in a modern oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. The recipe yields 16 brownies.

When creaming and scalloping potatoes use one-fourth cup of non-fat dry milk plus potato water instead of whole milk. Some vitamins and minerals cook out into the water when boiling potatoes. Whenever practicable, serve any remaining cooking liquid with the vegetable or use it in sauces or soup.

For the homemaker who takes pride in serving dinner rolls, coffee cake, various breads, etc. C836 "Yeast Breads and Rolls" offers other ways of using non-fat dry milk. Either of the circulars "Missouri Mix" and "Using Non-Fat Dry Milk in Home Prepared Foods" may be received from the University Extension Center in your county. The need of milk in your daily diet is a life time necessity for replacement of calcium in the blood, bone, and circulatory structures. Naturally homemakers respond to the checking of their diet on the important minerals.

Pueblo Marriage Rite

A governing council arranged marriage rites among the Pueblo Indians of the 16th century. The man spun and wove a blanket, placed it before the woman and she covered herself with it, thus becoming his wife.

I had my morning newspaper delivered for a month and then decided that I preferred to go back to my old habit of buying one when I went shopping each day. So when the paper boy asked if I wanted to continue with the deliver service, I said, "No, I pick up a paper each day when I go out."

He look startled, then asked, "Gee, lady, don't your neighbors get mad?"

Bloomfield Wins, Ends Season 21-6

BLOOMFIELD -- Bloomfield ended its regular basketball season last night with a 46-32 varsity victory over Lilbourn. This was the Wildcats' 21st win of the season to go with six defeats. Lilbourn ended with an 11-11 mark.

In the opening game of the night Lilbourn edged out the Bloomfield junior varsity quintet 18-14.

Coach Ted Mau's Panthers contained nine of the Wildcats 10 players in the scoring column in the varsity game allowing only one of the nine to hit over five points, but allowed the tenth player, Andy Bullinger, to roam the floor for 17 points to lead Bloomfield.

Bullinger hit on five of eight field goal shots and connected on seven of eight from the free throw lane for his 17-point total.

Both teams started the game cold from the field and stayed that way most of the contest.

Bloomfield connected on only 12 of 33 field shots for .363 accuracy while Lilbourn even hit a worse percentage .232.

The game was close until the final period when the Wildcats used their zone press and raced into a 19-12 period.

Lilbourn fell back by three points at the end of the first period and trailed, 19-13 at intermission.

Lilbourn closed to three points once in the third period but was never able to overcome Bullinger's outcourt shooting and rebounding.

Mike Baughman hit 10 points in leading the Panthers scoring.

Both teams will move into regionals, which start Monday.

Sikeston's Chambers On Swim Team

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Southeast Missouri State will enter 12 men in the MIAA swimming meet to be held at Warrensburg Thursday through Saturday.

SEMO coach Fred Friederichson, in his second year at the helm, predicts the conference championship to be a two-way battle between Central Missouri and Northwest Missouri, with Cape and Southwest Missouri contending for third. The Indians, however, should have the edge, having topped Southwest twice this season in dual meets. The other conference schools, Rolla and Kirksville, do not have varsity swim teams this year.

The Indians entries will include Dennis Lorch and Harold Bliggenstorfer of St. Louis, Charles Stevenson of Kirkwood, Arnold Moore of Overland, Andy Lyon of Sanford, Fla., Dan and Dave Ranson, Bill Jackson, Dan Kannady and Gene Rehn of Cape Girardeau, and Robin Chambers of Sikeston.

When your distillery looks like a castle, your Bourbon had better be fit for a king.

We still make Old Taylor in the castle Col. Taylor built back in 1887.

And when you've got a castle for a distillery, your Bourbon had better be some Bourbon. Old Taylor is just that.

In fact, Old Taylor has become the most popular premium-priced Bourbon in the country.

Would our Bourbon be just as good if we made it somewhere else?

Maybe so.

But we're not about to find out.

Resurgence of Patriotism Hailed

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. -- The increasing United States commitment to Vietnam has led to a resurgence of interest in the principles of American freedom.

Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, (Ret.), former chief of naval operations, national chairman of the 1967 Freedoms Roll-Call, said that requests by the thousands are being received for copies of "Freedoms Handbook," a guideline for citizen action for preserving freedom, prepared by Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Admiral Burke said, "I believe the heart-rending weekly reports of dead and wounded in Vietnam are reminding Americans that the price of freedom is high and that each citizen must do his part to preserve and perpetuate it." Admiral Burke also said that Vietnam has led Americans to a soul-searching restudy of the enduring principles of the American Credo.

Freedoms Roll-Call is a national educational campaign undertaken each year, Feb. 15-28, to remind Americans of their responsibilities and duties.

Freedoms Foundation, a nonprofit, nonpartisan and nonsectarian educational organization, founded in 1949, was created to encourage understanding and support of American ideals. General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower is honorary chairman of Freedoms Foundation; Howard H. Callaway is chairman; The Honorable James A. Fraley is senior vice chairman, and Dr. Kenneth D. Wells is president.

The foundation has established the American Freedom center at Valley Forge with extensive libraries, graduate credit courses, lecturers and seminars. The Center is a 100-acre complex of colonial-style buildings, including the 50-acre Congressional Medal of Honor Grove honoring the nation's heroes who have received the Republic's highest award for valor.

More than 35,000 awards of cash, medals, citations and "pilgrimages" to historic Valley Forge have been made to individuals, teachers, companies, school systems and civic and patriotic organizations in the foundation's annual national and school awards program.

Dexter's Grant From U.S. Fees And Tax Funds

ANN ARBOR, MICH. - Missouri's Inter-Agency Council for Outdoor Recreation reports that the Nov. 15 passage of a $75,000 swimming pool bond issue by Dexter, Mo., voters paved the way for a $50,000 federal grant for the project announced yesterday.

Money for the grant came from the federal land and water conservation fund which, in addition to the federal tax on motorboat fuel, receives support from fees collected in federally administered recreational areas and the sale of surplus government real property. Also revenue obtained from the sale of the $7 annual golden passport to federal recreation areas goes into the fund.

The passport is part of operation golden eagle, a program designed to portray to the American public the need for making more lands and waters available for outdoor recreation purposes.

Both the fund and operation golden eagle are administered by the bureau of outdoor recreation of the interior department.

Twenty-One Points Listed for Helping File Income Tax Forms

EDITOR'S NOTE - Sometimes, taxpayers leave out the simplest things on their income tax returns, causing considerable difficulty on occasion. This article, first in a series of five, sums up the basic facts for a tax return.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

Twenty-one major points on filing your 1966 income tax return:

1. The deadline is midnight, Monday, April 17. By then the return must be in the hands of the Internal Revenue Service or in the mails.

2. Report only taxable income, like salary and bank interest. Some income is nontaxable, like Social Security payments, and should not be reported.

3. List your Social Security number on your return—there's a place for it—because there is a penalty for failing to.

If a wife had income under $600 and therefore is not required to file a return, the husband can claim no exemption for her unless she files jointly with him.

4. Enclose all the W2 withholding statements given you by employers.

5. Generally, husbands and wives save by filing a joint return, whether or not the wife had income. If in doubt, try it both ways to decide.

6. You can get a refund—if too much tax was withheld from you—but only by filing a return.

7. You must file a return if you were under 65—this includes children—and had income of $600 or more, whether or not you owe any tax on it. Parents are responsible for filing returns for their children if they are unable to do so.

8. If you were 65 or older, no return is needed unless your income subject to tax was $1,200 or more. The same goes for your wife. You were considered 65 for all of 1966 if your 65th birthday was as late as Jan. 1, 1967.

9. Everyone filing a return gets a $600 exemption-meaning that much knocked off his income if he's under 65—$1,200 if he's 65 or older.

You get a $600 exemption for your wife if she is under 65-$1,200 if she is 65 or older-provided she files jointly with you or, being without income, fails to file jointly, and is not claimed as the dependent of someone else.

If a wife had income under $600 and therefore is not required to file a return, the husband can claim no exemption for her unless she files jointly with him.

If a wife must file a return, because her income was $600 or over, she can file jointly with her husband, in which case each claims a $600 exemption on the one return. If the wife files separately, she takes her exemption on her return, the husband claims his exemption on his return.

10. Anyone filing a return can get a $600 exemption for each dependent he can legitimately claim, under or over 65.

11. And—a person filing a return gets an extra $600 exemption if he is blind. He also gets an extra $600 exemption for his wife if she is blind. He gets no extra exemption for a blind dependent.

12. If you were self-employed you must file a return, regardless of age, if you had self-employment income of $400 or more. You'd use Form 1040 and Schedule C.

13. Anyone under or over 65, even though receiving Social Security payments, must pay a Social Security tax on any taxable earned income. There's a limit on how much income he can earn and still draw Social Security payments. If in doubt, consult your Social Security office.

14. Everyone filing a return is allowed deductions for personal expenses. But how you take them depends on your personal case.

If you take the standard deduction, which may give you a bigger deduction than you could justly claim, you don't have to list your expenses. If your deductible expenses were larger than the standard deduction covers, you can claim them in full but in that case you'll have to itemize them.

15. There are two ways to find the tax: in a tax table or by figuring it yourself. But this is a limited operation. Only people with under $5,000 income can use the tax table, and only some of them can.

People with $5,000 or more income must figure their own tax, using the tax-rate schedule.

16. There are two main forms for making a return: 1040 and 1040A. The latter, a punchboard, is simpler. But not everyone can use this, either. Anyone can use 1040. Anyone with $10,000 or more income, or who itemizes deductions, must use 1040.

Only those earning less than $10,000 who fit certain conditions can use form 1040A. More on this later in the series.

17. There are special rules for military people who served in the Vietnam area.

The pay of an enlisted man doesn't have to be reported and is free of tax for any month, a part of which he served in Vietnam and its adjacent waters or was hospitalized anywhere as a result of wounds, disease or injury incurred in Vietnam or those adjacent waters.

A commissioned officer is exempt from 1966 income tax on the first $500 of pay for any month under the same conditions explained above for the enlisted man.

18. The IRS sends taxpayers an instruction pamphlet. Be sure to read it. If you don't have it, get it, since it contains tax forms, schedules, tables, the arrangement for figuring the Social Security self - employment tax, state sales tax tables and state gasoline taxes which are deductible if you are itemizing your deductions.

19. For a lot of people one of the best helps they can get is to buy the government's book of instructions on filing a return-"Your Federal Income Tax" - which has 160 pages and costs 50 cents. It's available from the Government Printing Office in Washington and at IRS offices.

It goes into far more details than any one person will need or than can be covered in a series like this.

20. Some examples of taxable income which must be reported:

Wages, salaries, tips, fees, bonuses, salaries, commissions, interest on U.S. savings bonds, commissions, profits from business, rents, royalties, prizes and awards when you did something to win them.

21. Some examples of nontaxable income which does not have to be reported in making your return:

Insurance proceeds, damages paid and so on for injury or death; life insurance payments on death; dividends on veterans' insurances; disability retirement payments and other benefits paid by the Veterans Administration; gifts; inheritances; bequests; Railroad Retirement Act benefits.

Next: The proper form to use.

SNOW, part of the 27-inch fall that has clogged Chicago streets since late January, has been loaded aboard Burlington Route gondolas for shipment south to southern Illinois, Fort Worth, Texas and Mississippi. Chicago is shipping the snow south to melt for fear too much dumping of snow into Lake Michigan will add to water pollution problems.

UNWED FATHERS ASSUME RESPONSIBILITIES

By Malcolm Lewis
Women's Medical News Service

A majority of young men who get girls pregnant out of wedlock are neither irresponsible nor casual about their obligations to the girls and their babies. Almost two-thirds of them, a recent study shows, contributed voluntarily to the support of both at some time during the 18 months after the baby's birth. More than half the men also kept in touch with the mothers during that period.

These conclusions, which cast such a different light on the nature of men involved in out-of-wedlock births, are the result of a study of 262 unwed mothers made by Mignon Sauber, research director of the Community Council of Greater New York. The unwed father, Miss Sauber notes, "is certainly not a phantom in the lives of these new mothers. For the majority he is still a personal associate; is frequently sharing a home with them and even more frequently is helping financially. . ."

Miss Sauber interviewed the unwed mothers from the time of their hospital confinement through the baby's fifth, twelfth, and eighteenth month birthdays. The young women, about 20 years old on the average, are considered typical of those who plan to keep and rear their out-of-wedlock children, a group accounting for about 35 percent of all New York City illegitimate births each year.

NOT CASUAL ENCOUNTERS

These pregnancies were not, for the most part, a result of casual encounters. Most of the mothers (62 percent) had met the fathers through friends or relatives, with a sizeable minority meeting at school or at work. Only a small number -- about eight percent -- were pickups. These were more common among girls under 17 and women over 25 years of age.

By the time of confinement, more than half the girls had known the fathers for at least two years (or a year prior to conception). A third of the girls knew the men at least a year but less than two years. Only one out of 10 girls had known the fathers less than one year, or just a short time before conception.

Whether or not a man contributed to the support of his child depended in large part on whether or not he was working, the study showed. Three-fourths of the employed fathers were contributing when the child was a year and a half old, even though the majority of them earned only between $50 and $99 a week. Fewer than half the unemployed men, on the other hand, gave the mothers financial help. The study concludes, "If more of these fathers had jobs, more of them might have given the unwed mothers help."

AGE IMPORTANT FACTOR

How much responsibility a man assumes for the girl and his baby depends somewhat upon how old he is. And interestingly enough the older the man the less the responsibility assumed. About 25 percent of men aged 30 or over "took off" during the pregnancy period and were not seen again in a year and a half, while only 14 percent of men under 20 did so.

This study supports previous findings that unwed fathers are more emotionally involved with the women they impregnate than is popularly believed.

SIGNS OF SPRING

There are two pretty doves in my front yard.
For building material they look very hard.
They are making a nest on a limb in a tree.
They think its a secret but it's as plain as can be.
They look and look for a stick that's just right
Then off they fly to their building site
For days and days they work without let-up.
By the way they are working you'd expect a big setup
But as you get closer to look at the nest
You began to doubt if it will stand the test.
There is very little floor and no wall at all
If they lay any eggs they surely will fall
But for some reason I just can't explain
They seem to survive the storms and the rain.
So from now on I'll watch without fear
There'll surely be doves year after year.

FINDING THE WAY

The 'With It' Church

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON, ENGLAND

Fashion trend: More and more young men are covering their ears with their own hair. Not only the bearded beatniks who scorn the amenities of squarish conformists but thousands of others affect the flair for curls that trail over their collars. In England there are counterparts of those elegant dandies of the Rembrandt and Van Dyke portraits.

If this were just the rebels who gather at the statue of Eros in Piccadilly in London or who roam the streets of Soho, it could be dismissed as another youthful prank. It is more than this. When one sees on one hand the Londoner with bowler and rolled umbrella, one wonders how long these others are for this whirl.

I considered this when two of these long-haired young men assisted in receiving the offering in a local church. It was good to see them present, for the church has lost contact with all too many of this generation. Now what do you say to them?

Miss Lauren Wade, a 19-year-old London resident, believes that the church has missed its chance because it has tried to be "with it" instead of stating a real message.

"Swinging the hymns is too much for us to stomach," she writes in the London Telegraph. "Worship is a different thing from entertainment, unless the local parsons imagine that their evaluation of the Beatles will promote a frenzy of worship among young Christians.

"In addition, we have the Bishop of Woolwich saying that premarital sexual intercourse is all right in some instances of those who intend to marry . . . Round this off with some nice gay vestments and, man, we get us a real hep church."

This 19-year-old is only one person speaking, but she represents the idealism of youth too frequently overlooked. There are no easy answers to the problem she raises but there are answers. Too frequently the church, the home and an older generation have seemed to flee from an uncritical conformity to numb young people with nothingness.

There is a way of life and the Gospel has something to say about the contemporary situation. That way of life has nothing to do with the length of hair. It must deal effectively with the problems of today and demonstrate that Gospel sacrificially and effectively. That Gospel will not be concerned whether it's "with it." It will be an effective witness to the idealism of youth which is often expressed in strange ways.

From Delusions, Perhaps On To Grandeur

After years of self-delusion about the United Nations, there are signs that the American people are adopting a more sensible attitude.

It could be said that for years many Americans and the organizations they formed revered the United Nations as the one great hope for peace on earth.

There are some powerful quarters which still think this way about the United Nations and always will; but the ritual hailing from the highest quarters in Washington has diminished. Once-friendly newspapers whose editorial policy hardly can be called "right-wing," have begun to criticize the United Nations sharply. Plenary meetings of the United Nations General Assembly, once front-page news, are now often relegated to the back pages. The biggest, recent story was about Indonesia, the first member to quit the organization.

Less and less do we hear that the United Nations is the one great hope for peace. In the Congo at least, it made far too much war for that, and the end of that grim fiasco is not yet in sight.

The story of the United Nations in the Congo over the last five years is a telling history lesson, though a confusing one. So much has happened in the Congo during the past five years that many Americans have forgotten how the whole mess began and can see no pattern in it.

Belgium, former colonial ruler of the Congo, granted that vast area in the jungles of Central Africa full independence on July 1, 1960. This premature move was made because Belgium did not want to be involved in a long and wearying war to retain its possessions in the Congo. The grant of independence to the Congo, however, did carry the conditions that (1) Belgium was to retain military bases and (2) the safety of Belgium settlers was guaranteed. Within hours of the Congo's independence day, these guarantees ceased to be worth the paper they were written on. Sheer savagery burst through the fragile crust of civilization in the Congo. Unspeakable crimes were committed against innocent Congolese and Belgians. The Belgian government, acting speedily and firmly, sent in paratroops to restore order and save life.

At once, a mighty clamor arose in the United Nations. The organization said to be the world's last best hope for peace was not willing to see peace established in the Congo by the Belgians, who had full treaty rights to intervene once the guarantees to their settlers had been violated. The Belgians were ordered out again even while crimes against humanity continued. The United Nations promised to send in its own force to keep the peace. Weeks were spent assembling the United Nations army, while on island of peace and order remained in the Congo: the province of Katanga. There, Moise Tshombe, perhaps the only able and responsible Congolese political leader, was in control. Katanga became a haven for refugees from the rest of the Congo. Tshombe made no secret of his friendship for the West; he refused to submit himself and his province to the rule of madness so prevalent in the rest of the nation.

So the United Nations decided that Katanga must be crushed. The force which supposedly had been sent to the Congo to keep the peace and save lives, broke the peace in the only part of the Congo where peace remained. The free, orderly government of Katanga was overthrown, and Moise Tshombe was driven into exile.

The United Nations now had its bloody "victory," but did not know what to do with it. For many months, frantic efforts were made to build up a minor socialist politician named Cyril Adoula, who was grandly named Premier of the Congo even though most of the time his authority was recognized nowhere beyond his capital city -- and not always there. The remaining United Nations troops marched hither and yon through the strife-torn nation, trying to establish Adoula's authority by a "show of force." But the tides of barbarism closed in all around them and they accomplished nothing at all. Finally, Adoula had to resign. The whole of the Congo was now aflame with rebellion and a new wave of crimes and atrocities was underway.

Moise Tshombe was brought back as the one man who might be able to deal with the situation, and the United Nations troops were withdrawn. Tshombe set up a new army, bolstered by professional volunteers from foreign countries, and set out to crush the rebels and restore order. Despite the fact that the rebels were backed and led by communist-trained activists, Tshombe was largely successful. When rebel-held hostages were threatened with death and cannibalism, American forces went in side by side with the Belgians to rescue them.

Twenty years ago in San Francisco, the United Nations as a world organization and super-government could take one of four roads: (1) the United Nations could become a power instrument for use by the major powers; (2) the United Nations could become a tool of those countries which wanted power, but which had neither the capacity nor the responsibility to exercise such power; (3) the United Nations could be utterly paralyzed by conflicts among its strongest member nations; and (4)it could be the one great hope for peace.

At one time or another, the first three roads have been taken. The road of paralysis by conflict was taken when the Hungarian Freedom Fighters struck for liberty and appealed to the United Nations for help. Because of firm, immovable communist opposition, no help was forthcoming.

The road of real power was taken when UN troops attacked Katanga, and the road of claiming power without responsibility has been taken in Africa during the last four and a half years -- with results that have horrified the whole civilized world.

No one can say the United Nations has not been given a fair trial, and no one ought to deny the UN's almost total failure.

Two great purposes motivated those who built the United Nations Organization. One shared by some, though not all, of the founders was to lay the cornerstones for a world government. The other, a delusion shared by all, was that the United Nations as a great forum for public international discussion would help keep the peace on the theory so often repeated, that "if we're talking at least we're not shooting."

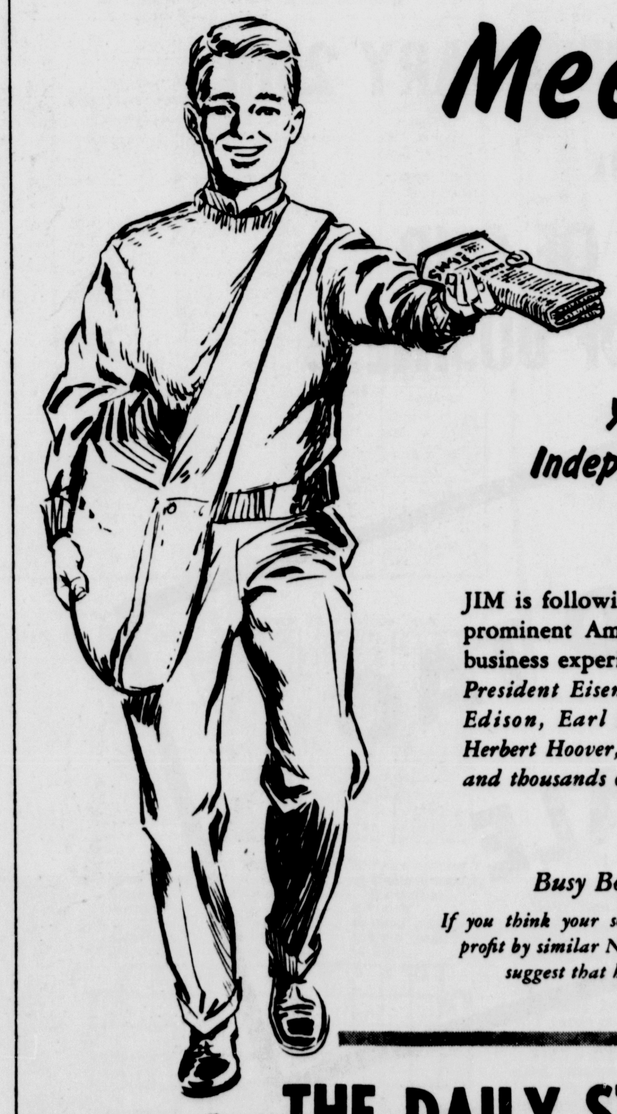

That vapid catch-phrase must have been cold comfort to the Hungarian Freedom Fighters whose appeals to the United Nations were ignored while Soviet tanks gunned them down, and to the peaceful people of Katanga who were slaughtered by the United Nations' own troops.

As a world government, the United Nations would have been the greatest threat to liberty in all history. Fortunately for us, this purpose was never fully realized. As a forum for public internatonal discussion and "world opinion," the United Nations has helped to stir up far more trouble than it ever settled. No vast Secretariat and gigantic buildings in New York City were needed to provide a place for talking instead of shooting; all the normal channels of diplomacy and international conferences were there to be used. In fact, these channels have been used in all truly important negotiations.

The history of the United Nations is a sad monument to a set of utterly false premises. There was no basis for real international union -- and even if there had been, union through a super world government would have been the worst of all possible unions.

Peace is kept by strength, aided from time to time by diplomatic skill. The United Nations has amply proved that it has neither the strength nor skill and could not use them properly if it possessed them.

From now on, we should hope that we will rely more on ourselves and less on a UN dream world which has little connection with reality.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strauss LL.B

THE CASE OF THE UNSUSPECTING DINER

Several enterprising manufacturers of dog food decided to "woof-up" the sales appeal of their products with a seemingly more appetizing menu. As example, cans were relabeled with such succulent terms as "Horse Meat Stew," "Horse Meat Loaf" and the ever-popular "Horse Meat a la Mode."

One State, however, refused to swallow the new menu. A law was passed that specifically prohibited the use of such tasteful terms. Growling and barking their displeasure, the manufacturer's attacked the validity of the law in court.

"It's an unfair restraint on trade," they doggedly argued. "We've got a right to make our labels as appealing to our customers as possible."

"Why?" questioned the State's Attorney. "Dogs can't read. On the other hand, the law is a protection against shoppers who might mistakenly take a can of dog food thinking it's stew or meat loaf for human consumption. Dinner time would be chow time. . . .only if you had a chow."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you consider the law a necessary protection for shoppers?

This is how the Judge ruled: Yes! The Judge held that not only should the labels be discontinued, but that dog food should be labeled "unfit For Human Consumption." In that way, the Judge noted, harrassed housewives, trying to cut down on the high cost of living, would be deterred from giving it a try on the dinner menu. . .or to their hungry and unsuspecting husbands.

The Prayer

From The Upper Room

I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you. (John 13:15)

PRAYER: Help us, Father, to grow more like Jesus. Reward our study of Thy precious Word with a better understanding of His human as well as His divine nature. May our lives more nearly reflect His perfect image and others be influenced by our humble walk with Him to follow Him also. We ask these blessings in the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . .Amen."

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: What is wrong with me? Am I a kook or are there other women around who feel as I do? Is it unreasonable or prudish to expect a little privacy when a woman strips down to the skin, as she must, when she is shopping for a bra and girdle? Is it mid-Victorian to resent being pushed into a fitting room with no door - only a flimsy curtain that flies open exposing her to customers passing by? Is it silly to be annoyed when the clerk barges in with two other saleswomen to "see how the garments look on?"

I have gotten to the point where I dread buying a new bra or girdle. What's more, I've become downright hostile to women who work in undergarment departments. They seem insensitive, ill-mannered and much too interested in walking in on undressed customers. What are your thoughts on this subject? - MAD AND HONEST

Dear Mad: I assure you that women who sell and fit undergarments have no interest in seeing sights. To them it's a way to make a living - and a hard way at that. Can you imagine the energy required to stuff a size 44 backside into a 38 girdle? (Some dames don't realize that the dimensions of their cabooses change over the years.)

Since buying underwear seems to be such an ordeal, order by phone. Most (not all) stores will send out these garments on approval to a known customer. If your purchase needs alteration get down the first thing in the morning - before the crowds arrive.

Dear Ann Landers: When I was in high school I had a terrible case of acne. A person who has not experienced this awful skin problem can't imagine how damaging it is to the morale of a teen-ager.

I'm in my early 20's now and the acne is gone but my face is scarred. I'm awfully self-conscious about this and I find myself avoiding people. Can you tell me something about the procedure called scraping? This involves freezing the skin and scraping off the top layer. The patient is awake but he doesn't feel any pain. I'm afraid to have it done without checking with someone and you are my best source. Please advise me. - HOPEFUL GIRL

Dear Girl: The procedure which you call "scraping" is also referred to as "abrasive planing" and it is a relatively simple operation.

The physicians with whom I consult tell me that acne sufferers have been delighted with the results. They point out that the psychological effects of the operation are often vastly more important than the improvement in appearance. So go ahead and make an appointment with a dermatologist.

Dear Ann Landers: I keep pinching myself to see if I am awake or having a bad dream. Please tell me what to do at once.

Last night my husband told me he received a phone call at work from a girl he used to go with before we married. (She lives about 200 miles from here.) She said she had been married three years and her husband died a few weeks ago. Then she said, "I think it is time you became acquainted with your son. He is six years old now." My husband was shocked and I am a wreck. He says he is almost sure she is lying. What shall we do? - X. Y. 200

Dear X. Y. 200: The fact that your husband told you would indicated his conscience is clear. Moreover it seems unlikely that a woman would wait six years to make this "introduction." Call a lawyer and accept his counsel.

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35¢ in coin with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

GOV. WARREN E. HEARNES receives the first sheet of the 1967 Easter Seals from Mary Gayle Hafner of Hannibal, state Easter Seal Child. The annual Easter Seal Campaign, which opens Feb. 20, is conducted by the Missouri Society for Crippled Children and Adults and its 115 county affiliates to raise funds for the treatment and rehabilitation of the physically handicapped.

ST. LOUIS - The 1967 Easter Seal campaign will be launched Feb. 20 with the mailing of the traditional Easter Seals to residents.

This year's seals picture is of a child kneeling and praying with crutches beside him. The figure and crutches are white against a brilliant green background with golden rays beaming toward the child.

The appeal is conducted annually by the county Easter Seal society and its volunteers to raise funds for the continuance of its treatment and rehabilitation program for physically handicapped children and adults in the area.

The society reports that the number of physically handicapped persons is on the increase in view of population growth, medical innovations, which have saved many babies that would not have survived, and accidental injuries. Statistics reveal that forty million Americans will be injured and half of them crippled by traffic accidents alone during the next ten years.

Such services as medical care, medication, speech and hearing therapy, physical and occupational therapy, transportation to treatment centers, camping, nursery school, classes for children with learning disorders and orthopedic appliances are financed or provided by the local Easter Seal Society.

What's My Line May Be Dropped

NEW YORK (AP) - "What's My Line?" the second oldest program on television, will be dropped from the schedule of the Columbia Broadcasting System next fall, the New York Times said today.

A spokesman for CBS said only that the schedule is still being made up.

The Times said "What's My Line?" will probably be replaced by a Western.

The panel show has been on the air since February 1950. Only the Ed Sullivan Show, which went on the air 17 months earlier, is older.

The Times said "What's My Line?" which is televised Sunday nights, lately has been losing much of its popularity.

John Daly, the moderator, and actress Arlene Francis, are the only members of the original team who are still in the show. Publisher Bennett Cerf joined the show six months after it started and is still in it.

Broadway columnist Dorothy Kilgallen, who had been on the program since it started, died Nov. 8, 1965.

The panel tries to guess the unusual occupations of the contestants.

FUSSA, Japan -- Master Sergeant Bobby C. Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Owens of 951 Orchard Lane, Ontario, Calif., has been honored in the Pacific Air Forces (PACAF) special awards program for maintenance personnel.

Sergeant Owens, assigned as an air armament superintendent at Yokota AB, Japan, was named Outstanding Maintenance Mechanic in his Air Force unit and awarded a PACAF "Big Mech" Trophy.

The trophy is a statute of an aircraft mechanic carrying the mark of his profession -- a tool box.

Sergeant Owens was chosen for his outstanding technical ability and diligence in providing essential support for PACAF, America's overseas air arm that maintans the U.S. defense posture in the Pacific and conducts air operations in Southeast Asia.

The sergeant is a graduate of Anniston (Mo.) High School.

Charles Henzi Attending Military School

BOONVILLE --Cadet Charles F. Henzi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henzi, Sikeston, has entered Kemper military school and College at second semester of the 1966-67 school year.

Playing cards, it is believed, were introduced in Europe in the 14th century.

Farmers to Get Record Assistance

BLOOMFIELD -- The Missouri looseleaf farm record book has been changed to assist farmers to do a better job of keeping farm accounts than was possible with the older book, according to John Yount, extension farm management agent.

A meeting has been set for Tuesday in the Bank of Bloomfield community room at 7:30 p.m. to assist farmers with record keeping in the new book.

In our Parish, my daughter's little Jimmy, six, kept running in and out of the house one chilly fall day, leaving the door open each time.

Exasperated, his mother shouted at him, Where were you born? In a barn?"

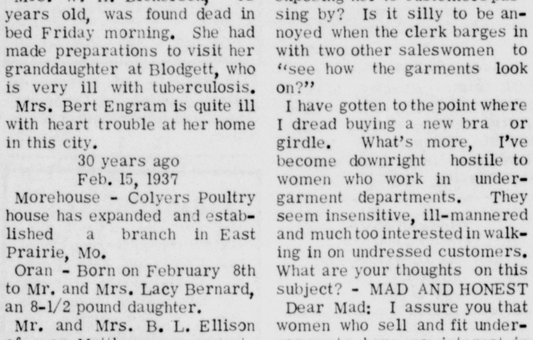

"Well, Jesus was," Jimmy replied.

zations.

"What is the CIA that it should be the arbiter of all that is right and just?" she asked. "Perhaps we need a law requiring the registration of government agencies trying to influence education, just as we have laws requiring lobbyists to register."

Not all congressmen were aroused, however. One old hand familiar with security matters said, "There is nothing new in all this. It just happened to surface."

For a supersecret agency the CIA has been surfacing a lot of late.

Last spring the CIA was accused of infiltrating a Michigan State University police training program in Vietnam. University officials denied knowing about it but ended the contract because of the suspicion aroused.

In Baltimore last December, a federal court dismissed a slander suit against a CIA agent, declaring he could not be forced to testify because it might compromise national security. The claimant said his standing in an Estonian veterans organization had been damaged by a CIA man who allegedly called him an agent of the Soviet secret police.

What brought the CIA's link to the National Student Association to the surface Tuesday were newspaper advertisements by Ramparts Magazine calling attention to a story on the relationship in its March issue.

Spokesmen for NSA and the State Department later confirmed the secret pact. Allen W. Dulles, who headed the CIA when the link was forged, said it was a response to widespread Communist influence in student organizations abroad during the early 1950s.

The CIA funds apparently supported official representation of the NSA at student conferences held throughout the world. A NSA spokesman said it hires U.S. students, usually going to school overseas, as its representatives.

pursuing the North Vietnamese tonight, he reported.

One company of Koreans was moving into a mountainous Communist stronghold 11 miles north of Quang Ngai City when the North Vietnamese attacked them with mortars.

The Communists penetrated the Koreans' perimeter at one point, the spokesman said, but the marines counterattacked and drove the enemy out in hand-to-hand fighting. Fighting was at such close quarters the marines couldn't call in air or artillery support until the North Vietnamese broke and fled.

Additional Korean marines were moved into the area, and the enemy death toll mounted as the marines swept through the valley north of the Tra Khuc River.

The enemy unit was identified by the Korean spokesman as the 1st Battalion of the 21st North Vietnamese regiment.

The first Viet Cong attack on the U.S. minesweepers in the Saigon channel came at 7 a.m., when guerrillas opened fire on two of the 80-foot boats about 15 miles southeast of the capital.

As one of the boats began to sink, the other sweeper pushed it aground to keep the channel clear. Six crewmen were injured and one was reported missing. Air strikes were called in.

Three hours later, another U.S. minesweeper hit a mine seven miles farther down river and sank. Eight crewmen were injured.

During the afternoon, guerrilla gunners opened fire on a fourth minesweeper and continued shooting until it was out of range. A tanker moving down river was forced to turn back.

American infantry units were busy with more than a dozen operations in various parts of South Vietnam, but they reported only light, scattered contact.

A U.S. spokesman said American war planes flew 67 missions over North Vietnam Tuesday, nearly all of them in the southern panhandle. Air Force pilots reported a large secondary explosion after hitting a ferry complex five miles south of Dong Hoi.

Sen. Albert M. Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, said the state could lose $50 million in revenue if pending congressional bills passed and the federal government invades the field of corporate sales and income tax collection.

The committee deferred action on a proposed constitutional amendment to let counties of 50,000 population instead of 85,000 adopt a charter form of government. It would affect Jasper, Boone, St. Charles and Jefferson counties.

Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Colombia, said the plan is badly needed to keep Boone County from automatically shifting from third to second class status in 1969.

Other committees took up bills Tuesday night ranging from birth control to election law changes but action was delayed on most of them.

Both Houses Pass Money Bill

JEFFERSON CITY AP - Both the House and Senate passed the emergency money bill today. It is the first bill to go to the governor.

The total for emergency appropriations agreed on by a conference committee comes to $8,320,000.

The governor had recommended $8,134,000.

It includes $600,000 for a new grandstand at the State Fairgrounds in Sedalia, including temporary bleachers for use this year and $1,810,000 for addition of two floors on the new state office building being constructed at Kansas City.

A new item, which was not in the original bill, appropriates Central Hotel property near the Capitol Here.

A street in Prestonburg, Ky., has been named in honor of a former state governor, Bert Combs. A new street sign unfortunately appeared as "Bert Comb Drive." Mr. Combs, commenting on the incident, said, "I've been misquoted, misled, misjudged, and misused. I might as well be misspelled, too!"

House Turns Down Senate Bill Changes

JEFFERSON CITY AP — The Senate passed an emergency appropriation bill carrying about $8 million Wednesday but the House refused to accept Senate changes.

Differences will be worked out in a conference committee.

The Senate restored $1,163,000 to add two floors to a new state office building being built in Kansas City. The House had approved $2 million for this purpose but the Senate Appropriations Committee had eliminated it entirely.

Also added was $325,000 to buy the Central Hotel buildings at the corner of High and Jefferson streets near the Capitol in Jefferson City. Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, appropriations chairman, said the building can be bought from St. Louis owners from $321,400.

The Senate also tacked on $133,500 to match federal funds on a 50-50 basis to expand driver training programs in high schools. The money will go to local school districts to pay for the cost of training additional teachers.

It was adopted at the urging of Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, and had been recommended by the governor's special advisory committee on traffic safety.

The House passed and sent to the Senate another bill to authorize the Board of Public Buildings to pick a site for a new state office building in Jefferson City.

And Sen. John Johnson, D-Sappington, introduced a bill to clear the way for issuance of revenue bonds to build a state office building in St. Louis County.

Also passed and sent to the House were bills to change the title of county judge to county commissioner and one to let junior college districts hold special elections to issue bonds or borrow money.

Other new bills would:

Require 331 parking lot operators in the state to be licensed by the director of revenue at $50 and show financial ability to pay damage costs.

Make it a felony for a prisoner to escape and raise the penalty to six months in jail or up to 10 years in prison.

Make it a felony to influence or intimidate a juror or witness with a penalty of two to five years.

Set up a statewide food stamp plan at a cost of $1,655,999.

Replace present prosecuting attorneys in each county with 30 circuit attorneys who would be paid the same as circuit judges and be required to devote full time to their work. They could have a part time assistant in each county. The estimated cost — $480,000.

Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, chairman of the governor's Commission on Crime and Juvenile Delinquency, asked Sen. Earl R. Blackwell, D-Hillsboro, to introduce the bill.

Eagleton said it would upgrade, improve and modernize law enforcement as recommended by President Johnson.

Candidates for either house of the legislature would have to file in person or by mail in Jefferson City with the secretary of state under a proposal passed by the House.

Rep. Don Kennedy, D-Nevada, introduced a resolution to set up a citizens' advisory committee to study the matter of legislative salaries.

The bill to increase state aid to junior colleges was introduced in the House and would raise from $240 to $400 amount paid for each 24 semester hours. The increase in aid would cost an additional $3,144,975.

Also received in the House were bills that would place a severance tax on mining and oil production and provide for a portion to be returned to the counties, and one putting a 1 per cent tax on gross income of all pipeline operations.

The Ray family

A Son's memo of his father:

A TALL TALL MAN

To all who may read this. It is not written to place honor and glory upon the person of whom it is written. For that he would take no credit as it belongs to God, but it is simply a tribute to his wife and family whom he loved above all else except his Lord who came first in his life.

There comes a time in every child's life when he or she finds some living person that they pick to pattern their lives after and look upon as one being ten feet tall (so to speak).

Most usually they carry that person's image with them all through their life and point him out to others and say there is the person I want to pattern my life after, for that is the most wonderful person that ever lived.

I am now a grown man and this is still my ideal as my goal.

Here is my ideal and picture of my "ten foot tall man."

To me he was and always will be regarded the tallest man that ever walked the face of the earth.

He was a very meek and humble man of God, and it was always his goal in life to stop and lend a helping hand to those in trouble and distress.

He never had much of this world's possessions but what he had he was always willing to share with his fellow man in need or distress.

His main purpose in life was to lead lost men, women and children to a saving knowledge of his Lord. He spent some 45 years or better in trying to do just that.

It was never too cold or too hot or too rainy or too early or too late in the day or night for him to don his hat and coat and take his Bible under his arm and go talk and pray with anyone who called for him. Some on their death bed, or deeply convicted, and needed to hear the word of God explained. I have known this man all my life and have never known him to refuse anyone this privilege.

His education was very limited but his knowledge of the word of God to me and thousands of other people was better understood than anyone I was privileged to listen to.

He was just an old fashioned country preacher with an old fashioned but ever-new story of God's love saving power.

He had a passion to preach anywhere and everywhere he could get a congregation together and tell them about God's love.

He loved to talk to the man on the street or a farmer plowing in the field in the hot sun. He was no respector of man, black or yellow, red or white.

Never has he been known to refuse to go and render service to a church because they could not pay, and he would go even if he had to walk ten miles or more just to tell people how God gave his only begotten son to save all who would believe on him.

To me this was the tallest man I shall ever be privileged to know other than Christ himself. This person was none other than the late - Rev. A.E. Ray - my very own dearly beloved father.

Owen Ray

P.S. To all young people I would advise you to take God as your savior, and companion to lead and guide you through life and your life can be made easier and pleasanter and things be easier to conquer as it was with this tall man I have told you about.

DAILY SIKESTON STANDARD

The cost of crime is wasted lives and $27,630,000,000 annually. Every patriot wistfully yearns for "youth to move." They know there are only a few of the reckless youth who grab the headlines in demonstrating and criminal activities. Patriots can encourage youngsters to make "three-minute speeches" promoting the cause of freedom, who will be heard and heeded. They may cut the crime wave in half, which would save fourteen billion dollars annually. If a few of these youth speakers were to be heard on TV, thousands of youngsters would volunteer and join their ranks. Lives would be touched that otherwise might become human wreckage. The "three-minute speakers" would become a part of the program in service club meetings and in church gatherings, where many of the speakers could testify for Christ.

TO THE EDITOR:

Patriots are under the surveillance of another citadel of the enemy. The watchdogs imply they are connected with the Church of Christ, but there has never been anything whatsoever pro-Communist in the activities of this splendid Church body. Reverend Parker speaks for the critics who will air a 5-day-a week five-minute program deploring "extremism." Generally "extreme" propaganda means anything that is not "extremely far left." It may be safely assumed that is what Reverend Parker means. He announces they are financed by the Field Foundation (consult Cox Committee Hearings-- 1954) and an anonymous donor. What makes this donor "anonymous?" Could it be possible that he is farther to the far left than the Field Foundation?

Yours very truly,

To the Editor:

America may still be the "home of the brave" but it most certainly no longer qualifies as the "land of the free." What land is free when its women and children cannot go about their business night or day without fear of molestation?

What land is free when citizens must always keep one ear open for the screams of their neighbors accosted in their own front yards?

The police officers I am fortunate enough to know are men of the highest caliber, but they are men with the same need every other man has to gain a sense of satisfaction from his chosen work.

This is very rarely accomplished by being in the law-enforcing business in a society which seems hell-bent on protecting the rights of the attacker at the expense of the rights of the attacked.

What is the point in risking one's life to apprehend a criminal who can go scot-free because of a legal loophole? Who enjoys being made a fool of by society's scum?

And why are we so hypnotized by the "social slobberers" (to quote Bishop Fulton Sheen) who are forever putting the rights of the criminal ahead of the rights of the victim?

If punishment is not a successful deterrent to wrong doing, then let's close up our penal institutions and throw in with the "do-gooders" all the way. But if we believe it is a deterrent, why do we all sit silently, by as Supreme Court and other legal rulings "relentlessly chip away at the ever narrowing area of effective police operation", to quote Judge Floyd R. Gibson regarding the proposed curb on the use of police informers?

I am well aware that women who dress improperly in public (and their name is legion) must bear a large part of the responsibility for the increase of forcible rape. Every parent in this land who allows his or her daughter to wear short shorts, bikini swimming suits and super-tight sweaters is, in effect, putting her up "for grabs."

I am no expert on criminal statistics, but on the face of things it would seem that kidnaping lost a good bit of its popularity with the criminal set after the enactment of the Lindbergh Law.

Why does only prominence warrant attention from the legal giants who make our laws? There were many kidnapings before Lindbergh's, but since he was a national hero, the tragic death of his baby brought results which surely have saved the lives of many babies since.

I believe there are many people like me, and what I am fighting for is an opportunity to hear or read the opinions of people better acquainted with this problem than I am so that if these laws truly are working against society in general, we can then speak by the thousands through our Congressmen and Senators who become increasingly more anxious (as November draws closer) to listen to us, their constituents.

So, won't someone please, for the sake of all decent people, explain these legal loopholes in language we can all understand, so that we can do something besides pray, hope and wonder whether our daughters will ever reach maturity without the soul-shattering, body-multilating, mind-destroying experience of forcible rape at the hands of a sex-maniac who is secure in the knowledge that it all goes well for him, he will probable be apprehended, but never convicted.

Mrs. Ernest Carman

Mrs. Ernest Carman Is Charleston Homemaker

Editor's Note: This is the 25th in a series of articles about the home life of Sikeston area families.

By Ruth Dillender

CHARLESTON -- The Ernest Carman family, 1208 East Commercial, has lived in Charleston four years. Carman is a pharmacist. The family attends St. Henry's church.

Ernest and Maureen Carman have two children, Bill, three years old, and Lisa Anne, 16 months old.

Mrs. Carman is a member of the 20th Century Study club and says that she enjoys sewing for herself and her children.

Cooking is her hobby.

A treasure in the Carman home is a set of brass scales Mrs. Carman gave to her husband.

Mrs. Carman was reared in St. Louis and Carman in Charleston.

Recipes that the Carman family likes:

DEVILED STEAK

4 lbs. chuck or round steak, one-inch thick
1/2 cup bottled lemon juice
1/4 cup catsup
1/4 cup oil
2 tablespoons worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 teaspoon rosemary, crushed
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
3 cloves garlic or garlic powder

Marinate meat four hours in above mixture, turning frequently.

Bake at 325 degrees for one hour and 15 mintues in tightly covered pan.

For extra tenderness, let stand in 150 degree oven one hour more.

BREAD PUDDING

4 slices bread, crumbled
3/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup milk
2 or 3 eggs
1/4 cup butter, softened
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix all ingredients together. Bake in greased pie plate at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until done.

TUNNEL OF FUDGE CAKE

1 1/2 cups soft butter
6 eggs
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 cups flour, sifted
1 package fudge or double Dutch fudge Pillsbury Buttercream Frosting mix
2 cups chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

Cream butter in large mixer bowl at high speed. Add eggs one at a time beating well after each addition.

Gradually add sugar. Continue beating at high speed until fluffy. By hand, stir in flour, frosting mix and nuts until well blended.

Pour batter into greased Bundt pan or 10 inch angel food pan. Bake 50 mintues at 325 degrees. Cook in pan two hours. Remove and cool completely before serving.

Since the cake has soft interior, test for doneness after 50 minutes by observing dry, shiny brownie-type crust.

If using self-rising flour, decrease butter to 1 cup and cream at high speed. Add eggs one at a time, beating after each addition. At low speed gradually add flour and then sugar, mixing well until blended.

By hand, stir in nuts and frosting mix. Bake a little longer than original recipe.

CHOCOLATE ANGEL PIE

2 egg whites
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup finely chopped nuts
1 bar German chocolate minus three or four squares
3 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup whipping cream
1/2 cup powdered sugar.

Meringue shell:

Beat whites with salt and cream of tartar until foamy. Add sugar 2 tablespoons at a time. Beat well after each addition. Continue beating until very stiff peaks form.

Fold in 1/2 teaspoon vanilla and nuts. Spoon into pie plate lined with aluminum foil. Build up sides 1/2 inch around edge of pan. Bake 55 minutes or until done at 275 degrees.

Cool completely. Then remove foil carefully and return shell to plate.

Chocolate cream mixture:

Stir chocolate in water over low heat until melted. Cook until thickened and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Whip cream and sugar. Fold in chocolate mixture. Pile into shell. Chill 2 hours. Serves six to eight.

First Baptist Building Plans Given to Men

The men's organization of the First Baptist church met last Monday night for its regular monthly dinner meeting.

A ham dinner was served to 50 men in the church dining room. The room and tables were decorated with a Valentine theme. Mrs. Zelpha Davis and Mrs. Betty Thompson were in charge of decorations.

Lynn Thompson, president of the Baptist men, called the meeting to order and Fred Steward gave the opening prayer.

Ron Williams led the group in singing "At the Cross." President Thompson presented a plaque to past president Lenzie Beck. The plaque commended Beck for his "faithful and devoted service to the Baptist Men." Beck was president three years.

Beck, John W. Davis and Dr. Wendell Weathers, member of the building finance committee, presented the program. Beck, chairman spoke on the plans, preparation and activities of this drive for a new church building during the past 10 months. He said, "As we are on the eve of starting the drive, many hours of meetings and plans were discussed before the final outlines were given. He said that there was much enthusiasm over the building plans and that 60 to 80 men and women were prepared to begin work at the official kickoff Sunday.

Beck thanked his committee for its work. Other members are Bridwell Crenshaw, Don Black, Pat Lea, Thompson, the Rev. James W. Hackney and David Laird.

Davis spoke on "Publicity for the Finance Drive." Davis said "All Christians are salesmen and as Christian men, it is our duty at all times to sell and tell the gospel story to the world. As the Baptist men, we should take the leading part in helping to erect this beautiful new church plant."

The church brochure was shown and discussed. A copy will be given to every member of the church and friends that are interested in the building program. The theme of the drive and the brochure is "We His Servants Will Arise and Build", Nehemiah 2:20. He thanked all those serving on the publicity committee. Members were Cline Carter, Thompson, Mrs. R. H. Cope, Mrs. Frank Altom, Mrs. Charles Solomon, Charles L. Blanton, Jr., George Hensley and Tom Hodges.

Dr. Weathers, co-chairman with Bridwell Crenshaw of the solicitation committee, spoke on "Involvement." He said that every church member should become involved in this building program and as the church is built, the members will be serving the Lord just as the disciples did as they walked and served with Jesus.

The pastor, the Rev. Mr. Hackney, expressed his appreciation to the group for the work done in preparation for the building program.

He said the building committee had been working with the finance committee. Members of the building committee are Steward, chairman, Beatty Miller, Castor Alsup, Melvin McMackins, Foy F. Collins, Floyd Presley and Milton Sadler.

President Thompson reminded the group of the March meeting at which time the Baptist men will be preparing for the spring revival. The program will be on missions.

The Rev. Hackney gave the closing prayer.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gardner were advised that his father, Emery Gardner, 80, of Paris, Tenn., was injured Jan. 28 when a semitrailer truck crowded him on the bridge over the Paris landing. He received severe leg injuries and shock. His condition is improving.

The students and teachers of Bell City schools had a vacation from school last week when the furnace at the high school broke down.

Mrs. Harvey Kelso was admitted to Southeast Missouri hospital at Cape Girardeau for diagnosis, and Mrs. Floyd Davis underwent major surgery at the Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rendleman Sr. were Sunday dinner guests of their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rendleman Jr.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Watson, pastor of the Assembly of God church, Mrs. Frank Gregory, Mrs. Harl Tropf, Mrs. Girtie Lewis and Mrs. Goldie Lewis attended the fellowship meeting at the Bloomfield church last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Odom and daughter Martha of Cahokia, Ill., were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Arnold.

Spring Weather Touches off Fire Season

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)- Missouri's spring burning season opened Monday with a lot of fireworks, the State Conservation Commission reported today.

The only area that got off in good shape was in the eastern part of the Missouri Ozarks region, including the Perryville area, Sam A. Baker, Deer Run and Eminence districts. Only a few fires were reported there and they were quickly put out.

But humidity as low as 15 per cent and temperatures as high as 70 degrees with winds ranging in gusts above 30 miles an hour kept the fire crews busy in other areas.

And Kermit Hafner of the commission's forestry division said today looked pretty much like a repeater.

Generally, losses to the woods and fields were held to a minimum because equipment was in good shape after winter repairs and the fire crews were rested.

The Lake of the Ozarks district, for years the worst in the state, retained that record with lots of fires, primarily in Benton and Morgan counties. Many were roadside sets, the work of firebugs, Hafner said.

The majority of the fires were brought under control by midnight but some were still burning today. Humidity was 34 per cent at Neosho and 36 per cent at Jefferson City shortly after dawn today.

Hafner praised the aid of rural volunteer fire departments that pitched in to help in many districts Monday.

Marilyn Royal Chi Omega Pledge

JONESBORO, Ark. -- Marilyn Royal of Sikeston, Mo., has pledged Chi Omega sorority at Arkansas State University.

Ronnie Triplett of Bloomfield Mo., pledged Sigma Phi fraternity.

One evening shortly before the turn of the century, when the wealthy railroad executive Stuyvesant Fish and his wife were staying at their home in New York City, Mrs. Fish was seized by a sudden fit of coughing.

"Can I get you something for your throat, my dear?" Mr. Fish inquired solicitously.

Mrs. Fish stopped short. "Yes, you can," she replied. "That diamond and pearl necklace I saw today at Tiffany's."

CLEMENS M. WOLFF

MISSOURI KNIGHTS HONOR CLEMENS M. WOLFF NOTED CHURCH AND CIVIC LEADER

More than 300 members of the Knights of Columbus of Missouri convened at a testimonial dinner at the Gateway Hotel in St. Louis, January 29 to pay tribute to Clemens M. Wolff, for 40 years, a leader in Catholic and civic activities in the state of Missouri.

Mr. Wolff, a Master of the 4th Degree of the Knights of Columbus has also been a State Deputy for Missouri and Chairman of the St. Louis Chapter, in addition to the many offices he has held as a Catholic lay leader. He served as Vice President of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Men and as Vice President of The Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies.

Also active in civic affairs, Mr. Wolff has been Secretary of the Cosmopolitan Club of St. Louis and as president of the Optimists Club of downtown St. Louis.

A jewelry retailer with offices in downtown St. Louis, Mr. Wolff has been President of the Missouri Retail Jeweler's Association and President of the Missouri Watchmaker's Association.

SPECIAL PLENTIFUL FOOD REPORT -- CELERY

One of the best buys at Midwest produce counters these days is crisp, crunchy, fresh celery.

Unusually large supplies of this popular vegetable from both Florida and California are reaching the market at the same time, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Furthermore, indications are that the abundance will continue another two weeks or so.

Alert shoppers probably already have noticed more attractive prices on this salad item. Celery does not usually vary greatly in supply or price.

There's not much trick to picking the best of this vegetable value. Look for fresh, crisp, clean stalks, advise marketing experts with USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. Pass up bunches with soft, somewhat pliable branches, signs of a section instead of heart formation, or discoloration in the heart area.

EGGS-TRA! EGGS-TRA!

Headline news from food stores these days includes the increasing supplies of fresh, protein-rich eggs--and the more attractive prices that often go with an abundance.

Alert shoppers no doubt already have seen more reasonable price tags on fresh eggs in food stores. (This is aside from possible temporary changes due to recent snowstorms in the Midwest.)

Eggs often become more readily available at this time of year, but the current supply is more than just a seasonal change. Supplies this spring, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture, may be around 5 percent larger than a year ago.

There are two related reasons behind this increasing supply of eggs, USDA explains. First, there are more hens to produce them, and these hens are laying more eggs apiece.

Shoppers are seeing just the beginning of this increase, USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service -- which lists eggs among our most plentiful foods for February -- expects these bundles of protein to be abundant for several weeks.

By all means, pick up an extra carton or two on your next shopping trip. If properly refrigerated, eggs will keep for about a week the same quality as when you purchased them. And, you can avoid running out of eggs between purchases -- as a survey showed 12 percent of households do.

HOW TO BUY EGGS. . .

The larger the size, the higher the quality. . . .What's wrong with this statement about eggs and their quality?

If you don't know, then the newly revised U.S. Department of Agriculture publication, "How to Buy Eggs by USDA Grades and Weight Classes," is meant for you. And even if you do know about the misstatement, this leaflet -- prepared by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service -- may well coor the to your egg-buying know-how.

As the leaflet explains, "size" and "grade" are entirely different considerations. Size refers to the minimum weight per dozen eggs. A dozen large size eggs, for example, must weigh at least a pound and half.

Grade refers to the quality of the egg. The interior of the egg and condition and appearance of the shell all are considered.

"How to Buy Eggs. . ." offers tips to consumers on how to buy eggs wisely, explaining, for example, when a smaller size might be a better bargain than a larger one.

Single copies of "How to Buy Eggs by USDA Grades and Weight Classes," Leaflet 442, may be obtained by postcard request from the Office of Information, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. Please include your zipcode.

Washington Report

Sen. Stuart Symington

Last year some 18,000 Americans visited the Soviet Union. About 900 of their citizens visited our country. The protection and assistance of our people over there is the primary purpose of the U.S. - Soviet Consular Convention. That proposed Treaty is now being considered by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of which I am a member.

In this country, as a matter of routine, foreigners arrested are entitled to have their Government officials notified and to visit them. But in the Soviet Union even Soviet citizens do not enjoy rights that American citizens arrested there would have under the provisions of this Treaty.

The Treaty provides that U.S. Officials will be notified of the arrests of American citizens within one to three days; and allowed to see them within two to four days. As matters now stand, accused persons in the Soviet Union are not permitted to consult with a lawyer, or anyone else, during the period of investigation. That investigation can last 9 months.

The proposed Treaty would not authorize or require the opening of consular offices in either country; but it would provide a legal framework should consular offices be opened. After studying the matter, I will vote for ratification.

SAFER STREETS NEEDED

In a recent statement on the floor of the Senate, I spoke of the need for crime control.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has reported that during the first nine months of 1966 the rate of serious crime climbed 10 percent throughout the Nation over the corresponding period in 1965. This rising tide concerns every citizen and must be met.

The majority of the crimes now committed in this country are offenses under the laws of the States and the cities. President Johnson has presented a program to the Congress designed to bring more resources of the Federal government in helping to curb this disgraceful development to the extent that the Constitution will allow.

The Safe Streets and Crime Control Act would extend Federal cooperation to local law enforcement efforts. Grants-in-aid are proposed for a program to be undertaken jointly by the Federal Government and the States and local communities, in order to foster the coordinated development of comprehensive law enforcement plans.

These proposals I believe will receive the fullest consideration of the Congress, ALPHA ZETA AND KHOURY LEAGUE

This past weekend it was an honor to be initiated into the Missouri College of Agriculture Chapter of Alpha Zeta, national honorary fraternity for undergraduates in agriculture, and on Sunday to speak in St. Louis at the annual Khoury Baseball League Banquet in St. Louis.

These fine organizations, and others like them, are helping to build a strong and responsible young generation dedicated to making a living reality of our American way of life.

One of LBJ's favorite stories concerns a Texas judge who was called in the middle of the night to be told that his court had been abolished. "By whom?" asked the judge.

"By a committee -- the mayor, the head of the lar association and a banker," said the caller, naming the men.

"Let me tell you about that committee," snapped back the judge. "The mayor stole his way into office, the lawyer is a shyster, and the banker is a usurer like his daddy was before him."

"Calm down, judge," said the caller at that point. "I was only kidding. No one has abolished your court."

"Now, that's not fair," said the judge, "making me say those things about three of the dearest friends I've ever had!"

TRIMMING AWAY THE FAT

The ordinary American, who finds the keeping of his checkbook a not inconsiderable task, surely must be stunned at the size and complexity of the federal budget proposed by President Johnson. Congress, with all its experts on fiscal matters, will be many weeks, if not months, unraveling all the threads of spending that Mr. Johnson has spun in the budget.

Yet every American, housewife as well as professional economist, can grasp the single most important feature of the budget: it is "super-colossal," to use a fanciful term employed by Hollywood motion picture producers. Indeed the administration budget is like a Hollywood production in all its lavishness.

It is true, of course, that a part of the budget goes for necessary expenditures such as national defense. The American people can't afford to skimp on their own security. However, even here economy-minded congressmen should carefully scrutinize proposed spending.

Leaving defense aside, it is clear from the budget that Mr. Johnson intends not simply to have guns and butter, but guns and caviar and champagne. He hasn't proposed any reduction in lavish Great Society spending. On the contrary, the pro-administration Washington Post correctly points out that "outlays for health, education and general welfare programs are budgeted to rise." It adds that "the Great Society programs should be stronger on July 1, 1969, than they are at the present time."

This means that Mr. Johnson has refused to heed the warning yellow light flashed by the voters in the fall congressional elections. The Great Society was a major issue, and the voters sent a much-reinforced Republican contingent to Congress because of opposition to giveaways.

It is unfortunate that Mr. Johnson has not paid attention to the warning light. This is the time to cut down on unnecessary spending.

Consider the farm subsidy program, for instance. Twice the U.S. has greatly depleted its former agricultural surpluses. This means that America is in an ideal position to get rid of the New Deal-style farm programs and to shift agriculture to a free market economy. Farmers and consumers could be happy at the same time, with an end to quotas and controls and subsidies. But Mr. Johnson has refused to take such reasonable action, instead, he has budgeted $3.2 billion for farm subsidies and another $1.8 billion for international food giveaways. The latter never won a friend for Uncle Sam.

Foreign aid has fewer and fewer friends in Congress. Even some of the milder liberals now realize that this kind of aid is "rat hole" assistance. Yet Mr. Johnson proposes to spend $3.23 billion on foreign aid. It will go to countries such as Egypt, which is doing Russia's business in the Middle East, and to Haiti, the voodoo republic in the Caribbean that has a bloody-handed dictatorship that includes communists in its cabinet.

Mr. Johnson's determination to carry on the Great Society extravaganza is evident in his proposal that $18.3 billion be devoted to anti-poverty measures and related programs in the welfare field. This is the part of the budget that should receive principal attention from the revived conservative coalition in Congress. All good Americans are for health, education and welfare. But the question is one of means. The private sector of the economy, working with local communities and the states, is the best sector to handle such matters. Free enterprise is the real employer of our working population, and labor training and related programs should be based on what businessmen -- practical citizens -- determine to be wise and necessary.

Indeed the best way to uplift poor families is to help the head of the family find a job. The way to provide new jobs is to ease the tax burdens on business and to give business incentives to invest more in new plants and services. Yet the Great Society penalizes business, and tries to put the government into the act at every level. This system can't succeed; it can't help the poor citizen in the long run.

If the 90th Congress is a sensible Congress, it will trim the fat from the administration budget and give our enterprising people a chance to create a wider prosperity.

The "Full Faith And Credit" Clause of The United States Constitution

This Court must determine for itself how far the full faith and credit clause compels the qualified or near absolute rule asserted under the laws of one state, that of the forum, by the statute of another state.

Thus, the United States Supreme Court, under the full faith and credit clause, acts as a sort of arbitrator between the States to determine which State policy must give way in the case where the transaction involved in a lawsuit concerns more than one State with a conflicting policy as enunciated in the respective jurisdictionally created commonlaw. As the Court summarized the situation: "We have concluded, however, that full faith and credit does not automatically compel a forum State to coordinate its own statutory policy to a conflicting public act of another State; rather, it is for this Court to choose in each case between the competing public policies involved."

A good illustration of the way in which this principle works is found in the leading case of Association for the Preservation of Freedom of Choice, Inc. v. Simon. Here, the defendant Simon, Secretary of State of New York State, issued a press release to New York newspapers which contained defamatory and libelous charges against the plaintiff, a District of Columbia corporation. Several New York newspapers, with out-of-State circulation, reprinted the press release, and the story thereafter circulated in other States. A New York statute provided that suit for libel had to be brought within a year after the issuance of the first copy of the newspaper or magazine containing the libelous matter. However, a number of other States involved either had statutes of limitation which permitted suit after more than a year after first publication, or which held that the period after which a suit is not permitted will be counted starting with the time the person who was familiar with the party libelled saw the publication, and not when it was first distributed to some member of the public.

SO SAYS THE DIRECTOR

"This is a revolution which will be fought everywhere and we will win because there are more of us than there are of them."

The rallying cry of the Hungarian uprising of 1956? Not at all. These words were shouted by a young agitator in December 1966 during riotous disorder on the campus of a large American university. In a continuing series of events, the academic community has been bombarded with civil disobedience, assaults, threats, and riots of unprecedented magnitude.

I think it is appropriate to quote two statements from students which appeared here in October 1964 and February 1966:

This academic year will undoubtedly see intensive Communist Party efforts to erect its newest facade (the W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America) on the Nation's campuses to draw young blood for the vampire which is international communism. (October 1, 1964)

The unvarnished truth is that the communist conspiracy is seizing this revolutionary climate to captivate the thinking of rebellious-minded youth and coax them into the communist movement itself or at least agitate them into serving the communist cause. (February 1, 1966)

Has this strategy paid off? The answer, unfortunately must be a definite yes. Today the communist conspiracy is reaping large dividends from its persistent efforts to gain a foothold on campus and university campuses and from its dogged determination to disrupt, through mass agitation, the orderly processes of our educational systems.

The great majority of college students are proud of their American heritage and loyal to the traditional democracy. However, it is basic communist strategy to further communist objectives with nonconformist hands, and this is exactly what is happening on some college campuses. The idealism of many American students is being cynically exploited for communist purposes; youthful exuberance is being channeled into unlawful riotous conduct; smoking dissent for democratic processes and moral values is being fed to inquisitive young minds -- all under the guise of seeking equal justice or some other noble cause.

At the core of these campus disorders, and often below the surface, we find agitator personnel from organizations such as the communist W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America and their comrades in the Students for a Democratic Society, a so-called "New Left" group of members of the Progressive Labor Party, a pro-Red Chinese group; and individuals associated with organizations under the control of the subversive Socialist Workers Party and similar groups.

There is no place in the academic world, where unencumbered inquiry is essential, for a riot leader's recently voiced blackjack threat of "If they don't accede to our demands, we'll close down their great and profitable university." This is no calm, deliberate search for truth. This is the way of the totalitarian, seeking to enslave through force.

The university graduate of today will tomorrow guide the destiny of this Nation. We want our young people to be able to think for themselves and to be active participants in community life, but we also want them to realize that freedom and justice are secured by law and order; that lasting rights and privileges are possible only by acceptance of responsibilities and obligations.

By the same token, the demand of the hour is for educators with courage, dedicated to the supremacy of law, unafraid to support American principles, and determined that the communist conspiracy shall not dictate the policies of free institutions.

John Edgar Hoover, Director.

Missouri Press Report

Sen. Edward Long

Have just introduced the Right of Privacy Act which would, for the first time in American history, ban all wiretapping and eavesdropping except in cases where the national security is at stake.

The bill tightly restricts the advertisement, manufacture, and distribution of electronic wiretap and "bugging" devices in interstate commerce.

This bill is the result of my Senate hearings and investigations during the last two years and the strong interest of President Johnson and the Justice Department.

Am co - sponsor of a number of important bills before the Senate this session:

-- A bill to provide on-the-job training, on - the - farm training and other benefits for American GI's serving since the Korean War. This bill will also raise educational benefits for veterans to meet the increasing cost of college education. Am also co-sponsoring a bill to give full war -time benefits to American GI veterans serving in Viet Nam after the Gulf of Tonkin Crisis.

-- A bill to help increase recreation development in the Top of the Ozarks River Resource Conservation and Development Project now underway in Texas, Dent, Shannon, Howell, and Oregon counties. Long range goal of this project is to create 15,000 new job opportunities in these counties to halt the out - migration of young people.

-- A bill to provide special tax credits to parents who must bear the expense of higher education for their son or daughter. Included in our bill this year are business, trade, technical and other vocational schools.

-- A bill to assist State and local law enforcement agencies with the purchase of urgently needed equipment to combat crime. Local police would be greatly assisted by computers for crime detection and two way radios for the policeman on the beat.

In my Washington office recently; William L. Nance of Albany, Missouri. He is National Chairman for Mental Health and Mental Retardation of the United States Jaycees. Our Jaycees are playing an important role in Missouri and across the nation in helping develop local programs to combat mental health and mental retardation.

Personal income in Missouri rose more than 8.4 per cent during 1966, according to the latest report. The report shows that Missourians increased their personal income faster than the nation as a whole. It also shows Missouri ranked fourth among Plains States in average increases in personal income during 1966.

SOCIAL BUT NOT SECURE

It is too late to argue about Social Security. Not only is the plan here, but it is here to stay in an ever-increasing amount.

What few people realize is the futility of getting a full break after a lifetime of making payments. A college graduate who starts work at the age of 22 and retires at the age of 65 will have $31,200 paid into his account. He pays half and his employer pays half, a fact which many employees overlook. Retirement benefits, based on actuary tables, will total $25,700.

The young worker can look forward to getting back $5,500 less than he paid in.

An insurance company which offered a plan of this kind would be barred from writing business in any state.

Had the employe, making the maximum payment based on a salary of $6,600 deducted and banked the present 4.4. per cent from his salary and matched the gradual increases which are already pegged to reach 5.65 per cent, he would, at retirement, have $42,179.42 at a bank savings interest of 4 per cent, according to the National Federation of Independent Business.

Making the situation even more ridiculous is the fact, based on 1963 figures, that only nine percent of the population is over 65. From 65 to 70, the per cent is less than three and it declines rapidly to less than 1.5 per cent over the age of 80.

On the present basis, it can be assumed that some 90 per cent of the population will never reach the age of 65. In gambling odds, there's a nine-to-one chance that today's workers will never receive more than a $225 death benefit and $120 a month for the widow after she reaches 60. The payout is about $20,000 a loss of about $10,000 of the money actually withheld.

Social Security is described as insurance. Yet the same $20 billion of the $22 billion in reserves is invested in U.S. bonds. Readers don't need to be reminded who makes the bonds good and pays the interest. Interest received on reserves is now between $500,000 and $600,000 annually.

Last year, Social Security operated 613 offices with more being opened since to meet increased benefit plans. Administrative costs in 1963-64 were $370,458,000 a gain of $41,418,000 over the previous year. At the rate of increase, in a few years, it is logical to assume that all of the interest earned on reserves will be spent in administration and the department will be operated in the red. In 1957, administration took only 2.4 per cent of the interest earned. In 1963, administration was taking 61 per cent.

Ex-Castro Ally Stalks Cong Now

DAU TIENG, South Vietnam (AP) —Jose Gonzales is soft-spoken, with twinkling eyes and a ready grin. He looks as fresh and green as a brand-new lieutenant should.

But at 25, Gonzales has fought on three continents. He has been a secret agent and a revolutionary. He has survived torture, faced a firing squad and escaped from prison.

In Vietnam, he stalks the Viet Cong with a cold professionalism and personal intensity that even some of his soldier comrades find unsettling. When his company first went into action it was on even money but that Gonzales would be the first to kill a Viet Cong. He was.

The only son of a well-to-do land owner in Cuba, Gonzales left school to join Fidel Castro's guerrillas. When the Batista dictatorship fell, Gonzales was among the revolutionaries who paraded through Havana streets.

Within a year a disillusioned Gonzales and five comrades fled Cuba in a small boat. When the engine failed, they drifted for six days before the U.S. Coast Guard towed them to Miami.

Within 10 days Gonzales had volunteered for the American-backed invasion force then being formed in Guatemala.

"I went back to Cuba on the last day of February, 1961, as leader of an infiltration team," Gonzales says. "Our mission was to prepare the way for the invasion—sabotage bridges and things like that."

But in the Bay of Pigs invasion there was no contact with the infiltration teams. Gonzales was 30 miles away and helpless to do anything when his comrades landed.

For the next 10 months Gonzales "went underground" before being captured by Castro's police.

"The next month was the worst of my whole life," Gonzales recalls. He was beaten, questioned for hours and dragged before a firing squad.

"I heard the shots and knew that I was dead," he said.

The firing squad was using blanks. The shaken youth was taken back for more questioning.

With seven cellmates, Gonzales finally escaped. Five of his companions were shot down, Gonzales and another man got away.

This time, Gonzales escaped Cuba by being smuggled to a Central American country he won't name.

"I made three more trips into Cuba for short periods in the next several months," he said. He only smiles when asked if he was working for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Gonzales says he was then asked if he would go to the Congo. Gonzales says he was fighting "Communist rebels" in an eight-month job, and lets it go at that.

He decided to take advantage of an Army program that allows veterans of the Bay of Pigs force to apply for direct commisstons as officers. In October he resumed his fighting, leading a platoon of the U.S. 3rd Brigade, 4th Infantry Division.

Lt. Gonzales applies his own knowledge to the war in Vietnam. For one thing he wears unmarked fatigues, with no name tags or officer's insignia.

"My men know me," Gonzales smiles." I don't want to make myself a target by wearing all that stuff."

COFFEE CORNER

by Cherie

Well as usual I had a lovely fattening Valentines Day, and here I am simply breaking my neck trying to lose weight. Charles can hardly wait for an occasion so he can buy me a big box of candy, (his favorites, chewys and nuts.) For instance, on Christmas, when I'm stuffed to the hilt with goodies and the pounds are just bulging out all over, what do I always get under the tree, yep, chewys and nuts! And both times after giving birth as I have struggled to come back to reality, who is standing, smiling at the foot of the bed? Who else, but that little ole Charley man and his box of chewys and nuts. And if there is anything I don't need right after a pregnancy, its candy. I remember I could have just died with Brete, cause came time to go home from the hospital, and I was still so fat I couldn't get in any clothes, and ended up wearing the maternity outfit home that I had arrived in. What a low blow, I mean how demoralized can you get? Brother, what I couldn't have done with that box of chewys and nuts about then!!!

So, here it is around Valentines Day, and who swishes in with a box of candy, yep, and on top of this, I have to bake four dozen cupcakes for the first grade school party. I tell you, if some of this sugar would only rub off on my disposition, I'd be the sweetest thing in the four state area, and that I ain't, just ask Charles. I decided the other day that I'd better put something else in that den with that new divan, so it wouldn't look so lonesome, and all I did was send out three new chairs-the den does look better too-I think - I don't know what Charles thinks - we aren't speaking at our house, at least he isn't. Says he doesn't care for the color, but the ole dear is colorblind, so I don't know what effect he thinks that argument is going to have with me. Well, guess I'd better shut up, when he finishes reading this I'll end up next year without even any chewys and nuts.

TRUTH: Man's mind is powerful, great and wonderful, yet it is far short of perfect. Men cannot agree with each other upon what is truth, nor what is important, nor yet upon what is trivial. Few minds comprehend the divine tongue. No man is perfect. That is why judges err, and wise men do foolish things. The wise, the foolish, and all between claim each to have the light and right and truth in his own exlcusive possession. I say one thing, you another, and our neighbor yet another. But truth is present somewhere. Truth is stable. It is lasting. It is our duty to study and search that we may become less foolish, more wise, and nearer to the truth always.

Judge C. Myers

In our Parish, some people had difficulty getting used to the Mass in English. As I walked to church one Sunday morning I met the little girl next door returning from Mass.

"Who said the nine?" I asked.

"Father Regan said Mass," Sheila replied, "and Father Smith did all the interrupting."

Scramble For Supper

Scrambled - a U.S. Department of Agriculture survey revealed -- is the favorite way of homemakers to fix eggs for an evening meal. As a matter of fact, scrambling is a favorite style of eggs for any meal.

One of the chief reasons behind this preference is the ease with which they are prepared. And, for modern homemakers it often is a "scramble" to fix supper in short time.

Equally important as ease and speed are the attractive price tags on eggs in many food stores these days. Budgetwise meal planners will be glad to learn that the abundance which produced this savings on eggs is expected to continue for several weeks, according to USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Another savings is possible with the purchase of less than top-quality eggs, if available. Scrambled eggs, especially when combined with flavorings from other foods, will not require the delicate flavor and fine appearance of Grades AA and A. These grades, however, are especially good for frying and poaching, where appearance is important.

Lent, too, will make eggs increasingly popular for more than just breakfast. For those who will continue to observe former fasting rules, eggs provide a protein-rich "meatless" meal.

To add a little variety to your next scrambled eggs for supper, USDA suggests the following "exotic" recipes. They offer added flavor interest, while losing none of the ease and speed of preparation.

RAREBIT SCRAMBLE

1 T butter or margarine
1/4 lb. (1 cup) grated sharp Cheddar Cheese
4 fresh eggs
1/2 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1/2 t salt
Dash pepper
Chopped sauteed onion, if desired

Melt butter in top of double boiler; add cheese and allow to melt--stirring occasionally. Using fork, combine eggs, milk, salt and pepper. (Add sauteed onion now if used.) Add this mixture to cheese and allow to cook slowly. Use rubber spatual to lift mixture from sides of pan, allowing uncooked portion to flow to bottom of pan. Cook until mixture has a scrambled look. Serve on hot buttered toast or English muffin halves.

CREOLE SCRAMBLED EGGS

6 eggs
1/4 cup cream
1/2 t salt
1/8 t pepper
1/2 t onion juice
1/2 cup chopped, cooked bacon

(NEA Te!ephoto)

NOVELIST-POET Robert Penn Warren is the recipient of the $5,000 Bollingen Prize for poetry from the Yale University library. Warren, a Pulitzer Prize winner in 1947, was honored for his "Selected Poems, New and Old, 1923-1966," which was published last year.

2 T finely chopped green pepper
2 T finely chopped pimiento
2 T salad oil, butter or margarine
6 toasted bread baskets

To prepare bread baskets, trim edges from fresh bread slices. Butter one side and press into muffin tins, allowing corners to point upward. Place in 400 degrees F. oven until bread is nicely browned (about 10 minutes).

Break eggs into a large mixing bowl; add cream, salt, pepper, onion juice, bacon, green pepper and pimiento. Beat slighly. Heat oil in large skillet over hot heat. Tilt skillet so oil covers sides and bottom of pan. Add egg mixture and cook slowly without stirring, until eggs are partially cooked. Then stir with fork, loosening sides and scraping bottom of pan so liquid portion can run through. Continue cooking without additional stirring until eggs are done as desired. Place hot toast baskets on serving plates and fill with hot scrambled eggs. Serve immediately.

SCRAMBLED EGGS, ORIENTAL SYTLE

1/4 to 1/2 lb. sausage, bulk or link, cut in small pieces
1/3 cup sliced celery
1/3 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup bean sprouts, canned, drained
6 eggs, beaten
1/3 cup milk
1/2 t salt
1/8 t pepper

Brown sausage lightly in a fry pan. Pour off excess fat. Add celery and onion; cook 2 to 3 minutes. Add bean sprouts. Combine eggs, milk, salt, and pepper. Pour over sausage mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until eggs are set but vegetables are still slightly crisp -- about 10 minutes.

MAN IN TIME

He was afraid of storms
and hid in culverts or potato ouses
when they came in.
Sometimes he grew a beard,
in summertime, too -- a red beard --
and he would not wash,
and went for weeks without talking.
Once I saw him plowing past midnight
in a full moon,
crying out at the far turn
to a sleepy horse
that stumbled in the dark --
strange sounds of gee, haw and goddamn
in broken words across broken ground.
Then he would be gone
in polished shoes, shaven,
and wearing a panama hat.
No word for days.
And then smoke from the chimney
and wild curses for the cat,
for the dog, the land, and for the man.
